

The International Renaissance Foundation would like to thank all in building an open, democratic society in Ukraine

International Renaissance Foundation

2008 Annual Report

ABOUT THE INTERNATIONAL RENAISSANCE FOUNDATION

AN OPEN SOCIETY is a society based on the recognition that nobody has a monopoly on the truth, that different people hold different views and interests, and that there is a need for institutions to protect the rights of all people to allow them to live together in peace. The term “open society” was popularized by the philosopher Karl Popper in his 1945 book “The Open Society and its Enemies.” The main traits of an open society include the rule of law, a democratically elected government, institutions of civil society and protection of minority rights.

The International Renaissance Foundation (IRF) was founded in April 1990. It is an integral part of the Open Society Institute foundation network, which was established by George Soros and incorporates national and regional foundations in more than thirty countries around the world, including Africa, Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. The Foundation sees its mission in the financial and institutional promotion of the building of an open democratic society in Ukraine by supporting civil initiatives vital for its development.

The funds operated by IRF are mostly granted by its main founder George Soros. The Foundation also relies on international donors and various Ukrainian and foreign organizations and individuals. Both the transparency of the Foundation's sponsorship and charitable activities and an understanding of its importance contribute to funds granted by IRF for building an open, democratic society being distributed by members of society represented in IRF's Executive Board and Program Boards themselves.

The Foundation's Board is the main public body of IRF and shapes the whole organizational strategy. The Foundation's priorities are determined by the Executive Board and Program Boards, whose members include prominent Ukrainian public figures and experts in the sectors where IRF is active.

IRF distributes the overwhelming majority of its grants among non-governmental organizations after public competitions are held for projects pursuing the program priorities set by leading representatives of local civil society.

In addition to offering grants to other organizations, institutions and establishments, IRF also pursues its own (operational) activities, implementing projects in its target sectors that are also selected by public representatives. Programs are funded from the IRF budget following proposals from the Executive Board and Program Boards.

IRF continuously informs the public about its programs and competitions in media publications, at press conferences and presentations, via the Internet, etc. Foundation staff hold consultations on all issues of IRF activities.

Throughout the period of its activity, the Foundation has offered grants to various Ukrainian non-governmental organizations (NGOs), scientific-research and educational institutions and publishing houses totaling over $106 million.

To read the “Deloitte & Touche USC’ independent auditor's report visit www.irf.kiev.ua.

INTRODUCTION

I N 2008, IRF provided nearly US$6 million in support for program activities aimed at democratic improvements and reform in the legal sphere (human rights, reforming the legal and criminal justice systems, access to information); consolidating civil society (strengthening public impact and control over all levels of government); Ukraine's European integration; media; general and higher education, including inclusive education for children with special needs; public health, including the rights of patients and other vulnerable groups; integrating national minorities into Ukrainian society, while preserving and developing their cultural differences; in the cultural sphere, the Foundation supported the publication of Ukrainian translations of works of global public opinion and development of the Ukrainian publishing industry.

2008 was a difficult year for IRF – as it was for all Ukrainians. Fostering democratic development and trying to support and promote best public initiatives under conditions of permanent political, and later, financial-economic crisis isn't easy. Nevertheless, we believe that despite the crises (or rather – thanks to them), Ukrainian civil society became more mature in 2008. This report reflects those often invisible processes taking place in civil society and the country overall. It contains only the main description of socially important undertakings and projects that there implementing or are being implemented with the financial support from IRF with funds obtained from its founder George Soros and other IRF co-donors and partners.

We would like to add that even amidst the global crisis, George Soros, in approving of the program strategies developed by IRF's Board of Directors and management, has increased the Foundation's grant expenses for 2009 by US$1 million.

The Foundation's charitable donor activity is only possible thanks to the work of independent expert members of the IRF Program Boards, which make decision on the financing of public and other initiatives. IRF would like to thank the members of the Program Boards, our co-donors and partners, as well as representatives of different branches of power, ministries and agencies, that, despite the unfavorable conditions for democratic transformations, were open to cooperation with IRF-supported projects and directly with IRF and its experts.

IRF is still the largest charitable and donor institution promoting the development of modern civil society in Ukraine. IRF sees its mission as not only supporting individual public initiatives and institutions, but in persistently creating better conditions, including legal, which will maximize public activism and public self-organizations in all sphere and levels of Ukrainian society.

THE CIVIL SOCIETY IMPACT ENHANCEMENT PROGRAM (director – Oleksiy Orlovsky) aims to promote the development of various forms of public self-organization, protection and lobbying the government on common interests of NGOs, ensuring equal dialogue with the authorities from development to implementation of decisions on all levels of government, monitoring government activities by NGOs to ensure transparency and accountability to the public.

One of the program's important lines of activities in 2008 was supporting the development of a system of public self-organization. Bodies of public self-organization are representative bodies established by residents of villages, cities, towns or neighborhoods. They can include building, street or block committees, as well as microdistrict, district, city, village and town committees, created by active residents. These groups allow citizens to participate in managing and solving local problems. The issue of improving the normative and legal foundations for public self-organization was discussed during the Fourth All-Ukrainian Conference "Improving the Normative and Legal Foundation for Bodies of Public Self-Organization" (<http://www.samoorg.com.ua>). Also discussed was the new version of the draft Law of Ukraine "On Bodies of Self-Organization" which was to replace the one registered in the Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine (#2108, February 21, 2008).

With the aim of promoting effective public self-organization in communities, support was provided for the opening of centers for organization and methodological support to existing and new public self-organization bodies. They were created locally to provide support to apartment condominiums in cities such as Mykolayiv, Luhansk, Khmilnyk, Kremenchutsk, etc. The centers provide community members with free methodological, consultative, organizational, legal, informational and other forms of assistance necessary for the proper functioning of public self-organization bodies and condominiums.

An important initiative implemented in 2008 was the "European Dialogue" NGO's project "Network of Local Rural Development Agencies in the Lviv Oblast." The project called for actively working with village communities to create local development agencies in the Lviv region. Project activities included trainings for community representatives, assistance with preparing documents to improve public services and supporting public initiatives, preparing 10 community microprojects for submission to competitions, forming a network of agencies in two raions, etc. A special page was created on the www.dialog.lviv.ua website with information about the project.

Civic Assembly of Ukraine (CAU). The economic and political crises exacerbated the issue of public dialogue with the central government. Several professional public associations have already forced different branches of power to engage in such a dialogue, or, at least, start considering its importance. It should have begun at the start of the term of any Cabinet of Ministers or Verkhovna Rada convocation. However, IRF has been supporting the activities of the Civic Assembly of Ukraine, which formulates and voices society's positions on strategic problems of Ukrainian society, for the past three years. Nearly 450 NGOs are currently members of the CAU.

The CAU-2007 proposal on the need for constitutional reform as the best solution to the political crisis was a key public opinion issue. The idea of creating a Constitutional Assembly was discussed and supported during the Second Civic Assembly "A New Constitution: Civil Society's Positions" (June 2008). A resolution with the following demands was approved and widely publicized: that politicians and government representatives refrain from using the constitutional process to gain political advantages; that they stop manipulative attempts to amend the Constitution without wide public discussion and create a Constitutional Assembly that will draft and approve a new Ukrainian Constitution and whose delegates will be directly elected and forbidden to occupy a post in high-level governments within 10 years; introduce a system of "open" (preferential) regional election lists; bring back a majoritarian system for local government elections; increase the accountability of deputies to the electorate, etc. (<http://gau.org.ua>).

Transparency of Revenues in the Ukrainian Oil and Gas Sector. The lack of openness of the state oil and gas sector remains a key problem and one that demands much greater attention from the point of view of transparency and true accountability to the public. In 2008, IRF continued its work in supporting public monitoring of revenues from the production, transport, storage and distribution of energy.

The result was an expert assessment of the most problematic issues that breed public corruption in the Ukrainian energy sector. IRF provided support for trainings on transparency in the oil and gas sector for journalists that was based on the green paper "The Ukrainian Oil & Gas Sector: Transparency of Operations and Revenues" (edited by Mykhailo Honchar, Anna-T Publishers, Kyiv-Sevastopol, 2008, 308 p.). Training and research materials were used in the preparation of numerous publications in print media, as well as radio and television programs. The green paper became the basis for initiating cooperation with similar Open Society Institute (OSI) programs in the US, Azerbaijan, Georgia and Kazakhstan (<http://nomos.com.ua>).

Program experts and experts from these countries developed a strategy to expand the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) to countries across which these energy sources are transported. This document was presented during the EITI Conference in Doha, Qatar in February 2009. At the 5th Yalta European Strategy Annual Meeting July 2008, with co-financing from the Victor Pinchuk Foundation, leading international and Ukrainian experts and high-level officials from all branches of the Ukrainian government discussed introducing principles of transparency and accountability in the Ukrainian energy sector (<http://yes-ukraine.org/en>).

Monitoring the Work of Local Government. An example of effective monitoring that was financing by IRF is the Chernivtsi City Youth NGO “Union of Active Youth” project entitled “Public Monitoring of the Work of Local Government – Barrier to Destruction of the Historical and Architectural Sections of Chernivtsi and the Inappropriate Use of Budget Funds.” During the first stage of the project (the project will last through mid-2009), numerous contractual and budgeting documentation violations were uncovered that led to the destruction of the city’s historical and architectural monuments. As a result of public pressure, workers were forced to redo the work they had already done. (<http://www.pamjatky.org.ua/DetailedNews.aspx?NewsID=6040>)

Promoting Administrative and Territorial Reform. Understanding the long overdue need for administrative and territorial reform in Ukraine, and finding a mutual solution to the various approaches, IRF announced the tender “Promoting Administrative and Territorial Reform.” Support was given to the “Civil Society Institute” NGO (project manager – Oleksandr Vrublevsky) for a project to involve the public in formulating a concept for administrative and territorial reform, implementation policies and relevant draft laws necessary to carry out the reforms – all through direct dialogue with the government. The Ministry of Regional Development and Construction of Ukraine is the government partner in this initiative. Representatives of leading NGOs are part of the Government Interdepartmental Working Group, which was created via an order of the Prime Minister of Ukraine. (<http://www.csi.org.ua>).

Professionalizing Local Community Cadres. Among the several other initiatives support by IRF in this line of activities, we will note only the Podillya Pershyi Association’s pilot initiative “Professionalizing Cadres for Effective Partnership and Local Development in the Khmelnytskyi Oblast.” The project’s goal is to approbate the practical-theoretical course “Professionalizing Local Community Cadres” for local community members. The course is regularly being taught at the Khmelnytskyi Regional In-Service Training Center for Workers of Bodies of State Power and Local Self-Government, State Institutions, Businesses, Institutions and Organizations and in the future will be financed by money from the oblast budget. (<http://www.ppngo.org/eng>).

Electronic Democracy in Ukraine. Electronic government (e-government) is computerized interaction between public administration bodies and citizens, between NGOs and business, as well as within these groups (manager – Olesya Arkhypska).

In 2008, within the framework of the Memorandum of Cooperation signed by IRF, the Ministry of Regional Development and Construction of Ukraine, the Council of Ministers of the Autonomous Republic of Crimea (AR Crimea), and the Sudak City Council Executive Committee (Autonomous Republic of Crimea), IRF implemented the operational project “Creation and Activities of E-Government Centers” to set up the Regional Center for the Development of Electronic Government in the Autonomous Republic of Crimea.

A joint study was conducted with the project’s Council (Council Chair – Inna Maliukova), which included noted experts, researchers, representatives of NGOs, parliament and government, entitled “E-Government in the Autonomous Republic of Crimea: Analysis and Recommendations” based on surveys of civil servants, and representatives of NGOs and business. Trainings material was also developed for the courses “Basics of E-Government” and “Computer Awareness.” Distance education technology is provided by the Electronic Education Center at the National Technical University of Ukraine “Kyiv Polytechnic University” that has been selected by the Ministry of Education and Science of Ukraine as the coordinating center for introducing distance education technology in Ukraine. With support from the Ukrainian Embassy in Denmark and Ambassador Natalia Zarudna, a Ukrainian delegation visited Copenhagen to study the Danish experience of introducing e-government technologies into the everyday work of government bodies, practice in regulating this field, specifics of administrative and territorial reform in the context of expanded use of information technology, and the design and implementation of electronic voting.

Project partners include: e-Governance Academy (Tallinn, Estonia), Ukrainian Internet Association, Science Park “Kyiv Polytechnic,” and world renowned companies specializing in e-government technologies, namely: Intel Ukraine Microelectronics Ltd and Kvazar-Micro. The Regional Center for the Development of Electronic Government in the Autonomous Republic of Crimea officially opened in September 2008 (<http://crimea.e-gov.org.ua>)

A Tolerant Ukraine: Culture of Good-Neighborliness. The Civil Society Impact Enhancement Program supports initiatives aimed at increasing tolerance and the social integration of ethnic minorities.

Work continued on introducing the integrated course “Culture of Good-Neighborliness” in schools and kindergartens in AR Crimea. Taking into account the current social and political problems in Crimea stemming from the existence of different ethno-national, religious and linguistic groups, introducing this course at general education schools may prove to be effective. Future plans calls for teaching the course at Crimean institutions of higher education. The project is implemented by the “Integration and Development” Information and Research Center in close cooperation with the Council of Ministers of the Autonomous Republic of Crimea, local state television, and the Office of the OSCE High Commissioner on National Minorities. Experts from Georgia and other countries are very interested in studying this experience. (<http://www.integration.org.ua/>)

The program supported the “Informational Press Center” NGO’s (Simferopol) project to decrease the negative impact of one of the main factors that gives rise to intolerance in Crimea – land use. The project opened three special consulting centers that provide previously deported peoples with free legal advice and is conducting a campaign to explain land use rights, etc. (<http://www.integration.org.ua/>).

Increasing tolerance and social integration of ethnic minorities is also central to the ROMA IN UKRAINE PROGRAM (manager – Nataliya Kyiak).

The Roma are one of Ukraine’s most vulnerable ethnic and cultural minorities. According to official statistics, approximately 50,000 Roma live in Ukraine; however, experts believe the true figure exceeds 150,000. The Roma minority’s problems have yet to gain proper official policy attention. They are discriminated against by social services, law enforcement bodies, etc. The Roma, as a group, are most hard hit by unemployment, illiteracy, and unsanitary living conditions.

The program directs its efforts at developing and monitoring effective state policy on Ukraine’s Roma people, increasing the level of legal protection for Roma, improving the quality of medical services provided to the Roma population, and increasing employment numbers among Roma youth.

In 2008, during the program’s lobbying of Ukraine’s joining the Decade of Roma Inclusion 2005-2015 communication and information exchange was established with the State Committee for Nationalities and Religion – the government institution responsible for introducing new programs and strategies to improve the life of the Roma minority. With support from the program, the Congress of Roma of Ukraine organized the June 2008 International Roma Conference “Roma in Ukraine: from the Past to the Future” (in honor of International Roma Day and the Decade of Roma Inclusion 2005-2015). Conference participants – representatives of government, Roma NGOs, Ukrainian and foreign experts, researchers from the US, Serbia, Moldova, Bulgaria and Russia – discussed the urgency of state policy on Roma, Ukraine’s chance of joining the Decade of Roma Inclusion 2005-2015, and approval of the new “State Program for the Development of the Roma People in 2009-2013” that was developed by the Congress. The program coordinates its work on this issue with the World Bank.

A groups of projects continued working on improving the Roma population’s access to medical services in the Zakarpattia oblast, the region where the Roma suffer most from socially dangerous diseases. Together with the Open Society Institute’s (New York) Roma Health Program, support was given to an initiative to assess the situation and obtain reliable and relevant data in order to improve state policy on Roma public health. A series of trainings was also held for representatives of Roma NGOS on how to protect their rights and receive medical assistance. For example, in the city of Perezhyn, Zakarpattia oblast, the local polyclinic has an office where the deputy chief doctor holds special open hours.

On the human rights front, the program supports the most active Roma NGOs, which have been working in this field since 2004. Together with the Open Society Institute’s Human Rights and Governance Grants Program, support was provided to a network of Roma NGO’s in the Zakarpattia oblast that work in the human rights field and provide legal consultations to Roma. Within the framework of the “Human Rights for Zakarpattia Roma” project, the Association of Zakarpattia Gypsies “Roma” provided legal aid to Roma at a daily operating human rights center. Most often, human rights organizations dealt with groundless administrative detentions and beatings of Roma, and helped with filling out paperwork to get a passport, childcare or pension. (Center’s address: Association of Zakarpattia Gypsies “Roma” Donska St., 4, Uzhhorod, tel. +38 (03122)13758)

In 2008, the program coordinated the scholarship program for Roma students (joint initiative of the Roma Education Fund and supported by the German Remembrance, Responsibility and Future Foundation. For information about the scholarship program, visit the Roma Education Fund’s website <http://romaeducationfund.hu>). Scholarships were given to 38 Roma students studying in institutions of higher education in Kyiv, Uzhhorod, Odesa, Cherkasy, Lviv and Dnipropetrovsk. IRF hopes that young Roma professionals will return home with an understanding of the cultural and social specifics of their communities and steps necessary to improve their living standards.

THE RULE OF LAW PROGRAM (program director – Roman Romanov) supports initiatives to protect human rights and fundamental freedoms, and promotes institutional reforms in the legal system.

Ensuring Access to Information that is of Public Interest. The right to access to information (according to the Laws of Ukraine “On Information” and “On Public Appeals”) is an integral component of the rule of law and in ensuring greater openness in the work of government bodies and officials. In 2008 this line of activities increased its effectiveness.

Thanks to the program’s support, there were more legal rulings that state officials acted illegally by refusing to provide information or not providing answers to public information requests and appeals. In March 2008, at the request of NGO’s, the Ukrainian government recognized as illegal the practice of applying the restrictive classifications “Off the record” and “Not for publication” to government decrees and removed such classification from nearly 1,500 government documents issued since 1991. (<http://www.stop-x-files-ua.org>)

Supporting Strategic Legal Cases to Defend Victims of Human Rights Violations (strategic cases are cases that serve as precedent for rulings in similar cases in Ukraine). Thanks to the program’s work, in 2008 there was a stable increase in the number of success cases. Dozens of new cases were filed with the European Court of Human Rights. Lawyers who joined the projects succeeded in preventing the extradition on individuals who are being persecuted by their governments in Turkmenistan, Belarus, Russia, Kazakhstan and other countries for the non-violent expression of their personal views. The regional network of lawyers capable of effective arguing court cases in defense of human rights is increasing, including within Ukrainian jurisdiction and with the help of international mechanisms (European Court of Human Rights, UN Human Rights Committee). (<http://hrlawyers.khpg.org/>, <http://www.helsinki.org.ua/index.php?r=a1b9>)

The Rule of Law Program was a pioneer in reforming the free legal aid system in Ukraine. The free legal aid system aims to help people who can't afford legal assistance by providing consultations, information, and a lawyer in criminal cases. The state legal aid program in Ukraine has not been established properly.

Over the length of the project, experts from IRF and the Open Society Institute built cooperation with the legal profession, NGOs, justice and internal affairs bodies. The Public Defenders Offices in Kharkiv, Bila Tserkva (Kyiv oblast) and Khmelnytsky signed agreements with oblast internal affairs departments and provide legal assistance from the moment of detention. The project has had rather impressive results: the number of people detained by those police precincts working with the project has decreased, as has the number of people arrested. The International Renaissance Foundation works closely with the project's co-financer – the Victor Pinchuk Foundation. Joint work continues with the Ministry of Justice of Ukraine on drafting a relevant law and submitting it to the Verkhovna Rada for review. (<http://pravo.prostir.ua/>)

Lobbying International Human Rights Organizations that monitor human rights in Ukraine (UN Human Rights Council, UN Committees, Monitoring Committee of the Council of Europe Parliamentary Assembly). With program support, NGOs draft and present on the international level alternatives to state reports on human rights in Ukraine. The opinions of independent reports are included in the recommendations of many international institutions that objectively assess the human rights situation in Ukraine. (<http://www.helsinki.org.ua/en/index.php>)

A concept for criminal justice reform developed with the participation of public experts (and program staff) was approved by the National Commission for Strengthening Democracy and the Rule of Law, National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine, and approved by presidential decree. Legislative acts are currently being drafted to implement these reforms (administrative responsibility, criminal code, prosecutor general's office, etc.) (<http://zakon1.rada.gov.ua/cgi-bin/laws/main.cgi?nreg=311%2F2008>)

The National Assembly of Invalids of Ukraine, with support from the program, launched a campaign to speed up Ukraine's joining the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities. They also monitor Ukrainian legislation and its compliance with the UN Convention. As a result of the given campaign, the President of Ukraine instructed the Ministry of Labor and Social Policy to sign the Convention on behalf of Ukraine. On September 24, 2008, Ukraine signed the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and Optional Protocol. The program plans to continue working with its partners on ratifying and implementing this important international document. (<http://naiu.org.ua/>)

Information activities in the human rights field include expanding the network of information resources on the Internet. The program provided support to the following specialized portals: Human Rights in Ukraine www.khpg.org, Legal Space pravo.prostir.org.ua, Ukrainian Helsinki Human Rights Union www.helsinki.org.ua, UNIAN Human Rights <http://human-rights.unian.net>, Anti-Xenophobia www.xenodocuments.org.ua, Prison Portal www.ukrprison.org.ua, and Ukrainian Human Rights Portal www.upp.org.ua.

In cooperation with the Norwegian Helsinki Committee and the Ukrainian Helsinki Human Rights Union, the program launched an educational program for new activists, law professors and civil servants. In 2008, 8 week-long human rights schools were held (www.edu.helsinki.org.ua).

Human Rights Documentary Film Festival. In 2008, the festival's audience grew considerably. In addition to Kyiv, the festival was invited to more than 30 Ukrainian cities, including: Vinnytsia, Dnipropetrovsk, Kryvyi Rih, Donetsk, Ivano-Frankivsk, Luhansk, Lutsk, Lviv, Odesa, Poltava, Rivne, Sumy, Hlukhiv, Shostka, Lebedyn, Kharkiv, Kherson, Chernihiv, AR Crimea: Sevastopol, Simferopol, Armiansk, Dzhanbko, Novoozerne, Yevpatoria, Kerch, Krasnoperekopsk, Rozdolne, Feodosia and Yalta.

THE EUROPEAN PROGRAM (program director: Iryna Solonenko; program senior manager: Dmytro Shulga) aims to increase the quality and effectiveness of state policy on Ukraine's European and Euro-Atlantic integration and shape public demand for Ukraine's Europeanization by initiating and providing financial, expert and organizational support to civil society initiatives aimed at transforming Ukraine into a true European state.

Government – civil society cooperation in the field of European integration. The Civil Society Expert Council with the Ukrainian side of the EU-Ukraine Cooperation Committee (a bilateral EU-Ukraine body within the framework of the EU-Ukraine Partnership and Co-operation Agreement) was established and includes 31 independent civil society experts. The establishment of this Council is an important step in terms of institutionalizing government – civil society cooperation in the field of European integration and consolidating civil society initiatives in the field of European integration. The program provided organizational and expert support for the establishment of the Council and organizational and financial support for the work of its secretariat. For more information about the Council and its activities, visit: <http://www.eu.prostir.ua/themes/rada.html>.

Increasing the transparency of the negotiation process between Ukraine and the EU on an Association Agreement. Due to the international conference in Kyiv organized by the Program, Ukrainian citizens and stakeholders learned about the experience and successful practices of involving the civil society and stakeholders in countries of Central and Eastern Europe and the Western Balkan in the negotiation processes with the EU. A roundtable was also held on the issue of intellectual property rights as a component of the Association Agreement. With the Program's support and participation of experts from the Civil Society Expert Council, a study was conducted and analytical report published on the role of civil society in the EU-Ukraine Association Agreement. (<http://www.eu.prostir.ua>). The experts' recommendations were incorporated into draft articles of the Association Agreement. The European Space portal also now includes a separate page dedicated to the negotiations between Ukraine and the EU on the Association Agreement (<http://www.eu.prostir.ua/themes/ua-eu.html>).

Civil society monitoring of the implementation of the Ukraine-EU Action Plan (project by a consortium of leading think tanks under the leadership of Razumkov Centre). Project materials are available under the "International Relations" section at <http://www.uceps.org>). The results of this monitoring – an alternative to the Ukrainian government and European Commission's assessments – were taken into consideration in the EU-Ukraine bilateral report on the implementation of the Ukraine-EU Action Plan (March 2008) and the European Commission's report on the European Neighborhood Policy in 2007 (April 2008). Following the recognition of the authority of the independent civil society monitoring, both the Ukrainian government and the European Commission consulted with civil society experts during the development of the New Practical Instrument (new generation EU-Ukraine Action Plan) between the EU and Ukraine to be launched in 2009.

Civil society monitoring of the implementation of the agreement on the facilitation of issuance of visas between Ukraine and the EU (signed on June 18, 2007 and went into force on January 1, 2008). The situation was monitored in two stages by a consortium of seven NGOs (six of which were regional NGOs) under the leadership of the Centre for Peace, Conversion and Foreign Policy of Ukraine. Representative sample surveys were conducted of people leaving consulates or visa centers who had used the services of 21 consulates of 11 EU member states. According to the survey results, despite definite improvement in the situation with the issuing of visas to Ukrainians by "old" Schengen countries, the agreement has yet to become an effective mechanism capable of compensating for the negative effect that expansion of the Schengen area has had on most Ukrainians wanting to travel to the EU (<http://eu.prostir.ua/news/24965.html>).

The Cabinet of Ministers approved a much improved new State Program of Raising Public Awareness on Ukraine's European Integration for the years 2008-2011 (CMU Resolution No. 594 from July 2, 2008), which was developed using proposals from the Razumkov Centre, International Renaissance Foundation, Internews, and other NGOs based on results of the civil society monitoring of the previous State Programs for 2004-2007 (Razumkov Centre project) and best domestic and international practices. A coordinating council comprised of NGO representatives was established to implement the program and a procedure was approved for competitively selecting NGO projects and programs that will raise awareness of the public about European integration (CMU Resolution No. 956 from October 30, 2008). This sets a precedent for financing NGO projects from state and local budgets in the form of grants, and was the result of efforts by experts from the Foundation for Regional Initiatives, European Law Advancement Network, Razumkov Centre and IRF (<http://www.rada.gov.ua>, www.kmu.gov.ua).

The network of regional European Information Centers (EIC) grew in 2008 by 4 to a total of 24 such centers at oblast libraries in Ukraine that were opened with support from the Program. (contacts for all the EICs can be found here: <http://eu.prostir.ua/in/39896.html>). In July 2008, the EIC Network Forum was held during which an initiative coordinating group for the network was set up. According to the State Program of Raising Public Awareness on Ukraine's European Integration for the years 2008-2011, starting in 2009, the EICs at oblast and raion libraries should be financed from local budgets.

The First European Integration School was held (a project of the Ukrainian European Studies Association). The goal of the annual School is to increase civil society's capacity to influence Ukraine's European and Euro-Atlantic integration processes by deepening theoretical knowledge and developing practical skills. The first pilot European Integration School trained 40 NGO leaders from various regions of Ukraine on how to effectively carry out informational and educational activities in the field of European and Euro-Atlantic integration. (<http://eu.prostir.ua/news/9786.html>)

National awareness-raising campaign "Tolerance as a Path to Europe." In autumn 2008, the Network of Pro-European Organizations of Ukraine conducted the first nationwide awareness raising campaign in the field of European integration, dedicated to promoting tolerance as a fundamental European value. Detailed information about the campaign is available online: <http://www.tolerant.org.ua>.

Open Debates on NATO. With Program support, well-made and unique media products for Ukraine aimed at stimulating open debates on NATO were produced and distributed. The television series "NATO: Friend or Foe?" was produced (excerpts can be viewed and downloaded at <http://eu.prostir.ua/archive/2.html> and used as a handy visual device for public discussion on the pluses and minuses, risks and advantages of Euro-Atlantic integration) along with a Russian language version (suitable for predominantly Russian-speaking regions). The series was aired twice on UT-1 and a number of regional television channels, and was shown by numerous NGOs as part of their informational events. A project is also underway to produce a series of 5 analytical-educational television films "NATO: Myths and Realities" to be aired on regional television in Ukraine.

THE EAST EAST: PARTNERSHIP BEYOND BORDERS PROGRAM (manager – Tetiana Kukharensko) promotes the development of cooperation between representatives of the international public in solving social and socio-economic problems.

In 2008, 500 Ukrainian experts and public activists took part in the implementation of 60 international projects abroad. These were projects such as study visits and internships (for Ukrainian target audiences) and ones with an informational and analytical character, where Ukrainian experts presented domestic practices and experience.

With the goal of studying the European reform process, support was given for study visits on housing and communal services reform and municipal tariff setting (Poland), fiscal decentralization (Slovakia), local economic development and introducing social and ecologically responsible economics (Czech Republic), medical law and insurance (Czech Republic).

Ukrainian experts also had the opportunity to study best practices in such areas as: mobilizing public participation in the local decision-making process (Czech Republic); transparency in local self-government (Poland); gender sensitivity in local government (Lithuania); informational and educational work dealing with European integration (Poland, Czech Republic, Romania); youth leadership (Poland and Romania); mediation in schools and decreasing juvenile violence (Poland); rehabilitation, social integration and support of vulnerable population groups (Poland); social and psychological support for families with autistic children (Poland and Czech Republic); and managed learning for children with special needs (Poland).

Ukrainian experts are actively invited to participate in regional projects on issues that trouble the international community and demand collaborative efforts, joint expert assessments, and constant exchange of information – namely: energy security, migration processes in Europe, tolerance, contemporary geopolitical processes and frozen conflicts, relations between Russia and Ukraine, relations between Russia and its neighbors, etc. These problems will remain in the program's focus in the upcoming year.

Meanwhile, nearly 50 international projects were implemented in Ukraine. We will note the following:

“Information as a Tool Against Illegal migration!” Ukrainian journalists from those regions of the country with the greatest migration problems received assistance from Czech and Ukrainian experts on providing media coverage of migration and migrants. The project is working on a collection of journalist reports entitled “Ukrainian Laborers Abroad: Searching for Ways Out of the Labyrinth of Exploitation of Illegal Laborers.” (http://migration4media.net/uk/about_ua).

Studying Housing and Communal Services Reform in Poland. Polish cooperation between local government, local communal enterprises, condominiums and management companies in reforming housing and communal services on market principles was analyzed and shared. A manual was written entitled “Developing a Training Course for Managers of Condominiums and Local Communal Enterprises on the Basis of the Polish Experience of Reforming Housing and Communal Services” (Lviv-Krakow, 2008, in Ukrainian), that provides practical advice on managing a building, economic and legal aspects of placing a building with communal services under the management of condominium group, etc. Certain information is available on the website of the Center for Local Self-Government Research. (http://www.cdms.org.ua/ua/economic_policy/management/) Program support also made possible the publication of the manual “Public-Government Cooperation in Krakow in Setting Tariffs for Communal Services and Extending the Experience to Ukraine” (Lviv-Krakow, 2008, in Ukrainian) that highlights the public impact on formulating tariffs for housing and communal services – excerpts are available on the following website: http://www.cdms.org.ua/ua/economic_policy/tariff_policy/?articles_id=68&num=0).

“Business Centers – Against Unemployment.” Borrowing the Polish experience, two Youth Career Clubs were started in the Kosiv raion, Ivano-Frankivsk oblast and the Kitsmansky raion, Chernivtsi oblast in partnership with local schools, to help youth make a career choice and gain basic skills to find their way in the labor market in a market economy. Youth employment and business development consultants were trained. A “Business and Youth” training program was developed and manual published. A series of seminars on applied enterprise were conducted for deputy school directors and counselors. (<http://mgcetalon.org.ua>).

“Integrating Socially-Isolated Groups: the Polish and Ukrainian Experience.” Based on the best Polish and Ukrainian practices, recommendations were developed for social workers and NGOs working with socially-excluded individuals – the homeless, long-term unemployed and poor. The recommendations were compiled in the manual entitled “How to Adapt the European Experience to Curing Homelessness in Ukraine” (Kyiv, Narodna Dopomoha, 2008), which also contains a comparative analysis of the problems of homelessness in Poland and Ukraine, excerpts from legislation and a glossary. With support from East:East, project partner Mutual Aid Community “Oselya” published the manual “Everyone has Potential” (Lviv, Pais, 2008), which outlines a method of working with the socially excluded. The “help for self-help” method seeks to help individuals become motivated, grow and function successfully without expecting passive assistance. (<http://emaus-oselya.org/ua>, <http://www.nardop.org.ua/kyiv>).

“Patient Organizations in Eastern Europe and Asia for Patient Safety.” A comprehensive study has been launched of patients’ safety and rights in Southeastern Europe and Asia with the goal of getting participating countries to implement the Global Health Declaration, improve national legislation that regulates patients’ safety, and the international movement for patients’ rights. Material from this project, which will end in 2009, is available online: <http://ps.medpravo.org>.

THE MASS MEDIA PROGRAM (program director – Vitaliy Zamnius) aims to promote the strengthening of freedom of speech and information in Ukraine as one of the key elements of an open, democratic society; support the formation of a pluralistic media environment through the development of independent and professional mass media; and ensure balanced coverage of issues that are of utmost importance for Ukrainian society.

Bureau for Investigative Journalism. The winner of the tender to create a Bureau for Investigative Journalism (BIJ) was the “For Professional Journalism” NGO (director – Yehor Sobolyev). The mission of the “Svidomo” Bureau isn’t to “uncover” social ills such as corruption, but to investigate social processes (to counterbalance facts) so as to stimulate readers to become involved in civic initiatives that may yield alternative answers. The following topics have been covered: “Why isn’t beer alcohol?”; “How the gambling industry is gripping Ukraine and what is the central government doing about it?”; “Knocked off course. What’s the future of the hryvnia?”; “Experiment with the unknown. Why doesn’t Ukraine label genetically-modified foods?”; “Medicine from greed. How to protect yourself from doctors turned medicine salesmen.”; “Blood shackles. Why are patients in Ukraine being infected through blood transfusions?” The Bureau also focused its attention on problems involved with switching to a professional army, hepatitis B and C epidemics, the harm of total gasification of Ukraine, and other issues. Investigation materials are available online at: <http://www.ogo.ua/rubrics/Inves/2009-01-22/28177/>, <http://www.vezha.org/news/12793.html>, <http://20minut.ua/news/141051>, <http://www.gazeta.rv.ua/?n=13771>, <http://www.gazeta.rv.ua/?n=13449>.

The Bureau partners with a number of regional and national publications that obtain and publish all materials prepared by the Bureau; 17 leading regional publications currently subscribe to the given materials. The Bureau plans to launch a website, create a network of investigative journalists, and provide journalists with consultation and legal assistance during their investigations.

“New Ukraine” School of Professional Journalism was Launched. The given tender was won by the Laboratory for Legislative Initiatives NGO (director – Ihor Kohut). The school will promote the formation of a new professional Ukrainian journalism elite, help participants gain a deeper understanding of not only professional standards, but complex political and social processes in Ukraine. 2009 will be the first school year. (for more information about the School, visit <http://www.usps.org.ua/index.php?mid=38>).

Increasing journalists’ professional preparedness to cover a wide range of issues that are IRF priorities. Throughout the year, the Mass Media Program provided assistance to journalist trainings on covering the problem of tuberculosis; a three-day training event to teach journalists how to write about various topics in public health; regional seminars for journalists on inclusive education.

Monitoring Freedom of Speech. The program continuously supports NGO initiatives to monitor adherence to media law and the professional ethics in journalism. The Institute of Mass Information monitored violations of journalists' rights on a daily basis and published the monthly "Freedom of Speech Barometer" report (<http://imi.org.ua/>). The Simferopol NGO "Integration and Development" Information and Research Center comprehensively monitored print media in Crimea for use of "hate language," racist, xenophobic and other language of intolerance (<http://www.integration.org.ua/>). Telekrytyka did weekly monitoring of informational television programs and investigated cases of made-to-order journalism and other violations of professional media standards (<http://www.telekritika.ua/media-corp/corruption/>).

Digital Broadcasting. IRF provided support for an international conference on "Problems of Introducing Digital Broadcasting on the National, Regional and Local Levels" held in Odesa, and the Second International Digital Broadcasting Forum in autumn 2008 (<http://www.dtvforum.org.ua/>).

THE EDUCATION PROGRAM (manager – Olena Zaplotynska) helps employ the potential of the Ukrainian third sector and scientific–educational establishments for the sustainable development of the educational system, improving the quality of education in Ukraine, and providing youth with equal access to education.

University Autonomy as a Component of Civil Society. The project aims to create a new model of relations between the university, society and the state, whereby universities themselves set their tasks and answer for the results of their actions to society in the person of their academic staff, students and local community, caring about the consistency of their goals with national interests. The project is implemented with participation of representatives from the Ministry of Education and Science of Ukraine, the Secretariat of the President of Ukraine, and a consortium of eight universities: Yuriy Fedkovych Chernivtsi National University, Ivan Franko National University of Lviv, Ukrainian Catholic University (Lviv), National University of "Kyiv-Mohyla Academy", University of Economics and Law "Krok" (Kyiv), Dnipropetrovsk National University, V. N. Karazin Kharkiv National University and Donetsk National University. The consortium is chaired by Serhiy Kvit, President of the National University of "Kyiv-Mohyla Academy."

In early 2008, the consortium resumed cooperation with the Ministry of Education and Science and Ukrainian government. In January 2008, Minister of Education and Science Ivan Vakarchuk attended a meeting of the Council of Consortium Rectors, during which they approved an action plan for 2008-2009 and developed proposals for the government's action plan on education. The universities were involved in developing the education component of the Tymoshenko government's action plan. IRF and consortium representatives were part of the working group drafting amendments to the Law of Ukraine "On Higher Education," and the Verkhovna Rada Committee on Science and Education expert group. University autonomy was among the Ministry's priority issues for 2008 (see: Dzerkalo Tyzhnia, #4, 2-8 February 2008). (<http://www.rpl.org.ua>, www.irf.kiev.ua).

"Public Platforms for Education Reform in Ukraine" – this joint Ukrainian-Dutch project was started by IRF and the International Center for Schooling Improvement – APD (Holland) in late 2006 with the goal of starting open and democratic discussions on education problems in Ukraine (project manager – Heorhiy Kasianov). The project envisages the organization of a system of continuous exchange and dissemination of information between the education community, subjects of the education process and local education departments. This project is financed jointly by IRF and the MATRA Program of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Netherlands.

Throughout 2008, the project thematic priority was "School of the Future: Problems of Reforming Education Administration (from Decentralization to Self-Administration)." Project activities were aimed at introducing a balanced model of coordination between all stakeholders working on improving schools (local departments of education, teachers, principals, parents) to implement education reform on the local level with the goal of establishing modern standards of analysis and public debate on socially important aspects of education reform. Poltava and Odesa were locations of trainings (April 2008), a series of field workshops for educators from these oblasts (April-June 2008) were undertaken, two regional (September) and one national (November 2008) conference on school reform and the “ideal” school of the future were organized. Publications included the bulletins: “Ukrainian Textbooks: Time to Speak Out, Time to Act” and “School of the Future”; the brochures “Dialogue on Education: Understanding, Cooperation, Change” and “National Concept “School of the Future, School for the Future: Development of Schools on the Local Level”; and the analytical report “Textbook Publishing in Ukraine. Systematic Problems and Options for Change” (written in 2007). The project will end in 2009.

Introducing Inclusive Education in Ukraine – in 2008 this was the logical continuation of the following projects previously implemented and supported by IRF programs in 2005-2006: “Rights of Children with Special Educational Needs to Equal Access to Quality Education” (Education Program) and “Education Policy on Inclusive Education: International Experience and Ukrainian Realities” (East-East: Partnership Beyond Borders Program). With the aim of promoting legislative changes to further inclusive education in Ukraine, two-day seminars were held in Lviv and Poltava, during which participants developed a series of recommendations for the Statute on Inclusive Classes/Schools and the Social Services Standards for Inclusive Schools; public hearings were held in Kyiv and Poltava, as well as a roundtable during the international conference “National Strategies for Implementing the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities: Policy, Experience, Practice” (23-24 October 2008) (<http://www.ussf.kiev.ua/index.php?newlang=en>)

Law and Education. This new initiative was begun in 2008 – a program concept was developed, consultations were held with interested partners, and the competition “Implementing the Principles of Rule of Law in the Ukrainian Education System” was held. The results will be announced in March 2009. (www.irf.kiev.ua)

Education Administration and Financing: Opportunities for Change. A study was done of the system of school financing in the city of Kyiv, the report “Cities vs. Raions. Administration and Financing of Kyiv Schools” was written, as was a manual for school administrators “School Budget under Conditions of Incomplete State Financing” (it is being readied for publication). This line of activities will expand in 2009.

EXTERNAL TESTING

Center for Testing Technologies and Education Quality Monitoring. Since 2002, the IRF Education Program has been the main initiator and supporter of introducing external testing in Ukraine. In the framework of the project “Center for Testing Technologies and Education Quality Monitoring” (former manager – Liliya Hrynevych) technological and procedural testing cycles were developed and approbated that became the basis for external assessment. A regulatory base was also created. During 2005-2006, there was close cooperation with the Presidential Secretariat on introducing external testing and creating a Ukrainian Center for Education Quality Assessment.

In 2008, the Center focused on building a system of public monitoring of education quality and the state external testing system. With IRF support, the Committee of Voters of Ukraine organized extensive public monitoring to ensure that tests are administered honestly in the regions (http://www.cvu.org.ua/?&lim_beg=105&mid=fp). The Center was part of a coalition of NGOs that kept a watchful eye over the external testing process (22 April – 4 June 2008). The Center also put together a form for public monitors to fill out at testing sites and monitored appeals by students.

As part of the project, the Center wrote an analytical report based on the results of surveys of 11th graders and teachers at general education schools on the level of information available about external testing. The program also contributed to the improvement of the “Statute on Public Monitoring of External Testing in 2008” with regard to involving the public in all stages of testing (information, student registration, transporting testing materials, grading, and applying to institutions of higher education).

In 2008, the Center published a concise dictionary of testing terms – the first attempt in Ukraine to systematize the most common foreign and Ukrainian terms used during the testing process (A Concise Testing Dictionary, compiled by L.T. Kovalenko – K: Hramota, 2008). The TIMO (Testing and Monitoring in Education) newsletter continues to be published (<http://www.timo.com.ua/journal>).

Thanks to the initiative and support of IRF, in December 2008 the results of the Trends in International Mathematics and Science Study 2007 (TIMSS) were obtained and publicized. The study was conducted in May 2007 by the Center for Testing Technologies and Education Quality Monitoring together with the Ministry of Education and Science of Ukraine and Academy of Pedagogical Sciences. Ukraine participated in the TIMSS for the first time (approximately 9,000 students), providing objective information on the state of secondary math and science education in Ukraine, and a comparison with students in countries with different education systems, thus helping identify factors that influence differences in levels of preparation. This will help improve the Ukrainian education system, at least in math and science. The results of TIMSS 2007 are available on the Boston College website: <http://timssandpirls.bc.edu/TIMSS2007/release.html>.

THE SOCIAL CAPITAL AND ACADEMIC PUBLICATIONS PROGRAM (manager – Taras Lyuty) aims to increase access to information (primarily research) so that it can be used effectively; enhance the role of academic publications for the benefit of the development of Ukrainian society; enrich the public environment in Ukraine by using the opportunities offered by new media.

Translation Project – this joint initiative of the International Renaissance Foundation, the Open Society Institute Information Program and the Next Page Foundation (Sofia, Bulgaria) has been in Ukraine since 1998. As of February 2009, 482 translated books have been published in Ukrainian with program support and another 160 are being prepared for publication in 2009 and upcoming years. The project works in partnership with the Goethe-Institut in Ukraine, British Councils in Ukraine, Polish Institute in Kyiv, Polish Embassy in Kyiv, and the Victor Pinchuk Foundation.

Open Access to Scientific Literature. In 2008, the program and OSI provided support to four projects: National Academy of Sciences of Ukraine Programming Institute (Kyiv) (www.publications.nas.gov.ua); Lviv NGO “Centre for the Humanities” (Lviv) (www.humanities.lviv.ua); Oblast NGO “Center for Strategic Initiatives” (Khmelnitsky) (<http://www.csi.km.ua/eng/index.php>); Ternopil State Ivan Puluji Technical University (Ternopil) (<http://www.tu.edu.te.ua/?l=en>).

These projects: created and expanded open access archives at research organizations and educational institutions with full-text publications and educational materials; organized informational seminars for stakeholders – educators, librarians and research organizations – to expand the practice of open access; informational seminars for the media, competitions for journalists that write about open access; competitions for student research, etc.; increased user rights relating to access to information and its effective use in personal and public development. (<http://www.dspace.humanities.org.ua:80/dspace/>, www.tstu.edu.ua, <http://library.tstu.edu.ua>, <http://www.csi.km.ua/>)

The Ukrainian Book Trade Project. After three years, the Ukrainian Book Trade Project came to a close in November 2008. The project was made possible thanks to a grant received by the International Renaissance Foundation and Fund for Central and East European Book Projects – Amsterdam (CEEBP) from the MATRA Program of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Netherlands. The goal was to create a professional and powerful book market throughout Ukraine.

As a result of the project, central and regional government in Ukraine opened a dialogue with the publishing industry, books became more accessible for consumers, and there was an increase in the number of places where one can buy Ukrainian books in Zakarpattia, the Vinnytsia, Volyn, Dnipropetrovsk, Zaporizhzhia, Ivano-Frankivsk, Lviv, Mykolayiv, Odesa, Poltava, Rivne, Kherson, Khmelnytsky and Chernivtsi oblasts and the Autonomous Republic of Crimea (the first regional distribution centers were opened in these cities). The first database of Ukrainian books was created (<http://vsiknygy.org.ua/>), which contains detailed information on 153,721 books by 2,609 publishers (69,221 can be purchased and 5,534 are new releases. Approximately half of Ukrainian publishers and distributors attended the 41 project seminars and consultations. Most participants were successful in starting new sales and publication projects. Internet portals were developed for the Ukrainian book industry: (www.UABooks.info) (Ukrainian Publishers and Booksellers Association) and (www.VlasnaSprava.info) (Business Technology Development Centre). In culmination of the Ukrainian Book Trade Project, recommendations were prepared and disseminated on development of state and regional policy to support of the Ukrainian book industry.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH PROGRAM (manager – Viktoriya Tymoshevska) promotes public health reform and improved overall health of the Ukrainian population through access to quality and proper medical assistance.

Law and Public Health. One of the achievements of this initiative in 2008 was the launch of a new movement in Ukraine that unites more than 25 patient, human rights and medical organizations that together are working on protecting human rights in the public health sphere and are developing recommendations for improving legislation in this field.

The movement united the winning projects that are currently being implemented in several regions of Ukraine – Lviv, Luhansk, Vinnytsia, Kharkiv, Kherson oblasts and AR Crimea. These projects have already helped uncover a number of systematic violations in patients rights that served as the foundation for strategic legal cases that in the future may be submitted to the European Court of Human Rights. Project activities include: providing free legal assistance to patients and families; holding regular educational events for medical workers on human rights that help establish long-term cooperation between public health institutions, human rights organizations and patient organizations (www.healthrights.in).

In five Ukrainian cities (Lviv, Mykolayiv, Poltava, Chernihiv and Kherson), support was given to provide legal defense to intravenous drug users (IDU) and people living with HIV/AIDS (PLWH). The legal assistance provided in criminal cases helped prevent incarceration or lowered the penalty for detainees belonging to these vulnerable social groups, and change the nature of relations between these groups (IDU and PLWH), law enforcement and medical institutions.

In June 2008, a report was presented based on the results of a study conducted by the five projects – “Justice for All: the importance of legal aid in the context of medical services provided to drug users in Ukraine.” This report provides examples of how free legal aid allows intravenous drug users to better protect themselves from human rights violations, obtain medical assistance and improve the quality of their life. (<http://www.irf.kiv.ua>)

Public Health and Education in Ukraine – This initiative aims to promote the further development and inclusion of public health issues in the training of lawyers and doctors. The All-Ukrainian Conference on Medical Law and the Legal Status of Patients (Lviv, 17-18 April 2008) was attended by over 150 representatives of human rights organizations, patient groups, medical associations and health departments. Work has begun on developing the training course “Human Rights in Public Health/Medical Law” to be approved by the Ministry of Health of Ukraine and introduced in Ukrainian medical schools. A training module was developed and approved in 2008 entitled “Human Rights. Instructions for the Police on how to Work with People Living with HIV/AIDS and Drug Addicts,” which is used part of in-service training courses taught at the Kyiv National Internal Affairs University for active law enforcement. This project is being implemented by the Center for Psycho-Social Rehabilitation of Chemically Dependent Youth “Step by Step” in conjunction with the National University “MIA Academy of Ukraine.” The training course will be finalized by March 2009.

Harm Reduction. NGOs working with people directly affected by drug use and HIV/AIDS did advocacy work in the regions aimed at increasing the level of access to medical and social services and preventing human rights violations by medical staff and law enforcement. The all-Ukrainian organization of parents whose children are undergoing substitution therapy “Nadia” was formed and works with potential clients and on informing stakeholders about the advantages and results of substitution therapy. The All-Ukrainian Association of Substitution Therapy Patients started working in late 2008 to unite patients from different regions, represent their interests and protect their rights in Ukraine. A three-day training on “Practical Aspects of Conducting a Media Campaign Advocating Harm Reduction Projects” was held for representatives from six regions (Dnipropetrovsk, Donetsk, Kyiv, Mykolayiv, Poltava and Sumy oblasts). The third summer advocacy school was held for HIV/AIDS NGOs to build their advocacy skills. The summer school was organized jointly with the International HIV/AIDS Alliance. As a result of the trainings, there is a new generation of activists and leaders among those people who have been directly affected by drugs use and HIV/AIDS who have started implementing advocacy projects. (<http://www.aidsalliance.org.ua>).

An information campaign called “Return Ticket” – on the advantages and results of substitution therapy in Ukraine – was launched in November-December 2008. (<http://www.zpt.in.ua>).

Palliative Care – helping those with incurable diseases as a sign of true Ukrainian compassion. With support from IRF, the All-Ukrainian Palliative Care Association and the All-Ukrainian Council for Patient Rights and Safety successfully lobbied the creation of a Coordinating Council for the Expansion of Palliative Care in Ukraine, whose membership and mandate was approved by a Ministry of Health (<http://zakon.nau.ua/doc/?uid=1039.8148.0>). The Coordinating Council has been given the mandate to develop and submit for approval a National Program for the Development of Palliative and Hospice Care for 2010-2014, which will not only make palliative care an element of the general health system, but will require the government to allocate a budget to finance palliative services for the public.

The Program supported projects that gave a push towards analyzing the problems faced by palliative patients from the point of view of human rights, especially related to access to painkillers and overall medical care. An analysis was done and report prepared on access to painkillers (opioids) for palliative patients in Ukraine, the results of which will form the basis for large-scale advocacy and development of normative and legal documents for approval of the National Palliative Care Program (<http://www.moz.gov.ua/ua/main/docs/?docID=10398>).

Access to Essential Medicine. Support was provided for the first time to an innovative project by the “Civic Initiative to Help People Suffering from Chronic Viral Hepatitis in Ukraine” aimed at uniting the efforts of the public, medical staff and patients who have Hepatitis C to develop a joint action plan for advocating improved prevention, diagnosis and treatment for those suffering from chronic viral hepatitis. Information about this project and hepatitis in Ukraine is available at: <http://hepatit.org.ua/>.

The aim of the competition “Supporting Reform of Housing and Communal Services on the Local Level” is to support public monitoring of the quality of local housing and communal services and the development of condominium associations, to increase the capacity of local NGOs and individuals to influence the quality of life in their place of residence (47 applications received, 10 projects supported).

The aim of the tender “Supporting Internet Portals for NGOs” is to support internet portals with resources for NGOs (3 applications received, 2 projects supported).

Important Initiatives and Supported Projects in 2008:

- The Chernivtsi Union of Active Youth implemented a project entitled “Public Monitoring of the Work of Local Government – Preventing the Destruction of the Historical and Architectural Sections of Chernivtsi and the Inappropriate Use of Budget Funds.” As part of the project, a strong coalition of NGOs, public self-organization bodies, city council deputies and active city residents was created and whose work focuses on developing and lobbying the approval of local normative acts that will give representatives of the network “Public Initiative of Residents of Chernivtsi” the right to systematically oversee and control the quality and extent of renovation and restoration work done pursuant to planned budget. During the first stage of the project (the project will last through mid-2009), numerous contractual and budgeting documentation violations were uncovered that would result in the destruction of the city's historical and architectural monuments. As a result of public pressure, workers were forced to redo their work.
- With the goal of introducing administrative and territorial reform in Ukraine, the program announced the tender “Promoting Administrative and Territorial Reform.” Support was given to the Civil Society Institute for a project to involve the public in formulating a concept for administrative and territorial reform, developing policies and relevant draft laws necessary to carry out the reforms. The Ministry of Regional Development and Construction of Ukraine is the government partner in this initiative. Representatives of leading NGOs are part of the Government Interdepartmental Working Group, which was created pursuant to a directive issued by the Prime Minister of Ukraine. (<http://www.csi.org.ua>)

- Ensuring that fundamentals of project management are systematically utilized in the work of state and local self-government bodies and NGOs is key to ensuring effective regional development. The goal of the pilot project implemented by the Khmelnytskyi Oblast Podillya Pershyi Association “Professionalizing Cadres for Effective Partnership and Local Development in the Khmelnytskyi Oblast” was to approbate the practical-theoretical course for local community members entitled “Professionalizing Local Community Cadres.” The course is being taught regularly at the Khmelnytskyi Regional In-Service Training Center for Workers of Bodies of State Power and Local Self-Government, State Institutions, Businesses, Institutions and Organizations and in the future will be financed with money from the oblast budget.
- Supporting the development of the system of public self-organization was one of the program’s important lines of activities in 2008. The issue of improving the normative and legal foundations for public self-organization, the most problematic element of development on the national and local level, were the focus of the Fourth All-Ukrainian Conference “Improving the Normative and Legal Foundation for Bodies of Public Self-Organization” (<http://www.samoorg.com.ua>). The Odesa conference was attended by representatives of the Verkhovna Rada Committee on State Building and Local Self-Government, local government bodies, NGOs, and public self-organization bodies from most regions of Ukraine. (Conference organizer - Association for Public Self-Organization) Also discussed during the conference was the new version of the draft Law of Ukraine “On Bodies of Public Self-Organization” which was to replace the one previously registered in the Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine (#2108, February 21, 2008).
- With the aim of promoting effective public self-organization in communities, the program provided support to a number of initiatives to open centers offering organizational and methodological support to existing public self-organization bodies and help in establishing new ones. Similar centers were created locally to provide support to condominium associations in cities such as Mykolayiv, Luhansk, Khmilnyk, Kremenchuk, and others. The centers provide community members with free methodological, consultative, organizational, legal, informational and other forms of assistance necessary for the proper functioning of public self-organization bodies and condominium associations.
- An important initiative implemented in 2008 was the “European Dialogue” NGO’s project entitled “Network of Local Rural Development Agencies in the Lviv Oblast.” The project involved actively working with village communities to create local development agencies in the Lviv region. Project activities included trainings for community representatives, assistance with preparing documents to improve public services, support for public initiatives, help with drafting 10 community microprojects for submission to competitions, support in forming a network of agencies in two raions, etc. A special page was created on the www.dialog.lviv.ua website with information about the project.
- In 2008, the Princes-Benefactors Ostrozky Foundation implemented the innovative project “Transforming the Cultural Sector on the Municipal Level.” The project provided microgrants to 8 local communities in the northwestern region of Ukraine to solve important local problems through active public participation. In total, 10 local community microprojects were funded.
- Civic Assembly of Ukraine (CAU). The proposal by the First Civic Assembly of Ukraine in 2007 on the need for constitutional reform as the best way out of the political crisis gained the support of many political experts throughout the year and was a key public opinion issues. However, discussions regarding the context and method for approving changes or even a new Constitution showed that the politicum is not ready for such transparent and democratic reform. Taking into account the Constitution's role in society, the Second Civic Assembly "A New Constitution: Civil Society's Positions" was held on 21 June 2008. It brought together nearly three hundred civil society representatives, who discussed and approved the idea of creating a Constitutional Assembly. The participants of the Second Assembly passed a resolution with the following demands to politicians and representatives of state power: to refrain from using the constitutional process to gain political advantages; to stop manipulative attempts to amend the Constitution without wide public discussion; create a Constitutional Assembly that will draft and approve a new Ukrainian Constitution (The delegates will be directly elected and forbidden to occupy a post in high-level government within the next 10 years); introduce a system of "open" (preferential) regional election lists; bring back a majoritarian system for local government elections; increase the accountability of deputies to the electorate, and others. For more information about this initiative, visit: <http://gau.org.ua>.

- Work begun in 2007 on promoting public monitoring of revenues from the extraction, transport, storage and distribution of energy resources continued in 2008. Work also continued on monitoring the openness and transparency of the financial operations by the government and state-owned enterprises, including revenues from the transport of energy resources produced in Ukraine and those produced by Russia and other CIS countries that transit through Ukraine on their way to European markets. As a result, the most problematic issues in the Ukrainian energy sector and those that breed government corruption were identified. Together with IRF's Media Program, the program provided support for trainings on transparency in the oil and gas sector for journalists that were based on the green paper "The Ukrainian Oil & Gas Sector: Transparency of Operations and Revenues." The research materials were also used in drafting articles for publication in the media, as were presented by project experts on radio and television programs. The green paper was sent to parliamentarians, members of the government, representatives of leading political forces, experts, journalists, etc. (see: <http://nomos.com.ua>) It also became the basis for initiating cooperation with the Revenue Watch Institute (RWI) (NYC) and analogous Open Society Institute (OSI) programs in Azerbaijan, Georgia and Kazakhstan. Program experts and experts from these countries developed a strategic document to extend the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) to countries across which hydrocarbon resources are transported. This document was presented during the EITI Conference in Doha, Qatar in February 2009.
- At the 5th Yalta European Strategy Annual Meeting in July 2008, with co-financing from the Victor Pinchuk Foundation, leading international and Ukrainian experts and high-level officials from all branches of the Ukrainian government discussed the need to introduce principles of transparency and accountability in the Ukrainian energy sector. During the event, the results of the IRF project "Transparency of Revenues in the Oil and Gas Sector" was presented and discussed. <http://yes-ukraine.org/en>
- The program supported initiatives aimed at increasing tolerance in society and promoting social integration of ethnic minorities. Work continued on implementing the integrated course "Culture of Good-Neighborliness" into the curriculum at schools and kindergartens in the Autonomous Republic of Crimea. Given the rather complicated sociopolitical situation in the Crimea resulting from confrontation between representatives of different national, religious, language and other population groups, it is extremely important that this course be taught. Future plans call for this course to be taught also at higher education institutions in the Crimea. The project is being implemented by the Simferopol Integration and Development Information and Research Center, in close cooperation with the Council of Ministers of the Autonomous Republic of Crimea, local state television, and the Office of the OSCE High Commissioner on National Minorities, which provided co-financing for these activities. The experience of implementing this unique project is shared with Ukrainian and foreign NGOs at various events. Representatives from Georgian NGOs have expressed a strong interest in studying this experience. They have asked the course developers to visit Tbilisi and help Georgian experts develop a similar course.

- The program supported the project by the Information Press Center aimed at providing informational and legal assistance to repatriated people to help resolve land issues, promoting tolerant relations between different ethnic and religious groups, and integrating the Crimean Tatars and other ethnic minorities that were deported from Crimea in the past into Ukrainian society. A public awareness campaign was conducted in the form of a television series called “Right to Land.” Each of the episodes showed real stories of people who encountered problems and is accompanied by commentary from a lawyer or expert on land relations who explains concrete measures for resolving such problems. <http://www.ipc.crimea.ua/>
- Electronic government (e-government) is computerized interaction between public administration bodies and citizens, between NGOs and business, as well as inside these groups. In 2008, within the framework of the Memorandum of Cooperation signed by IRF, the Ministry of Regional Development and Construction of Ukraine, the Council of Ministers of the Autonomous Republic of Crimea (AR Crimea), and the Sudak City Council Executive Committee (Autonomous Republic of Crimea), IRF implemented the operational project “Creating and Operating E-Government Centers” to set up the Regional Center for the Development of Electronic Government in the Autonomous Republic of Crimea. A joint study was conducted with the project’s council (Council Chair – Inna Maliukova), which included noted experts, researchers, representatives of NGOs, parliament and government, entitled “E-Government in the Autonomous Republic of Crimea: Analysis and Recommendations” based on surveys of civil servants, and representatives of NGOs and business. Trainings material was also developed for the courses “Basics of E-Government” and “Computer Awareness.” Distance education technology is provided by the Electronic Education Center at the National Technical University of Ukraine “Kyiv Polytechnic University” that has been selected by the Ministry of Education and Science of Ukraine as the coordinating center for distance education technology in Ukraine. With support from the Ukrainian Embassy in Denmark and Ambassador Natalia Zarudna, a Ukrainian delegation visited Copenhagen to study the Danish experience of introducing e-government technologies into the everyday work of government bodies, practice in regulating this field, specifics of administrative and territorial reform in the context of expanded use of information technology, and the design and implementation of electronic voting. Project partners include the e-Governance Academy (Tallinn, Estonia), Ukrainian Internet Association, Science Park “Kyiv Polytechnic,” and world renowned companies specializing in e-government technologies - Intel Ukraine Microelectronics Ltd and Kvazar-Micro. The Regional Center for the Development of Electronic Government in the Autonomous Republic of Crimea officially opened in September 2008 (<http://crimea.e-gov.org.ua>).

Difficulties in Attaining the Program’s Priorities:

As we expected when planning our program activities for 2008-2010, the greatest difficulties were due to the unstable political situation in Ukraine. In 2008, political instability became a permanent factor and was the biggest threat to effective program implementation within the timeframe of the approved strategy.

The elections held in late 2007 did not put an end to the political crisis. During the election campaign, the greatest blow to the development of civil society in Ukraine was the populism expressed by all the main political players. Politicians failed to recognize the group interests of NGOs. They appealed to each voter as a separate individual, promising to significantly increase pensions, salaries, monetary payments following the birth of a child, etc. However, all these promises remain merely campaign slogans.

Political populism put civil society development on the back burner. The rivalry over the distribution of power between the president and prime minister made it difficult to establish effective cooperation between civil society organizations and government institutions. This also had a negative effect on the unity of "team orange." This situation resulted in a new round of confrontation between different political forces, their politicians and society.

Similar problems can be seen on the local government level. City councils that were formed on the basis of party lists do not represent the interests of residents of different parts of the territorial community and have distanced themselves from the problems of the individual voter. Changes in the political vector on the central level led to a definite reshaping of coalitions on the local level. Comprised mainly of representatives of business, local councils have been transformed into instruments for redistributing ownership of communal property and land. As a result, local government bodies have become increasingly corrupt. Some try to shun the needs of the members of the territorial community and have only a formal attitude towards cooperating with civil society institutions.

Based on the conclusions of the study "Electronic Government in Ukraine: Analysis and Recommendations" (conducted with support from the program), Ukraine has the potential for introducing e-government practices: the legal regulatory framework is in place. E-government technologies are being used in some agencies, regions, executive and local self-government bodies. In March 2008, the State Committee on Informatization was created and many of its responsibilities are related to e-government. One of the reasons for the slow development of e-government is the lack of professional cadres and absence of a coordinating institution within the Committee that would effectively coordinate all the components (research, organization, technology, training, consultation and education).

Political instability also hinders the development of civil society. Unformulated benchmarks for social development and the absence of political stability result in civil society organizations lacking a consolidated position when forming their own positions and defending citizens' interests before government bodies.

The significant rise in inflation, financial crisis and the increase in the value of the dollar in relation to the domestic currency resulted in increased costs for NGO activities, offices expenses, etc. Qualified staff are leaving the sector to work in business and government. This is posing a serious threat to the effective implementation of civil society organization projects. Civil society organizations are being forced to take on more projects than before, which also does not help increase the quality of their work.

Moreover, decreased international financing for public initiatives objectively decreases the number of organizations that receive financing to cover their own project activities. Indirect evidence of this is the significant increase (approximately 1.5 times) in the number of projects submitted to the program for review over the past 2 years. However, given the limited financial resources and inflation, the number of projects supported by the program is decreasing somewhat. As such, there exists a serious threat that the number of active civil society organizations will drop, especially in the regions of Ukraine.

Partnership and Cooperation:

On 25 December 2008, IRF, the Swiss-Ukrainian Decentralization Support Project, the East Europe Foundation, and the Ministry for Regional Development and Construction signed a Memorandum of Understanding on implementing a joint initiative to support administrative and territorial reform in Ukraine. The goal of the memorandum is to coordinate the work of all the signing parties in involving the public and outside experts in introducing administrative and territorial reform in Ukraine and providing state government bodies with recommendations and policy proposals on ways to develop and implement reforms.

With expert support from the program, and in cooperation with the Ministry of Justice of Ukraine and a number of NGOs, a draft Resolution of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine "On Approving a Procedure for Public Expert Assessment of the Activities of Bodies of Executive Power" was developed. It was approved by the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine on 5 November 2008 as Resolution No. 976.

Preparation and expert evaluation of the new draft version of the Law of Ukraine "On Bodies of Public Self-Organization" it being done together with the Verkhovna Rada Committee on State Building and Local Self-Government. The bill simplifies the work of and procedure for establishing bodies of public self-organization and increases their role in the system of local self-government.

In addition, the program is in constant contact with the Ministry of Housing and Communal Services of Ukraine, and holds working meetings with the leadership of the Public Relations Department of the Secretariat of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, during which discussions are held on cooperating to ensure public participation in the development and public discussion of state policy issues.

EUROPEAN PROGRAM

EUROPEAN PROGRAM

Number of Projects:	48
Number of Organizations:	41
Total Amount:	$597,718
Share of Total Project Expenditures:	11.89%

Program Goal in 2008: to increase the quality and effectiveness of state policy on Ukraine's European and Euro-Atlantic integration and shape public demand for Ukraine's Europeanization by initiating and providing financial, expert and organizational support to civil society initiatives aimed at transforming Ukraine into a true European state.

Program Priorities in 2008:

- Expert support for the implementation of Ukraine's European integration policy and the EU's policy towards Ukraine;
- Civil Society monitoring of the implementation of Ukraine's European integration policy and the EU's policy towards Ukraine, including advocacy;
- Development of European studies;
- Raising public awareness on European and Euro-Atlantic integration;
- Building the capacity of NGO's and other target groups to consolidate their efforts and strengthen their impact on Ukraine's European integration processes.

Competitions in 2008:

The aim of the competition "Holding Talk Shows on Regional Television Channel About the Reform Experience of New EU Member States and Outlook for Introducing them Ukraine" is to increase public awareness in Ukraine about domestic reforms in the new EU Member States (formerly accession countries) in the political, legal, economic, social and administrative spheres as required by the process of European integration, using televised talk shows with the participation of independent experts from Ukraine and new EU member states. (14 applications received, 2 projects supported).

The aim of the competition "Enhancing the Network of Regional European Information Centers at Oblast Universal Scientific Libraries" is to expand the activities of the existing European Information Centers at Oblast Universal Scientific Libraries and create new European Information Centers in Zaporizhzhia, Luhansk, Mykolayiv, Ternopil and Simferopol. (19 applications received, 12 projects supported).

The aim of the competition "European Education for Youth" is to support youth initiatives – school, after-school and student initiatives – aimed at raising a young generation with European values, sharing informational-educational practices, interactive and role playing methodology for teaching about European integration. (53 applications received, 5 projects supported).

The competition “Publishing Ukrainian Literature on European and Euro-Atlantic Integration” supported the publication of Ukrainian textbooks, manuals, brochures, readers (collections of texts) on European and Euro-Atlantic integration. (12 applications received, 2 projects supported).

The competition “Removing Barriers to Contact between People from Ukraine and the EU by Liberalizing the Visa and Border Regime” supported projects aimed at monitoring the issuing of visas to citizens of Ukraine by the EU member states’ consulates in Kyiv and the regions of Ukraine, monitoring other difficulties faced by Ukrainians who want to travel abroad, and preparing for the start of a dialogue with official institutions and EU member states on further liberalizing the EU’s visa policy for Ukrainian citizens. (44 applications received, 7 projects supported).

The Competition “Carrying out National Awareness-Raising Campaigns on European and Euro-Atlantic Integration” is aimed at raising awareness of the broad public on European and Euro-Atlantic agenda via carrying out national-wide campaigns, in particular those included into wider European campaigns (for instance, under the auspice of the Council of Europe and UN). (13 applications received, 1 project supported).

Important Initiatives and Supported Projects:

- The Civil Society Expert Council with the Ukrainian side of the EU-Ukraine Cooperation Committee (a bilateral EU-Ukraine body within the framework of the EU-Ukraine Partnership and Co-operation Agreement) was established and includes 31 independent civil society experts. The establishment of this Council is an important step in terms of institutionalizing government – civil society cooperation in the field of European integration and consolidating civil society initiatives in the field of European integration. The program provided organizational and expert support for the establishment of the Council and organizational and financial support for the work of its secretariat. The Council’s statute reflects the views of civil society representatives, in particular the section on the Committee’s responsibilities to the Council (the Committee has to inform the Council whether the proposals of the latter were or were not incorporated into Committee decisions, Committee representatives have to attend meetings of the Council, and the Committee has to provide organizational support for the Council’s meetings). For more information about the Council and its activities, visit: <http://www.eu.prostir.ua/themes/rada.html>.
- A number of measures were taken aimed at increasing the transparency of negotiation processes between Ukraine and the EU on the Association Agreement. At an international conference in Kyiv, the Ukrainian public learned about the most successful practices of involving the civil society and stakeholders in countries of Central and Eastern Europe and the Western Balkan in the negotiation processes with the EU. A roundtable was also held on the issue of intellectual property rights as a component of the Association Agreement. With the Program’s support and participation of experts from the Civil Society Expert Council, a study was conducted and analytical report published on the role of civil society in the EU-Ukraine Association Agreement. (<http://www.eu.prostir.ua>). The experts’ recommendations were incorporated into draft articles of the Association Agreement. The European Space portal also now includes a separate page dedicated to the negotiations between Ukraine and the EU on the Association Agreement (<http://www.eu.prostir.ua/themes/ua-eu.html>).
- The results of the civil society monitoring of the implementation of the Ukraine-EU Action Plan were presented (a Razumkov Centre project, in collaboration with other Ukrainian think tanks). The results of this monitoring – an alternative to the Ukrainian government and European Commission's assessments – were taken into consideration in the EU-Ukraine bilateral report on the implementation of the Ukraine-EU Action Plan (March 2008) and the European Commission's report on the European Neighborhood Policy in 2007 (April 2008). Following the recognition of the authority of the independent civil society monitoring, both the Ukrainian government and the European Commission consulted with civil society experts during the development of the New Practical Instrument between the EU and Ukraine to be launched in 2009.

- The results of civil society monitoring of the implementation of the agreement on the facilitation of issuance of visas between Ukraine and the EU (signed on June 18, 2007 and went into force on January 1, 2008) were presented. The situation was monitored in two stages by a consortium of seven NGOs (six of which were regional NGOs) under the leadership of the Centre for Peace, Conversion and Foreign Policy of Ukraine. Representative sample surveys were conducted of people leaving consulates or visa centers who had used the services of 21 consulates of 11 EU member states. According to the survey results, despite definite improvement in the situation with the issuing of visas to Ukrainians by “old” Schengen countries, the agreement has yet to become an effective mechanism capable of compensating for the negative effect that expansion of the Schengen area has had on most Ukrainians wanting to travel to the EU (<http://eu.prostir.ua/news/24965.html>).
- The Cabinet of Ministers approved a much improved new State Program of Raising Public Awareness on Ukraine's European Integration for the years 2008-2011 (CMU Resolution No. 594 from July 2, 2008), which was developed using proposals from the Razumkov Centre, International Renaissance Foundation, Internews, and other NGOs based on results of the civil society monitoring of the previous State Programs for 2004-2007 (Razumkov Centre project) and best domestic and international practices. A coordinating council comprised of NGO representatives was established to implement the program and a procedure was approved for competitively selecting NGO projects and programs that will raise awareness of the public about European integration (CMU Resolution No. 956 from October 30, 2008). This sets a precedent for financing NGO projects from state and local budgets in the form of grants, and was the result of efforts by experts from the Foundation for Regional Initiatives, European Law Advancement Network, Razumkov Centre and IRF (<http://www.rada.gov.ua>, www.kmu.gov.ua).
- The network of regional European Information Centers (EIC) grew in 2008 by 4 to a total of 24 such centers at oblast libraries in Ukraine that were opened with support from the Program. (contacts for all the EICs can be found here: <http://eu.prostir.ua/in/39896.html>). In July 2008, the EIC Network Forum was held during which an initiative coordinating group for the network was set up. According to the State Program of Raising Public Awareness on Ukraine's European Integration for the years 2008-2011, starting in 2009, the EICs at oblast and raion libraries should be financed from local budgets.
- The First European Integration School was held (a project of the Ukrainian European Studies Association). The goal of the annual School is to increase civil society's capacity to influence Ukraine's European and Euro-Atlantic integration processes by deepening theoretical knowledge and developing practical skills. The first pilot European Integration School trained 40 NGO leaders from various regions of Ukraine on how to effectively carry out informational and educational activities in the field of European and Euro-Atlantic integration. (<http://eu.prostir.ua/news/9786.html>).

- In autumn 2008, the Network of Pro-European Organizations of Ukraine conducted the first nationwide awareness raising campaign in the field of European integration, dedicated to promoting tolerance as a fundamental European value. Detailed information about the campaign is available online: <http://www.tolerant.org.ua>.
- With Program support, well-made and unique media products for Ukraine aimed at stimulating open debates on NATO were produced and distributed. The television series “NATO: Friend or Foe?” was produced (excerpts can be viewed and downloaded at <http://eu.prostir.ua/archive/2.html> and used as a handy visual device for public discussion on the pluses and minuses, risks and advantages of Euro-Atlantic integration) along with a Russian language version (suitable for predominantly Russian-speaking regions). The series was aired twice on UT-1 and a number of regional television channels, and was shown by numerous NGOs as part of their informational events. A project is also underway to produce a series of 5 analytical-educational television films “NATO: Myths and Realities” to be aired on regional television in Ukraine.

Difficulties in Attaining the Program’s Priorities:

The domestic political crisis hampers the development of relations between Ukraine and the EU and the implementation of reforms in Ukraine, which thus limits civil society’s impact.

Although program support was successful in setting up the legal and organizational mechanisms for NGOs to receive grants from the government to implement awareness-raising projects on European integration, a review of the state budget resulted in a drastic cut in funds available for the implementation of the State Program of Raising Public Awareness on Ukraine’s European Integration for the years 2008-2011 and means that in 2009 NGOs will not be able to benefit from these new opportunities.

Partnership and Cooperation:

In 2008, the program cooperated with the East East: Partnership Beyond Borders Program, the Open Society Institute Office in Brussels, the Vice Prime Minister of Ukraine for European and International Integration, the Department for European Integration of the Secretariat of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, the Coordinating Bureau for European and Euro-Atlantic Integration of the Secretariat of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, the Ukrainian Delegation which negotiates the EU-Ukraine Association Agreement, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Ukraine, the State Committee for Television and Radio Broadcasting of Ukraine, the Main Department of Civil Service of Ukraine, the Delegation of the European Commission to Ukraine, and the Council of Europe Information Office.

Strengthening the capacity of civil society organizations in the field of European and Euro-Atlantic integration, cooperation with government institutions on implementing Ukraine’s European and Euro-Atlantic integration policies, and monitoring the implementation of respective policies will remain the main goals of the IRF European Program. The program will also actively work on establishing systematic relations between Ukrainian civil society networks/platforms and pan-European civil society platforms, and on supporting joint research and advocacy projects by Ukrainian and European think tanks. Taking into account the EU’s increased attention to its Eastern neighbors and the resulting new opportunities for NGOs, the program will work on influencing Ukrainian policy as one of the regional leaders in the EU’s Eastern neighborhood region, and strengthening the role of civil society organizations in regional cooperation efforts.

In 2008, the program continued implementing its approved strategies and mission - to develop cooperation between representatives of the international public to solve social and socio-economic problems that arose following the collapse of the Soviet Union and the socialist system. Because Ukraine has received much international attention lately, the program also set the goal of creating opportunities to present abroad the best practices accumulated by the Ukrainian public in different spheres, in order to promote Ukraine's image as a state with a democratic pattern of development.

The program supported initiatives to exchange ideas, analysis, experience and knowledge along the following directions:

- Expert assessment of European and Euro-Atlantic integration and studying the experience of new EU member states (including Romania and Bulgaria) and countries participating in the Association and Stabilization Process.
- Strengthening dialogue and the exchange of experience between civil society representatives from countries of the European Neighborhood Policy's eastern vector.
- Strengthening the civil society component in relations between Ukraine and Russia.

Program priorities in 2008 focused on those IRF priorities that required studying and adapting foreign experience:

- Introducing principles of rule of law in society;
- Public monitoring of the activities of authorities and establishing dialogue between the public and the authorities;
- Studying and introducing international advocacy experience (re: consumer rights, environmental protection, etc.);
- Increasing the effectiveness of Ukraine's European integration policy and mobilizing public support for Ukraine's European and Euro-Atlantic integration policy;
- Strengthening the role of independent media (increasing the social responsibility of journalism, journalist investigations, developing media law, reforming state and communal media);
- Introducing best practices to fight corruption;

- Public monitoring of the energy sector; and local budget expenditures;
- Analyzing the international experience in reforming housing and communal services and municipal infrastructure;
- Developing the public health system (developing palliative care, protecting patients' rights, public monitoring of the health sector, involving members of vulnerable groups - intravenous drug users (IDUs) and people living with HIV/AIDS (PLWH) – in the decision-making process).

Competitions in 2008:

- The annual competition “International Experience of Civil Society's Impact on Democratic Transformations” gave representatives of Ukrainian civil society the opportunity to exchange experiences on solving socially important problems, influence the development of society and global political processes, and formulate a development strategy for Ukraine. (67 applications received, 32 projects supported).
- Bilateral competition “Exchanging Experience between the Czech Republic and Ukraine on Issues of European Integration and Implementing Reform” (in cooperation with the Open Society Institute in the Czech Republic). The goal of the competition was to spread the best civil society practices in the Czech Republic and Ukraine in involving civil society in reform and European integration processes. (31 applications received, 13 projects supported).

Important Initiatives and Supported Projects in 2008:

Since most projects supported through the Ukrainian-Czech competition (2008-2009) were initiated by NGOs from the regions, emphasis is placed on introducing European standards and values, first and foremost, on the local level. The partners will share practical examples of how the “European” model for solving pressing issues worked well in the Czech Republic and can be utilized in Ukraine in such spheres as: human rights, health, social integration, etc.

While the projects had different goals, they were all important for Ukrainian society: local economic development, justice reform, medical law, fighting corruption, preventing interethnic conflicts, informing the public about European integration, spreading responsible consumption practices, improving social work with vulnerable population groups, etc. Not all the projects developed legislative changes, but they will all make strong contributions to the overall reform process in Ukraine and will promote Ukraine's integration into the European community and spreading human values.

Among the Ukrainian-Czech initiatives launched in 2008, the following directions are worth noting: development of medical law in Ukraine (the project was responsible for establishing the Ukrainian Foundation for Medical Law and Bioethics and developing a manual on medical insurance) and development of a socially and ecologically-oriented economy (best practices in organic agriculture, ecologically-friendly forest management, energy conservation, biocertification, fair trade, etc. were introduced in three oblasts of Ukraine).

The program also joined the European Program-initiated competition “Broadcasting a Talk Show about the European Reform experience and prospects of its implementation in Ukraine”. Two projects were supported in the city of Vinnytsia and AR Crimea (to be implemented in 2009). The format of the talk show will allow journalists, experts and members of the broad public to express their views on reforms that must be implemented in the process of European integration, and hear the opinions of colleagues from other European countries, including former Soviet countries. Viewers will learn more about fundamental European values and the added value gained a society that respects European standards in such spheres as: human rights, the work of NGOs, local self-government, education and independent testing, health and patients' rights, municipal services and tariffs, regional economic development, the environment, etc.

In 2008, a number of projects were implemented within the framework of the third round of the competition "Public Partnership Promotion in the Ukraine-Moldova-Romania Region" in cooperation with the Soros Foundations in Moldova and Romania. Through these trilateral initiatives, civil society developed recommendations on how to solve the region's problems, in particular those related to regional security, the Transnistrian conflict, migration, minority rights, Ukraine and Moldova's European integration, etc.

Projects implemented by consortiums of Ukrainian, Moldovan and Romanian think tanks produced the following analytical reports:

- "Societal Security". (Bucharest-Chisinau-Kyiv, IEAC, 2008, in Ukrainian, English and Romanian). The focus of the study was the analysis of "society security" and social groupings and identity as factors that determine the ability to react to various modern day challenges. Factors affecting societal security that were studied included: migration, demographic problems, language and cultural factors, citizenship problems, social structure, etc. The report was presented in Ukraine in November 2008. Other works by the trilateral group include: "Trilateral Plan for Regulating the Transnistrian Conflict" (2005-2006) and "Trilateral Approach to European and Euro-Atlantic Integration" (2006-2007).
- "Migration Trends and Policies in the Black Sea Region: cases of Moldova, Romania and Ukraine." (Kyiv, ICPS, 2008, in Ukrainian and English, http://www.icps.com.ua/doc/Migration_ENG.pdf). The report explores common problems in migration flows and migration policies in Moldova, Romania and Ukraine and presents an agenda for improving the implementation of national migration policies through intensification of bilateral, trilateral and broader regional cooperation in management and migration in the Black Sea region. The authors explore such migration factors as unresolved territorial and ethnic conflicts, porous borders, weak democratic institutions, and poverty. The conclusions include a number of recommendations on how to solve similar problems that all three countries have regarding the protection of refugees and asylum-seekers, the implementation of international conventions and asylum legislation, and the improvement of weak integration policies. The report was presented in Ukraine in January 2009.
- "Efficient institutional reaction for combating intolerance and extremism in the Black Sea Region" (Bucharest, IPP, 2008, English). The Policy Paper contains the comparative analysis of the cases of intolerance and extremism, ethnic minorities' rights violation that exist in participation countries. The authors analyze the extremism phenomena particularities in the Black Sea region from the perspective of national and ethnic issues and display the regional view of the phenomena background. The analysts propose a range of well-grounded recommendations to the BSR countries governments on abolition or step-by step elimination of mentioned problems. The report was presented in Ukraine in May 2009.
- An analytical survey by the international group of researchers from Ukraine, Romania, Moldova and Hungary entitled "Interethnic Relations, Minority Rights and Security Concerns: a Four-Country Perspective (Ukraine-Moldova-Romania-Hungary)" (Kyiv, Palmira, 2008, English) was also presented in Ukraine in 2008. The survey presents the recommendations on national legislation development that concerns the national and ethnic minorities rights, improving educational and language policies, the culture of good neighborhood implementation. (<http://www.irf.kiev.ua/ua/programs/ee/news/?doc:int=6123>).

Initiatives supported by the program in 2008 promoted the following achievements:

- in the public policy sphere: public attention was drawn to monitoring budget activities, the oil and gas sector, and the housing and communal services system; based on an analysis of Ukrainian and foreign experience, a number of practical recommendations were developed for government structures and local self-government bodies on such issues as: improving migration policy and state policy to protect the rights of national and ethnic minorities, fiscal decentralization in Ukraine, increasing awareness among local level civil servants of effective public policy, developing a socially and ecologically-responsible economy, developing social partnerships with local NGOs, introducing gender sensitive practices in local government, etc.
- in the European integration sphere: an analysis was done of the best foreign practices in involving the public in negotiation processes with the EU to increase transparency and effectiveness of Ukraine's European integration; methods for teaching European studies were shared and Euro Clubs were launched in schools in the Sumy region; young activists from the Donetsk, Sumy and Poltava regions learned more about European and Euro-Atlantic integration through trainings in these oblasts and study visits to Poland and Romania.
- in the rule of law sphere: Ukrainian judges learned about administrative justice as a European practice of defending human rights in the courts; best foreign practices in mediation and defending children's rights were introduced in schools; a contribution was made to the development of legal clinics and improving asylum services for refugees and illegal migrants by training personnel; best practices in cooperation between the third sector and documentary film makers were shared in order to more effectively use documentary films in human rights work;
- in the media sphere: Ukrainian journalists learned more about socially responsible journalism, maintaining tolerance when covering topics involving national and ethnic minorities, avoiding hate language in the media, especially in multicultural and multiconfessional environments; innovative techniques were introduced for developing public journalism through blogs, livejournals, etc.
- in the health sphere: a comprehensive study of patients' rights in Eurasia is underway; based on an analysis of foreign experience, a training course on medical law and manual on medical insurance were developed; a comparative pilot analysis was conducted of legislation on human rights and access to anaesthetics and palliative care.
- in the social services sphere: an innovative model of Conductive Education Program for children with special needs was adapted; recommendations were developed on returning migrants to their home countries and providing asylum to refugees and illegal migrants; using the Polish experience, a training course on social rehabilitation and vocational training in penal institutions was developed, along with recommendations for social workers and NGOs that work with socially excluded individuals; promoting peer support groups as an instrument to help socially excluded individuals.

INTERNATIONAL PROJECTS IMPLEMENTED IN UKRAINE

In 2008, close to 50 projects were implemented in Ukraine, and two-thirds of them were implemented in the regions of Ukraine. All the projects were interesting and produced results. The following are worth noting:

- “Regulating interethnic tension in Crimea.” The Czech experience of socially responsible journalism and management style of local government departments that work in multicultural and multiconfessional environments was shared. Crimean journalists, teachers and government officials learned more about identifying hostile language and avoiding expressions of intolerance in their daily work. The project participants filed a case with the Crimean prosecutor general regarding an article in the newspaper “Krymskaya Pravda” that expert linguists characterized as intending to spark interethnic conflict.
- “Information as a Tool Against Illegal Migration!” Ukrainian journalists from those regions of the country with the greatest migration problems received assistance from Czech and Ukrainian experts on providing media coverage of migration and migrants. The project is working on a collection of journalist reports entitled “Ukrainian Laborers Abroad: Searching for Ways Out of the Labyrinth of Exploitation of Illegal Laborers.”
- Studying Housing and Communal Services Reform in Poland. Polish cooperation between local government, local communal enterprises, condominium groups and management companies in reforming housing and communal services based on market principles was analyzed and shared. A manual was written entitled “Developing a Training Course for Managers of Condominiums and Local Communal Enterprises on the Basis of the Polish Experience of Reforming Housing and Communal Services” (Lviv-Krakow, 2008, in Ukrainian), that provides practical advice on managing a building, economic and legal aspects of placing a building with communal services under the management of condominium group, etc. Certain information is available on the website of the Center for Local Self-Government Research. (http://www.cdms.org.ua/ua/economic_policy/management/) Program support also made possible the publication of the manual “Public-Government Cooperation in Krakow in Setting Tariffs for Communal Services and Extending the Experience to Ukraine” (Lviv-Krakow, 2008, in Ukrainian) that highlights the public impact on formulating tariffs for housing and communal services – excerpts are available on the following website: http://www.cdms.org.ua/ua/economic_policy/tariff_policy/?articles_id=68&num=0.
- “Resolving Conflicts without Using Force and Spreading the Practice of Peer Mediation in Schools.” Peer mediation programs were introduced in general education schools in three oblasts of Ukraine. This is a constructive way of solving conflicts in schools and building understanding and acceptance of the basic principles of a democratic society: rule of law, respect of other members of society, tolerance, responsibility for one’s actions, etc. Senior classes students were trained at activists and mediators, and will continue to help develop safe school environments.
- “Business Centers – Against Unemployment.” Borrowing the Polish experience, two Youth Career Clubs were started in the Kosiv raion, Ivano-Frankivsk oblast and the Kitsman raion, Chernivtsi oblast, in partnership with local schools, to help local youth make a career choice and gain basic skills to find their way around a market economy labor market. Youth employment and business development consultants were trained. A “Business and Youth” training program was developed and manual published. A series of seminars on applied enterprise were conducted for assistance directors of schools and counselors.

- “Integrating Socially-Isolated Groups: the Polish and Ukrainian Experience.” Based on the best Polish and Ukrainian practices, recommendations were developed for social workers and NGOs working with socially-isolated individuals – the homeless, long-term unemployed and poor. The recommendations were compiled in the manual entitled “How to Adapt the European Experience to Curing Homelessness in Ukraine” (Kyiv, Narodna Dopomoha, 2008), which also contains a comparative analysis of the problems of homelessness in Poland and Ukraine, excerpts from legislation, and a glossary. With support from East East, project partner Mutual Aid Community “Oselya” published the manual “Everyone has Potential” (Lviv, Pais, 2008), which outlines a method of working with socially excluded individuals. The “help for self-help” method seeks to help individuals become motivated, grow and function successfully without expecting passive assistance.
- “Patient Organizations in Eastern Europe and Asia for Patient Safety.” A comprehensive study has been launched of patients’ safety and rights in Southeastern Europe and Asia with the goal of getting participating countries to implement the Global Health Declaration, improve national legislation that regulates patients’ safety and the international movement for patients’ rights. Material from this project, which will end in 2009, is available online: <http://ps.medpravo.org>.

Certain projects that were implemented in Ukraine helped our foreign colleagues learn best Ukrainian practices in such fields as: public journalism (internship for Kazakh experts - mobile technologies); protecting patients’ rights (exchanging experience between countries of the former Soviet Union and Southeastern Europe); socially-active schools as a center of public activism (training for representatives of 16 countries - developing partnerships between schools and the community); inclusive education (internship for experts from Tajikistan - first steps in introducing inclusive education models into the education system); tolerance education in schools (internship for teachers from Georgia – introducing principles of tolerance in interethnic relations in school and after-school activities); exposing the problems faced by people living with HIV/AIDS (internship for NGO leaders from Azerbaijan, Belarus, Armenia, Lithuania and Estonia – working with the media); public advocacy (school for active advocacy for youth NGO leaders from Ukraine, Russia and Belarus); youth entrepreneurship (study visit by experts from Russia, Moldova and Azerbaijan – creating centers for youth entrepreneurship and career clubs for local youth, etc.).

PARTICIPATION OF UKRAINIAN CITIZENS IN PROJECTS ABROAD SUPPORTED BY THE EAST EAST: PARTNERSHIP BEYOND BORDERS PROGRAM

In 2008, close to 500 Ukrainian experts and public activists took part in implementing nearly 60 international projects abroad. These were study visit/internship projects (for Ukrainian target audiences) and informational-analytical projects where Ukrainian experts presented Ukrainian practices and experience.

With the aim of studying the European experience in introducing reforms, support was provided for study visits on reforming housing and communal services and setting municipal tariffs (Poland), fiscal decentralization (Slovakia), local economic development and introducing practices of a social and ecologically-responsible economy (Czech Republic), medical law and medical insurance (Czech Republic).

During seminars and trainings conducted by foreign partners, Ukrainian experts were able to learn more about best practices in such spheres as: mobilizing local community participation in the local decision-making process (Czech Republic), transparency of local government (Poland), gender sensitivity in local government (Lithuania), information activities on European integration (Poland, Czech Republic, Romania), youth leadership (Poland and Romania), mediation in schools and curbing youth violence (Poland), rehabilitation, social integration and peer support groups for vulnerable population groups (Poland), social and psychological assistance for families with autistic children (Poland and Czech Republic), Individualized Education Program for children with special needs (Poland).

Ukrainian experts are actively invited to participate in regional projects on issues that trouble the international community and require joint efforts, joint expert evaluation and constant exchange of information, such as: energy security, migration processes in Europe, tolerance, modern geopolitical processes and frozen conflicts, relations between Ukraine and Russia and between Russia and its neighbors. The program will continue to pay attention to these issues next year.

ACTIVITIES INITIATED AND IMPLEMENTED BY THE PROGRAM

Projects initiated by the East East Program helped drawing the expert resources of Soros Foundations in other countries to formulate priorities for international public cooperation and encourage monitoring and advocacy initiative. These two directions were the most important:

- Together with the European Program, East East initiated a regional public dialogue and cooperation between experts and representatives of national OSI network foundations from Azerbaijan, Georgia, Armenia, Moldova and Ukraine on the European Neighborhood Policy to promote reform by governments in ENP countries. The initiative will develop in the format of an Eastern Partnership (EP) and will support Ukraine and member countries' European integration processes by studying the opportunities offered by the EP, searching for ways to solve existing problems in the regions using the EP, and enhancing the role of the public in the sociopolitical processes in EP countries and the Black Sea region.
- Together with the Civil Society Impact Enhancement Program, East East launched a public monitoring initiative in the energy and budget spheres. An analysis of made of the monitoring experience and practices in Kazakhstan, Azerbaijan and other countries and a plan was outlined for developing public monitoring of revenues and tariff-setting measures in the Ukrainian and Georgia energy sectors. An international expert group drafted an appeal to the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative to extend its criteria to countries that transit oil and gas. This step will promote the transparent recording and distribution of oil and gas revenues in Ukraine and Georgia.

Difficulties encountered by the program:

Unfortunately, the disbalance between the political and executive powers in Ukraine have stalled the adaptation of best foreign experiences to Ukrainian realities and implementation of recommendations made by international projects. In response to this, the program actively involves decision-makers from different branches of government in implementing projects and facilitates direct communication between Ukrainian government officials and foreign colleagues, the public and journalists during seminars in Ukraine and study visits abroad.

Partnership and Co-Financing:

The East East: Partnership Beyond Borders Program would like to thank the Czech, Romanian, Moldovan, Polish, Slovak, Hungarian diplomatic circles and those of other countries that express interest in the program's initiatives, for their attention and cooperation. The Romanian Ambassador on numerous occasions highly appreciated the analytical works jointly produced by think tanks in Romania, Moldova and Ukraine, and whose recommendations are taken into consideration by Romania government structures when developing regional policy. The personnel of the Czech Ministry of Foreign Affairs (Transition Promotion Program) noted the impact the program had on the development of Ukrainian-Czech cooperation through supported projects, which were presented in Prague in November 2008. Open discussions about donor programs are extremely important for the coordination of efforts and efficient use of funds targeted for social development.

The work of the International Renaissance Foundation and the NGOs it supports is increasingly gaining the attention of civil societies in Ukraine's eastern neighboring countries, especially in the Caucasus, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Mongolia and others. In utilizing the program's resources, IRF often becomes the mediator for sharing best practices acquired by Ukrainian NGOs while implementing international projects with experts from other countries and adapting practices to local realities. The East East Program tries to enhance the multiplier effect by supporting the sharing of successful practices, methods, instruments and skills between the public in Ukraine and abroad, and thereby enhancing civil society's impact.

Nearly 50 percent of financing for projects this year came from other donors and programs. Co-financing was provided by: the European Commission, Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Czech Republic, Robert Bosch Stiftung, Open Ukraine Foundation, Charles Mott Foundation, Black Sea Trust, National Endowment for Democracy, Slovak Aid, Hanszaidel Stiftung, Forum of Civil Society of Mongolia, Donetsk City State Administration (Department for Family and Youth) and the Chernihiv Oblast State Administration.

RULE OF LAW PROGRAM

RULE OF LAW PROGRAM

Number of Projects:	44
Number of Organizations:	39
Total Amount:	$1,074,467
Share of Total Project Expenditures:	21.38%

Program Goal in 2008: to support civil society initiatives that protect human rights and fundamental freedoms, build consensus between stakeholders on institutional reforms in the state legal system. The program has two components – “Human Rights” and “Justice.”

Program Priorities in 2008:

- Supporting access to justice;
- Protecting human rights, especially through public interest litigation;
- Enhancing public awareness of human rights and basic fundamental freedoms by increasing the transparency of actions by government bodies;
- Increasing public support for judicial reform (judicial system, court procedures, criminal justice, criminal executive system);
- Introduction a free legal aid system (primary and secondary; in criminal and non-criminal cases);
- Development of administrative justice.

Competitions in 2008:

- The competition “From Soviet Benefits and Privileges to European Standards for Social and Economic Rights” supported NGO initiatives to develop proposals on how to strengthen social and economic rights, and limit unnecessary benefits and privileges. (14 applications received, 3 projects supported).
- The competition “Public Participation in Justice. Justice by way of Justices of the Peace” supported projects to develop proposals on the most effective mechanisms for ensuring public participation in the enforcement of justice in the context of legal reform in Ukraine. (7 applications received, 2 projects supported).
- The competition “Right to Access to Information about Government Activities” supported NGO initiatives aimed at realizing the right to access to information and ensuring greater openness of activities of government bodies, officials and civil servants. (34 applications received, 7 projects supported).
- The competition “Protecting Human Rights through Mechanisms of Administrative Justice” supported public initiatives on comprehensive measures aimed at protecting human rights in the courts in cases of action or lack of action by government bodies, officials and civil servants. (29 applications received, 7 projects supported).
- The competition “Protecting Human Rights in Penal Institutions” supported projects to promote the rights of prisoners and personnel at penal institutions in Ukraine. (20 applications received, 7 projects supported).

Important Initiatives and their Results in 2008:

- Ensuring Access to Information that is of public interest. This line of activities has become increasingly effective. There have been more legal rulings that state officials acted illegally by refusing to provide information or not providing answers to public information requests and appeals. In March 2008, as a result of NGO's campaign, the Ukrainian government recognized as illegal the practice of applying the restrictive classifications "Off the record" and "Not for publication" to government documents and removed such classifications from nearly 1,500 government resolutions and directives issued since 1991.
- Supporting Strategic Legal Cases to Defend Victims of Human Rights Violations. There has been a stable increase in the number of successful cases. Dozens of new cases were filed with the European Court of Human Rights. Lawyers who joined the projects succeeded in preventing the extradition of individuals who are being persecuted by their governments in Turkmenistan, Belarus, Russia, Kazakhstan and other countries for non-violently expressing their personal views. The regional network of lawyers capable of effectively arguing court cases in defense of human rights is growing, including within Ukrainian jurisdiction and with the help of international mechanisms (European Court of Human Rights, UN Human Rights Committee).
- The free legal aid system made it possible to build cooperation with the legal profession, NGOs, justice and internal affairs bodies. The Public Defenders Offices in Kharkiv, Bila Tserkva (Kyiv oblast) and Khmelnytsky signed agreements with oblast internal affairs departments and provide legal assistance from the moment of detention. As a result, the number of people detained by those police precincts working with the project has decreased, as has the number of arrests. An importance achievement is cooperation with Victor Pinchuk Foundation on this line of activities. Joint work continues with the Ministry of Justice of Ukraine on drafting a relevant law.
- Lobbying International Human Rights Organizations that monitor human rights in Ukraine (UN Human Rights Council, UN Committees, Monitoring Committee of the Council of Europe Parliamentary Assembly). With program support, NGOs draft and present on the international level alternatives to state reports on human rights in Ukraine. The opinions of independent reports are included in the recommendations of many international institutions that objectively assess the human rights situation in Ukraine.
- A concept for criminal justice reform developed with the participation of public experts (and program staff) was approved by the National Commission for Strengthening Democracy and the Rule of Law, National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine, and sanctioned by a presidential decree. Legislative acts are currently being drafted to implement these reforms (administrative responsibility, criminal procedure code, prosecutor general's office, etc.)
- The National Assembly of Invalids of Ukraine, with support from the program, launched a campaign to speed up Ukraine's joining the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities. They also monitor Ukrainian legislation and its compliance with the UN Convention. As a result of the given campaign, the President of Ukraine instructed the Ministry of Labor and Social Policy to sign the Convention on behalf of Ukraine. On September 24, 2008, Ukraine signed the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and Optional Protocol. The program plans to continue working with its partners on ratifying and implementing this important international document.

- Information activities in the human rights field focus on expanding the network of information resources on the internet. The program provided support to the following specialized portals: Human Rights in Ukraine www.khpg.org, Legal Space www.pravo.prostir.org.ua, Ukrainian Helsinki Human Rights Union www.helsinki.org.ua, UNIAN-Human Rights <http://human-rights.unian.net>, Anti-Xenophobia www.xenodocuments.org.ua, Prison Portal www.ukrprison.org.ua, Ukrainian Human Rights Portal www.upp.org.ua.

In cooperation with the Norwegian Helsinki Committee and the Ukrainian Helsinki Human Rights Union, the program launched an educational program for Civil Society activists, school teachers and civil servants. In 2008, 8 week-long human rights schools were held.

- Human Rights Documentary Film Festival (www.docudays.org.ua). In 2008, the festival's audience grew considerably. In addition to Kyiv, the festival was invited to more than 30 Ukrainian cities, including: Vinnytsia, Dnipropetrovsk, Kryvyi Rih, Donetsk, Ivano-Frankivsk, Luhansk, Lutsk, Lviv, Odesa, Poltava, Rivne, Sumy, Hlukhiv, Shostka, Lebedyn, Kharkiv, Kherson, Chernihiv, and AR Crimea: Sevastopol, Simferopol, Armiansk, Dzhankoy, Novoozerne, Yevpatoria, Kerch, Krasnoperekopsk, Rozdolne, Feodosia and Yalta.

Difficulties in Attaining the Program's Priorities:

Despite the public's expectations, the country's political elite turned out to be unable to consolidate their efforts and make systematic changes. None of the government declared reforms (legal, administrative, administrative-territorial, tax, agrarian, pension, etc.) currently has any clear mechanisms for implementation, expected results, or timeframes for realization. Hope for quick integration into European structures also proved to be premature. The political will of the ruling elite to adhere to democratic principles has no stable foundation. Insignificant progress in the path of reform is more a response to the requirements of the international community than a reaction to the articulated needs of civil society.

Partnership and Cooperation:

The program cooperates with the Open Society Justice Initiative, Victor Pinchuk Foundation, Ministry of Justice of Ukraine, Ministry of Internal Affairs of Ukraine, National Commission for Strengthening Democracy and the Rule of Law, and Union of Advocates of Ukraine.

MASS MEDIA PROGRAM

MASS MEDIA PROGRAM

Number of Projects:	24
Number of Organizations:	20
Total Amount:	$366,896
Share of Total Project Expenditures:	7.30%

Program Goal in 2008: to promote the consolidation of freedom of speech and information as one of the key components of an open, democratic society; to support the formation of a pluralistic media environment through the development of independent and professional mass media in Ukraine; and to ensure balanced coverage of issues that are important for society.

Program Priorities in 2008:

- Reforming state and communal media;
- Monitoring and promoting the development of media law;
- Promoting professional journalism;
- Public monitoring and lobbying Ukraine's switch to digital broadcasting;
- Supporting the development of investigative journalism as a way of increasing transparency of government.

Competitions and Tenders in 2008:

- The aim of the competition “Supporting a Campaign of Public Lobbying and Support for the Creation of Public Broadcasting in Ukraine and Denationalization of Media” was to support initiatives working to promote the creating public broadcasting in Ukraine and denationalizing media by involving expert NGOs that work in the media field in these processes; supporting a broad public campaign of awareness, discussion and lobbying. (15 applications received, 2 projects supported).
- The aim of the competition “Supporting Public Monitoring of Adherence to Media Law and Ethical Standards of Journalism” was to promote transparency and legal behavior by government bodies with regard to the media, and responsible journalism through high professional standards. (18 applications received, 6 projects supported).
- The aim of the tender “Creating and Running a Bureau for Investigative Journalism” was to develop the genre of investigative journalism in Ukraine in order to promote transparency of government. (6 applications received, 1 project supported).
- The aim of the tender “New Ukraine” School for Professionalism Journalism was to create a communication platform for professional journalists to exchange knowledge, experience, ideas and initiatives, and enhance professional skills and knowledge in different genres. (9 applications received, 1 project supported).

Important Initiatives and their Results in 2008:

- Creating a Bureau for Investigative Journalism. The winner of the tender to create a Bureau for Investigative Journalism was the NGO “For Professional Journalism” (Director – Yehor Sobolyev).

The mission of the “Svidomo” Bureau for Investigative Journalism isn’t to “uncover” social ills such as corruption, but to investigate social processes (to counterbalance facts) so as to stimulate readers to become involved in public initiatives that may yield alternative answers. The following topics have been covered: “Why isn’t beer alcohol?”; “How the gambling industry is gripping Ukraine and what is the central government doing about it?”; “Knocked off course. What’s the future of the hryvnia?”; “Experiment with the unknown. Why doesn’t Ukraine label genetically-modified foods?”; “Medicine from greed. How to protect yourself from doctors turned medicine salesmen.”; “Blood shackles. Why are patients in Ukraine being infected through blood transfusions?” The Bureau also focused its attention on problems related to switching to a professional army, the hepatitis B and C epidemics, the harm of total gasification of Ukraine, and other issues.

The Bureau partners with a number of regional and national publications that obtain and publish all materials prepared by the Bureau. Despite the economic crisis in Ukraine, these media publications continue to pay for subscriptions to investigations done by the Bureau. 17 leading regional publications currently subscribe to the given materials.

The Bureau plans to launch a website, create a network of investigative journalists, and provide journalists with consultation and legal assistance during their investigations.

- “New Ukraine” School for Professional Journalism Launched. The given tender was won by the Laboratory for Legislative Initiatives (Director – Ihor Kohut).

The school will promote the creation of a new professional Ukrainian journalism elite, help participants gain a deeper understanding of not only professional standards, but complex political and social processes in Ukraine. 2009 will be the first school year (for more information about the School, visit <http://www.usps.org.ua/index.php?mid=38>).

- Increasing journalists’ professional proficiency in covering a wide range of issues that are IRF priorities. During the year, the Mass Media Program provided assistance to journalist trainings on how to write about tuberculosis; a three-day training event to teach journalists how to write about various topics in public health; and regional seminars for journalists on inclusive education.
- Monitoring Freedom of Speech. The program continuously supports NGO initiatives to monitor adherence to media law and professional ethics by journalists.
 - The Institute of Mass Information monitored violations of journalists’ rights in all regions of Ukraine on a daily basis and published the monthly “Freedom of Speech Barometer” report.
 - The Simferopol Integration and Development Information and Research Center comprehensively monitored print media in Crimea for use of “hate language,” racism, xenophobia and other forms of intolerance
 - Telekrytyka performed weekly monitoring of informational television programs and investigated cases of made-to-order journalism and other violations of standards of professional media.

- Digital Broadcasting. IRF provided support for an international conference on “Problems of Introducing Digital Broadcasting on the National, Regional and Local Levels” held in Odesa, and the Second International Digital Broadcasting Forum in autumn 2008.

Difficulties in Attaining the Program’s Priorities:

The main problems preventing reform of state and communal media is the absence of political will to create public broadcasting and denationalize media in Ukraine. The obvious reason is that those in power on all levels do not want to lose control over what is already an illusory media resource – state and communal television and radio companies and print media.

The key problem in the media field is the noted drop in activity by the professional journalism community and a lack of understanding by most journalists of the social mission of their profession. This gave rise to the problem of made-to-order journalism, which has become very visible over the past 1-2 years.

These difficulties made it necessary to review the program’s priorities given the change in context. The top priorities are now to focus on increasing the social responsibility and professionalism of journalism and developing the genre of investigative journalism.

Program Partners:

Ukrainian NGOs that work in the sphere of freedom of speech, the media, journalists, authoritative international organizations such as the OSCE Project Coordinator in Ukraine, Internews-Ukraine, and others.

SOCIAL CAPITAL AND ACADEMIC
PUBLICATIONS PROGRAM

SOCIAL CAPITAL AND ACADEMIC PUBLICATIONS PROGRAM

Number of Projects:	46
Number of Organizations:	28
Total Amount:	$327,051
Share of Total Project Expenditures:	6.51%

Program Goal in 2008: to strengthen the role of academic publications in solving social problems and enriching the democratic public discourse in Ukraine. To promote scholarship in Ukraine and satisfy the need for books and research publications. The program focuses on supporting Ukraine's European choice and developing a global public space in which Ukraine is a full-fledged participant, by leading dialogue between people and communities through translations.

Program Priority in 2008: to promote equal access to information and knowledge necessary to ensure public participation in the development of Ukrainian society and promoting understanding between cultures.

TRANSLATION PROJECT

The essence of translation is not to convert from one language to another, but to cross over from culture to culture. Translation is the joint activity of authors, translators and readers in searching for and reflecting on words, memories, perspectives and maps of the world.

The Translation Project, a joint initiative of the International Renaissance Foundation, the Open Society Institute Information Program and the Next Page Foundation (Sofia, Bulgaria) has been in Ukraine since 1998. As of April 2009, 500 translated books have been published in Ukrainian with program support and another 160 are being prepared for publication. For several years now, the IRF Advisory Board has recognized the Translation Project as IRF's most successful program. This component of the program not only supports the publication of translations, but also mobilizes intellectual capital, without which civil society and the public sphere can't exist.

Competition "Translating German Literature into Ukrainian" (in partnership with the Goethe-Institut in Ukraine)

Competition goal: Translate and publish in Ukrainian (for the first time) books by contemporary German authors who write about civil society, rule of law, human rights, social and economic theory, globalization and European integration, mass media, informational society, urban and community development, and which foster better understanding between Germans and Ukrainians and stronger contacts between Ukrainian and German researchers.

Competition focus: To support the establishment of a strong, diverse and independent publishing industry as a necessary instrument of civil society.

In 2008, the joint expert council approved support for 17 German translation projects. (26 applications was received).

Competition “Publishing Contemporary Polish Scientific Literature and Fiction in Ukrainian” (in partnership with the Polish Institute in Kyiv and the Polish Embassy in Ukraine)

Competition goal: Publishing in Ukrainian (for the first time) contemporary Polish literature and essays on communication between political and civil society: works on human rights and Euro-integration processes, modern history, culture, the latest concept on representing public interests at a time of crisis of representative democracy and protecting the interests of minorities.

Competition focus: Increase access to information for its effective use in solving important problems faced by Ukrainian society. Strengthening contacts between Poles and Ukrainians.

In 2008, the joint expert council approved support for 7 Polish translation projects. (25 applications was received).

Competition “Translating Foreign Literature into Ukrainian/Russian” (in partnership with the Victor Pinchuk Foundation’s Social Initiative)

Competition goal: Educational work in the field of philanthropy and social leadership; encouraging the public to develop their own projects to do good for others; helping the Ukrainian audience understand needs and how various forms of charitable, philanthropic and social leadership initiatives are born; providing the readership audience with expert literature; encouraging public discussion of problems arising from the pragmatic aspects of doing good.

Competition focus: To provide Ukrainian readers with literature that may inspire them to do good for others. The target audience includes “the intellectual reader,” public figures, social and political leaders, researchers, professors, students, and businessmen focused on social activities.

In 2008, the joint expert council approved support for 1 project by Calvaria Publishers. (4 applications was received).

LABORATORY FOR SCIENTIFIC TRANSLATION PROJECT

This project is implemented by the Youth Humanities Center with financial support from IRF and assistance from the National University of “Kyiv-Mohyla Academy.” The objective of the project is to create an intellectual environment for professional discussions on strategy and academic quality of Ukrainian translations of Western non-fiction literature on the humanities and social disciplines. The main components of the project are seminars, each of which is dedicated to a text that is being translated as part of the IRF Translations Project or humanities and social sciences terminology. The project promotes the development of the Ukrainian school of translation, and direct communication between translators, editors, linguists and experts in specifics fields in the humanities-social sciences to approve terminology for translated texts and solve problems with the translation of a certain book.

In 2008, the program focused on developing a German-Ukrainian dictionary of philosophical and humanities terms. As part of the first stage of the project, two terminology workshops were held, the results of which will serve as the basis for the dictionary. The following seminars were held: November – Philosophy of Law and Moral Philosophy Terminology” (<http://www.ua-pereklad.org/ua/news/rechtsphilosophie/>); December – “Religious Theory and Philosophy Terminology” (<http://www.ua-pereklad.org/ua/news/theology/>). The project maintains the Laboratory’s website (new address – <http://www.ua-pereklad.org>) and has started a blog called “Academic Translation” (<http://www.ua-pereklad.blogspot.com/>).

PROMOTING OPEN ACCESS TO SCIENTIFIC LITERATURE

Promoting open access policies and practices (journals, archives) and balanced intellectual property rights

“Open access” to literature means its free availability on the public internet, permitting any users to read, download, copy, distribute, print, search, or link to the full texts of these articles, crawl them for indexing, pass them as data to software, or use them for any other lawful purpose, without financial, legal, or technical barriers other than those inseparable from gaining access to the internet itself.” (Budapest Open Access Initiative)

The project is implemented in cooperation with the Open Society Institute Information Program, the Electronic Information for Libraries consortium (eIFL.net), and the Goethe-Institut in Kyiv.

Despite increased access to the internet, over the last few years the scope of users' rights to access information and use it effectively for personal and social development has narrowed significantly. The public needs to understand the results of introducing such strict forms of protection for intellectual property rights and should have access to information for research and intellectual purposes, preserving cultural heritage, etc. Strict standards of intellectual property protection challenge a country's developmental and innovative policy, first and foremost in the terms of access to information about public health. Civil society's job is to turn attention to the negative consequences of prematurely introducing overly strict standards for protecting intellectual property.

Competitions “Open Access to Knowledge” and “Balanced Intellectual Property Rights”

Competition goal: increase access to information (first and foremost – scientific) so that it can be effectively used by researchers, educators, students and wide audiences, and support socially balanced intellectual property rights practices in order to increase access to knowledge and vital information.

In 2008, the program council and OSI network program provided support to four projects: Institute of Software Systems of the National Academy of Sciences of Ukraine (Kyiv) (www.publications.nas.gov.ua); Lviv City NGO “Centre for the Humanities” (Lviv) (www.humanities.lviv.ua); Oblast NGO “Center for Strategic Initiatives” (Khmelnysky) (<http://www.csi.km.ua/eng/index.php>); Ternopil State Ivan Pul'uj Technical University (Ternopil) (<http://www.tu.edu.te.ua/?l=en>). (8 applications received, 4 projects supported).

These projects: created and increased open access archives at research organizations and educational institutions with full-text publications and educational materials; organized informational seminars for stakeholders – educators, librarians and research organizations – to expand the practice of open access; organized informational seminars for the media; competitions for journalists that write about open access; competitions for student research, etc.; increased user rights relating to access to information and its effective use in personal and public development. UKRAINIAN BOOK TRADE PROJECT

The Ukrainian Book Trade Project came to a close in November 2008. The project was made possible thanks to a three-year grant received by the International Renaissance Foundation and Fund for Central and East European Book Projects – Amsterdam (CEEBP) from the MATRA Program of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Netherlands. The goal was to create a professional and powerful book market throughout Ukraine.

Project goals:

- Supporting the development of an informational and communication infrastructure for the Ukrainian book market and strengthening cooperation between market participants.
- Increasing accessibility of books in the regions of Ukraine.
- Enhancing the professional skills of Ukrainian publishers and booksellers.

Project activities and implementing organizations:

- Developing an internet portal for the book trade www.UABooks.info - Ukrainian Publishers and Booksellers Association and Business Technology Development Centre VlasnaSprava.info;
- Creating and expanding 14 interregional distribution centers (Dzherela M and Summit-Book). Developing the book databases <http://vsiknygy.org.ua/> and <http://vsiknygy.net.ua/>
- Conducting workshops for publishers and booksellers (Polish, Dutch, German and Ukrainian consultants and experts);
- Conducting a comprehensive study of the Ukrainian book market.

As a result of the project, central and regional government in Ukraine launched a dialogue with the publishing industry, books became more accessible for consumers, and there was an increase in the number of places where one can buy Ukrainian books in Uzhhorod, the Vinnytsia, Volyn, Dnipropetrovsk, Zaporizhzhia, Ivano-Frankivsk, Lviv, Mykolayiv, Odesa, Poltava, Rivne, Kherson, Khmelnytsky and Chernivtsi oblasts and the Autonomous Republic of Crimea (the first regional distribution centers were opened in these cities). The first database of Ukrainian books was created (<http://vsiknygy.org.ua/>), which contains detailed information on 153,721 books by 2,609 publishers (69,221 can be purchased and 5,534 are new releases. Approximately half of all Ukrainian publishers and distributors attended the 41 project seminars and consultations. Most participants were successful in starting new sales and publication projects. Internet portals were developed for the Ukrainian book industry: (www.UABooks.info) (Ukrainian Publishers and Booksellers Association) and (www.VlasnaSprava.info) (Business Technology Development Centre). Upon conclusion of the Ukrainian Book Trade Project, recommendations were prepared and disseminated on developing state and regional policy to support of the Ukrainian book industry.

Initiatives and Difficulties in Attaining the Program's Priorities:

Throughout the year, the program was responsible for helping organize a number of important events for the book industry – seminars, presentations, meetings. In July, during the presentation Michael Haller's book "Investigation" (Academy of Ukrainian Press) at the German Embassy in Ukraine, a presentation was also made of the work of the joint translation project of the Goethe-Institut and IRF (with the participation of Ukrainian publishers and embassy staff). In October, a discussion was held at the Center for European Studies at the National University of "Kyiv-Mohyla Academy" entitled "Who in Ukraine needs quality translations?" with the participation of translators, publishers, representatives of the Laboratory for Scientific Translation, and program experts. They raised the issues of translator professional ethics as a guarantee of quality translation, translation quality as a business factor, and sources of public influences over translation quality. In December, a presentation was held at the Kyiv-Mohyla Academy's School of Journalism of Gerd Strohmeier's book Politik und Massenmedien, which was published by the Kyiv-Mohyla Academy Publishing House with support from IRF and the Goethe-Institut. The presentation sparked a lively debate over the role of mass media in contemporary society.

In September the program organized a meeting with Ukrainian publishers to discuss the procedure for obtaining and paying for copyrights. Given current Ukrainian legislation, this is problematic. To help solve this problem, it was decided that institutions that the program cooperates with will help with obtaining copyrights. Another problem discussed was promotion and informing. There is no publication that highlights the activities of publishers and initiates the sale of books not through bookstores.

The economic crisis has been the main source of frustration for the book industry and its effect was starting to be felt towards the end of the year. In light of this, on the initiative of the program and the Publishers Forum, in December a publishing anti-crisis meeting was held during which the issue of industry policy was discussed. Under the conditions of the crisis, the following problems have become the most urgent: strategic planning for the industry; establishing ties with the book trade and searching for ways to influence legislators; relations with suppliers are becoming difficult (costs for paper, printing, rent); mail and transportation is becoming more expensive; late payment for sold books by wholesale and retail traders; lack of transparency (efficiency and fairness of allocation) in use of budget money provided by the state; partial absence of business ethics in industry relations. They also discussed industry loans, and lobbying changes to the law on warranties in the book publishing and book trade spheres.

Partnership and Cooperation:

There are practically no donors or international organizations in Ukraine that support the translation of a broad spectrum of foreign literature in the humanities and social disciplines. The cultural offices of foreign embassies in Ukraine provide support for a small number of translation projects. In view of this, IRF has introduced an initiative to coordinate translation projects in Ukraine.

In late 2003, IRF and the Goethe-Institut launched a joint program to support translations from German, which worked successful in 2008. An important achievement of cooperating with the Polish Institute in Kyiv was the expansion of the Polish translation project, with the Polish Embassy coming on board. A new initiative of the program was cooperation with the Victor Pinchuk Foundation's Social Initiative in implementing the joint "Project to Translate Foreign Literature into Ukrainian/Russian," the goal of which is to publish literature on philanthropy and social leadership.

In December 2008, IRF began renewing cooperation with the public affairs section of the US Embassy in Ukraine to jointly support the translation of contemporary American literature. This year the program also established contacts with the Open Ukraine Foundation's Cultural Horizons Program

EDUCATION PROGRAM

EDUCATION PROGRAM

Number of Projects:	12
Number of Organizations:	7
Total Amount:	$363,291
Share of Total Project Expenditures:	7.23%

Program Goal in 2008: to help employ the potential of the Ukrainian third sector and scientific–educational establishments for the sustainable development of the educational system and improving the quality of education in Ukraine.

Program Priorities in 2008:

- University autonomy;
- Participation by the academic community in developing educational policy;
- Further developing the system of public monitoring and ensuring quality middle and higher education;
- Promoting inclusive education in Ukraine.

The Program is Implemented through the Following Operational Projects:

- University Autonomy as a Component of Civil Society. The project aims to create a new model of relations between the university, society, and the state, whereby universities set their own objectives and answer for the results of their actions to society in the person of their academic staff, students and local community, making sure that their objectives comply with national interests. The project is implemented with participation of representatives from the Ministry of Education and Science of Ukraine, the Secretariat of the President of Ukraine, and a consortium of eight universities: Yuriy Fedkovych Chernivtsi National University, Ivan Franko National University of Lviv, Ukrainian Catholic University (Lviv), National University of “Kyiv-Mohyla Academy”, University of Economics and Law “Krok” (Kyiv), Dnipropetrovsk National University, V. N. Karazin Kharkiv National University and Donetsk National University.

In 2008, as part of the project a series of national roundtables were held and there was direct participation in international conferences on Ukrainian education problems and university autonomy. The roundtable at the University of Economics and Law “Krok” was dedicated to drafting a new version of the Law of Ukraine “On Higher Education” (April 2008). At a conference in Vilnius, participants from Ukrainian universities took part in discussing problems of academic freedom and institutional autonomy using examples from Central and Eastern Europe. The project also supported expert consultations with American experts on university autonomy (December 2008) and publication of materials from a conference at Warsaw University about university problems in Europe and the US.

In early 2008, the consortium resumed cooperation with the Ministry of Education and Science and Ukrainian government. In January 2008, Minister of Education and Science Ivan Vakarchuk attended a meeting of the Council of Consortium Rectors, during which they approved an action plan for 2008-2009 and developed proposals for the government's action plan on education. The universities were involved in developing the education component of the Tymoshenko government's action plan. IRF and consortium representatives were part of the working group drafting amendments to the Law of Ukraine "On Higher Education," and the Verkhovna Rada Committee on Science and Education expert group. University autonomy was among the Ministry's priority issues for 2008 (see: Dzerkalo Tyzhnia, #4, 2-8 February 2008).

In summer 2008, following consultations with the Working Group, the consortium approved an exit strategy for the autonomy project. It was suggested that the consortium, on one hand, transform the political-legal component of the project into an analytical study and development of proposals on changes to education legislation (at least three education laws and a number of laws on labor, social welfare, the budget code, etc.). On the other hand, plans also call for directing existing money and intellectual resources for the development of a model of control and assessment of quality of education services in universities, and public reporting by universities. Such models will serve as an important impetus for further university self-organization for the sake of institutional autonomy.

- "Public Platforms for Education Reform in Ukraine" – this joint Ukrainian-Dutch project was launched by IRF and the International Center for School Improvement – APD (Netherlands) in late 2006 with the goal of starting open and democratic discussions on education problems in Ukraine. Two platforms that unite activists, experts, parents and representatives of local government were created in Poltava and Odesa, with a coordination center in Kyiv. The project envisages the organization of a system of continuous exchange and dissemination of information between the education community, subjects of the education process and local education departments.

This project is financed jointly by IRF and the MATRA Program of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Netherlands.

Throughout 2008, the project thematic priority was "School of the Future: Problems of Reforming Education Administration (from Decentralization to Self-Administration)." Project activities were aimed at introducing a balanced model of coordination between all stakeholders working on improving schools (local departments of education, teachers, principals, parents) to implemented education reform on the local level with the goal of establishing modern standards of analysis and public debate on socially important aspects of education reform. Poltava and Odesa were locations of trainings (April 2008), a series of field workshop for educators from these oblasts (April-June 2008) were undertaken, two regional (September) and one national (November 2008) conference on school reform and the "ideal" school of the future were organized. Publications included the bulletins: "Ukrainian Textbooks: Time to Speak Out, Time to Act" and "School of the Future"; the brochures "Dialogue on Education: Understanding, Cooperation, Change" and "National Concept "School of the Future, School for the Future: Development of Schools on the Local Level"; and the analytical report "Textbook Publishing in Ukraine. Systematic Problems and Options for Change" (written in 2007). The project will end in 2009.

- Center for Testing Technologies and Education Quality Monitoring. Since 2002, the IRF Education Program has been the main initiator and supporter of introducing external testing in Ukraine. In the framework of the project "Center for Testing Technologies and Education Quality Monitoring" technological and procedural testing cycles were developed and approbated that became the basis for external assessment. A regulatory base was also created. During 2005-2006, there was close cooperation with the Presidential Secretariat on introducing external testing and creating a Ukrainian Center for Education Quality Assessment.

Successful nationwide external testing (116,000 students took part in 2007) has shown that this system is able to function on the state level as an objective mechanism for assessing student achievement and ensuring equal opportunities to higher education. The key success story of the project was public monitoring of the state external testing system to increase its transparency and public trust. A large-scale public opinion poll conducted in July 2007 among 10,000 students who took these tests, the results of which were presented during a press conference in UNIAN, helped analyze the 2007 testing process and provide relevant recommendations to the Ukrainian Center for Education Quality Assessment on how to improve the testing procedures.

Throughout 2008, the center focused its work on developing a system of public monitoring of the external testing system and education quality. As part of the project, the center prepared an analytical report based on a survey of 11th grade students and teachers at general education schools on the quality and level of information available about external testing. A number of working meetings were organized with representatives of the Ministry of Education, USETI program, Ukrainian Center for Education Quality Assessment and NGOs on how to improve the “Regulations on Public Observation during External Testing in 2008” in terms of involving public monitoring at all stages of testing (informational, student registration, transport of tests, transport of filled out answer forms, grading, announcement of results and acceptance into higher education institutions.

The Center was part of a coalition of NGOs that kept a watchful eye over the external testing process (22 April – 4 June 2008). The Center also put together a form for public monitors to fill out at testing sites and monitored complaints submitted by students.

In late October 2008, the Center for Testing Technologies and Education Quality Monitoring took part in the fifth exhibit “Ukrainian Education: Innovative Education Technologies” and presented its achievements in developing mechanisms for public monitoring of the state external testing system and the USETI program in Ukraine. A seminar was held during the exhibition to assess the results of a public evaluation of the round of external testing held in 2008.

In 2008, the Center published a concise dictionary of testing terms – the first attempt in Ukraine to systematize the most common foreign and Ukrainian terms used during the testing process. The TIMO (Testing and Monitoring in Education) newsletter continues to be published.

Despite the successful external testing and public monitoring, the situation with disputed results and political environment have shown that normative and legal regulations need to be introduced that identifying principles of public monitoring of the state external testing system and responsibility for violations.

- Promoting Inclusive Education in Ukraine. In 2008 this was the logical continuation of the following projects previously implemented and supported by IRF programs in 2005-2006: “Rights of Children with Special Educational Needs to Equal Access to Quality Education” (Education Program) and “Education Policy on Inclusive Education: International Experience and Ukrainian Realities” (East East Program).

A priority direction in 2008 was the project “Creating a Favorable Legislative Space for the Further Development of an Inclusive Model of Education in Ukraine.” With this goal in mind, Ukrainian legislation an analysis was performed for compliance with key international documents in the field of human rights and education for children with special needs, support mechanisms and possible obstacles to introducing inclusive education practices into general education institutions were identified. With the participation of experts from different levels, recommendations were developed on formulating social policy on inclusive education and necessary legislative changes.

To help develop mechanisms necessary for introducing an inclusive model of education in three pilot oblasts (Lviv, Poltava, Kyiv) roundtables were held to familiarize teachers at inclusive schools, local education departments, state administrations and the general public with the existing models of inclusive education. A study visit to the Netherlands (8-15 November) was organized to study the local experience in providing education, specialized and other services to children with special needs, supporting parents, and training teachers.

With the aim of promoting legislative changes to allow for the further development of inclusive education in Ukraine, two seminars were held in Lviv and Poltava, during which participants developed a series of recommendations for the Statute on Inclusive Classes/Schools and the Standards of Social Services for Inclusive Schools; public hearings were held in Kyiv and Poltava, as well as a roundtable during the international conference “National Strategies for Implementing the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities: Policy, Experience, Practice” (23-24 October 2008)

Difficulties arose during project implementation due to the unstable political situation in Ukraine, which resulted in dates for planned events having to be changed.

- Law and Education. This new initiative was begun in 2008 – a concept was developed, consultations were held with interested partners, and the competition “Implementing the Principles of Rule of Law in the Ukrainian Education System” was announced at the end of the year. Selections of winners and project implementation will take place in 2009. Information will be available on the IRF website.
- Education Administration and Financing: Opportunities for Change. A study was done of school financing in the city of Kyiv, the report “Cities vs. Raions. Administration and Financing of Kyiv Schools” was written, as was a manual for school administrators entitled “The School Budget under Conditions of Incomplete State Financing.” This line of activities will expand in 2009.

ROMA IN UKRAINE PROGRAM

ROMA IN UKRAINE PROGRAM

Number of Projects:	25
Number of Organizations:	18
Total Amount:	$136,656
Share of Total Project Expenditures:	2.72%

Program Goal in 2008: to promote initiatives aimed at raising the level of education of Roma youth, monitoring the effectiveness of state policy towards the Roma minority, improving access to healthcare services and promoting Roma rights.

Program Priorities in 2008:

- Promoting quality human rights protection for the Roma population in Ukraine;
- Supporting the development (or improving) and implementation of state policy aimed at improving the Roma community's position in Ukraine;
- Promoting improved access to medical services by the Roma population to prevent the spread of social disease epidemics among the Roma (tuberculosis, hepatitis A, B and C, HIV/AIDS, and others).

Competitions in 2008:

- The competition "Supporting Initiatives to Analyze State Policy on Integrating the Roma Community into Ukrainian Society and Public Lobbying for Ukraine's Joining the Decade of Roma Inclusion (2005-2015)" was aimed at supporting initiatives to develop, improve and implement effective state policy on integrating the Roma community into Ukrainian society and involving representatives of the Roma minority in this process. (4 applications received, 3 projects supported).
- The competition "Improving the Roma Population's Access to Medical Services" was aimed at providing the Roma population in Ukraine with access to medical services to prevent the spread of social disease epidemics among the Roma – tuberculosis, hepatitis A, B and C, HIV/AIDS, and others. (6 applications received, 5 projects supported).
- The competition "Human Rights for the Roma Population in Ukraine" provided support to Roma human rights centers to ensure access to justice and rights protection. (5 applications received, 5 projects supported).

Important Initiatives and Supported Projects in 2008:

- Improving State Policy for Roma. During the program's lobbying for Ukraine's joining the Decade of Roma Inclusion 2005-2015 communication and information exchange was established with the State Committee for Nationalities and Religion – the government institution responsible for introducing new programs and strategies to improve the life of the Roma minority.

With support from the program, the Congress of Roma of Ukraine organized the June 2008 International Roma Conference “Roma in Ukraine: from the Past to the Future” (in honor of International Roma Day and the Decade of Roma Inclusion 2005-2015). Conference participants – representatives of government, Roma NGOs, Ukrainian and foreign experts, researchers from the US, Serbia, Moldova, Bulgaria and Russia – discussed the urgency of state policy on the Roma, Ukraine’s chances for joining the Decade of Roma Inclusion 2005-2015, and approval of the new “State Program for the Development of the Roma People for 2009-2013” that was developed by the Congress. The program coordinates its work on this issue with the World Bank.

- Access to Medical Services for the Roma Population. A network of projects continued working on improving the Roma population’s access to medical services in the Zakarpattia oblast, the region where the Roma suffer most from socially dangerous diseases.

Together with the Open Society Institute’s Roma Health Program, support was given to an initiative to assess the situation and obtain reliable and relevant data in order to improve state policy on Roma public health. A series of trainings were also held for representatives of Roma NGOs on how to protect their rights and receive medical assistance.

In the city of Perechyn, Zakarpattia oblast, the local polyclinic has an office where the deputy chief doctor holds special open hours. The doctors examines the patient and refers him to specialized doctors or for further diagnostics.

- Protecting Roma Rights. On the human rights front, the program supports the most successful and active Roma NGOs, which have been working in this field since 2004. (in 2004-2006 they took part in the project “Protecting the Rights of Roma in Ukraine and Improving Access to Justice,” which was implemented by a coalition of Roma organizations in cooperation with European Roma Rights Centre and the International Center for Policy Studies, and support from the European Commission and International Renaissance Foundation). Together with the Open Society Institute’s Human Rights and Governance Grants Program, support was provided to a network of Roma NGOs in the Zakarpattia oblast that work in the human rights field and provide legal consultations to Roma.

Within the framework of the “Human Rights for Zakarpattia Roma” project, the Zakarpattia Roma Society “Roma” provided legal aid to Roma at a human rights center that was open every day from 9am-5pm and located in the organization’s office on Bohatyrska St., in Uzhhorod. Legal aid was not only given through consultations in the organization’s office, but also in areas with compact Roma populations during visits by consultation groups to oblast raions. Most often, the human rights organization dealt with groundless administrative detentions and beatings of Roma, and helped with filling out paperwork to get a passport, childcare or pension.

- Scholarships for Roma Students. In 2008, the program coordinated the scholarship program for Roma students (supported by the German Remembrance, Responsibility and Future Foundation). Scholarships were given to 38 Roma students studying in institutions of higher education in Kyiv, Uzhhorod, Odesa, Cherkasy, Lviv and Dnipropetrovsk. The most popular subject being studied by the students is law, followed by economics, finance and the social sciences. As for regional distribution, it should be noted that the greatest number of students are from Kyiv and the Kyiv oblast, with the Zakarpattia and Cherkasy oblasts next.

Difficulties in Attaining the Program Priorities:

Difficulties include: the weak understanding by representatives of central and regional government structures of the specific needs of the Roma population, prejudiced attitudes, and at times outright discrimination and violation of Roma rights by law enforcement. The overall political instability in the country also makes it difficult to develop long-term strategies and do systematic work.

Partnership and Cooperation:

The program cooperates with the Hungarian Roma Education Fund, German Remembrance, Responsibility and the Future Foundation, World Bank, Open Society Institute network programs, and the State Committee on Nationalities and Migration.

In 2009 the program plans to continue the given lines of activities, identify the most difficult problems for Roma communities, demonstrate models for overcoming these problems (for example, through the functioning of a network of Roma medical projects) and lobbying government decisions that would improve the life of Ukraine's Roma population.

Important Initiatives and Supported Projects in 2008:

Law and Health

- One of the achievements of this Initiative in 2008 was the launch of a new movement in Ukraine that unites more than 25 patient, human rights and medical organizations that together are working on protecting human rights in the public health sphere and are developing recommendations for improving legislation in this field.
- The movement united the winning projects that are currently being implemented within the framework of the competition “Establishing Cooperation Between Lawyers, Doctors and Patients” in several regions of Ukraine – Lviv, Luhansk, Vinnytsia, Kharkiv, Kherson oblasts and AR Crimea. These projects have already helped uncover a number of systematic violations of patients rights that served as the foundation for strategic litigation cases that in future may be submitted to the European Court of Human Rights. Project activities include: providing free legal assistance to patients and families; holding regular educational events for medical personnel on human rights that help establish long-term cooperation between public health institutions, human rights and patient organizations.
- A successful project was the development of a web portal on patients’ rights - www.healthrights.in, which became a platform for NGOs that are involved with human rights in the health sphere and encourages expert discussions on necessary steps to reform the health system and protect patients’ rights on the regional and government level. Site visitors can receive consultation from a lawyer on medical legal issues, learn about events, trainings, medical law, and true stories about protecting patients’ rights. The project maintains an email distribution list that helps organizations to quickly find partners in the regions, exchange information, organize events and work with colleague to solve urgent problems. Support was also provided for the development of the website on patients’ rights and an English-language version of the website, its international page, which will be used by patients’ rights portals in Georgia, Armenia and Macedonia.
- In five Ukrainian cities (Lviv, Mykolayiv, Poltava, Chernihiv and Kherson), support was given to provide legal support to intravenous drug users and people living with HIV/AIDS. As a result of this work, the rights of IDUs and PLWHA to medical and social assistance were protected. The legal assistance provided in criminal cases helped to prevent incarceration or lowered the penalty for detainees belonging to these vulnerable social groups, and to change the nature of relations between these groups (IDUs and PLWHA), law enforcement, and medical institutions.

- In June 2008, with program support a presentation and press conference were organized on a documentary report based on the results of a study and interviews conducted by the five projects – “Justice for All: the importance of legal aid in the context of medical services provided to drug users in Ukraine.” This report provides examples of how free legal aid allows intravenous drug users to better protect themselves from human rights violations, obtain medical care and improve the quality of their life. It wouldn't be an overstatement to say that this event was successful in revealing acts of discrimination, violations of rights and the social marginalization of drug users through real examples from the lives of members of the vulnerable groups. During the event, participants from different regions had an opportunity to share their success stories in protecting the rights of representatives of vulnerable groups and their opinions on necessary changes to existing legislation, as well as other important issues.
- A number of events were held to promote the further development and inclusion of public health issues in the training of lawyers and doctors. The All-Ukrainian Conference on Medical Law and the Legal Status of Patients (Lviv, 17-18 April 2008) was attended by over 150 representatives of human rights organizations, patient groups, medical associations and health departments. There was also a training on tactics for NGOs in selecting and running strategic litigation cases. Work has begun on developing the training course “Human Rights in Public Health/Medical Law” to be approved by the Ministry of Health of Ukraine and introduced in Ukrainian medical universities.
- A training module was developed and approved entitled “Human Rights. Instructions for the Police on how to Work with People Living with HIV/AIDS and Intravenous Drug Users,” which is used as part of in-service training courses taught at the Kyiv National Internal Affairs University for active law enforcement. This project is being implemented by the NGO “Krok za Krok” in conjunction with the National University “MIA Academy of Ukraine.” The course contains factual information about HIV/AIDS, human rights, harm reduction and substitution therapy programs, etc.

Harm Reduction

- A three-day training on “Practical Aspects of Conducting a Media Campaign Advocating for Harm Reduction Programs” was held for representatives from six regions of Ukraine (Dnipropetrovsk, Donetsk, Kyiv, Mykolayiv, Poltava and Sumy) that work in the harm reduction sphere. The main goal of the training was to provide participants with practical skills that can be used to develop and introduce effective public/media campaigns to advocate harm reduction programs. At the end of the training, the participants presented their opinions and proposals on advocacy campaigns that they believe need to be held in their regions and presented plans they developed for such campaigns. A decision was made to support several regional advocacy campaigns for substitution therapy programs.
- NGOs working with people directly affected by drug use and HIV/AIDS did advocacy work in the regions aimed at increasing the level of access to medical care and social services and preventing human rights violations by medical staff and law enforcement. The all-Ukrainian organization of parents whose children are undergoing substitution therapy “Nadia” was formed and works with potential clients and on informing stakeholders about the advantages and results of substitution therapy. The All-Ukrainian Association of Substitution Therapy Patients started working in late 2008 to unite patients from different regions, represent their interests, and protect their rights in Ukraine.

- The third summer advocacy school was held for representatives of HIV/AIDS NGOs to improve their advocacy skills. The summer school was organized jointly with the International HIV/AIDS Alliance. As a result of the trainings, there is a new generation of activists and leaders among those people who have been directly affected by drug use and HIV/AIDS who have started implementing advocacy projects.
- An information campaign called “Return Ticket” - on the advantages and results of substitution therapy in Ukraine - was launched in November-December 2008 and is ongoing. It consists of billboard advertisements and a special website (<http://www.zpt.in.ua>) that contains extensive information about substitution therapy programs in Ukraine and provides a platform for open dialogue. The campaign was extensively reviewed by the media.

Palliative Care

- With support from the program, the All-Ukrainian Palliative Care Association and the All-Ukrainian Council for Patients' Rights and Safety successfully lobbied the establishment of a Coordinating Council for Palliative Care in Ukraine, whose membership and mandate was approved by a Ministry of Health order. The Coordinating Council has been given the mandate to develop and submit for approval a National Program for the Development of Palliative and Hospice Care for 2010-2014, which will not only make palliative care an element of the general health care system, but will require the government to allocate a budget to finance palliative care services.
- With financial and expert support from the program, the International Palliative Care Initiative and the Institute for Palliative Medicine in San Diego, a three-week training was held for medical professionals (doctors and nurses) that work in hospices and palliative care units in different regions of Ukraine and Kyiv. In light of the critical shortage of medical specialists in this field, the training helped significantly enhance the skills of the 32 professionals, who will continue to teach their colleagues in the regions and will not only spread skills and knowledge, but a completely different attitude to incurable diseases and dying people. The training provided great impetus for introducing palliative care in Ukraine and developing a network of institutions that provide palliative care services.
- The Program supported analysis of the problems faced by palliative patients care from the human rights point of view, especially related to access to pain-management and overall medical care. An analysis was done and report prepared on access to opioid analgesics for palliative patients in Ukraine, the results of which will form the basis for large-scale advocacy campaigns and the development of normative and legislative documents and approval of the National Palliative Care Program. The 2008 report on human rights in public the health sphere in Ukraine will include a separate section on the rights of palliative care patients, which will help uncover issues in delivery of palliative care not only from a medical and social standpoint, but take into consideration principles of human rights and respect for human dignity. An expert assessment was conducted of the need for legal aid for patients with incurable diseases who are receiving palliative care and to establish cooperation between hospices, palliative care units, human rights organizations and legal clinics.

Access to Essential Medicine

- Support was provided for the first time to an innovative project by the “Public Initiative to Help People Suffering from Chronic Viral Hepatitis in Ukraine” aimed at uniting the efforts of the public, medical staff and patients with hepatitis C to develop a joint action plan for advocating improved prevention, diagnosis and treatment for people with chronic viral hepatitis in Ukraine. The goal of this initiative is to collect and analyze documents that regulate the situation with hepatitis infection in Ukraine overall and in the 25 regions, monitor budget procurements of medicines for people with hepatitis C and access to treatment. The result of the initiative will be an action plan for consolidated advocacy work and allocating budget money on the state and local levels taking into account recommendations by experts, based on the right to quality and free medical care in Ukraine.

Difficulties in Implementing the Program:

The unstable political situation and rather frequent change in leadership in government bodies, in particular in the health sphere, made it difficult to attain program priorities and implement projects, as did the resulting lack of political will to reform the health system, delays in development and approval of normative and legal acts, lobbying the approval of normative acts, inadequate coordination and cooperation between government bodies.

Unfortunately, society’s resources and those in public health field are rather limited: shortage of qualified lawyers and human rights activist with experience in protecting rights in the health sphere; low capacity of NGOs to monitor budgets and do advocacy work; financial resources at the disposal of medical institutions are too low to introduce the proposed reforms, which is a major barrier to introducing the planned measures.

Among the problems holding back the development and Initiatives supported by the Public Health Program, the following are worth noting: lack of a common vision among expert NGOs on reforming the health system and legislative ways to improve patients’ rights; passiveness or fear by patients and representatives of vulnerable groups to confront with doctors or representatives of government structures; competition between potential grant recipients, which complicates the open exchange of findings, ideas and experience between different organizations.

The lack of internal communication and transparent decision-making processes at times makes it impossible to implement joint nationwide initiatives. Therefore, most initiatives are implemented by individual organizations on the local level due to a lack of coordination and representation on the national level.

Partnership and Cooperation:

The program’s key partners are representatives of the government and non-governmental sectors, medical personnel, human rights activists and lawyers, patients’ organizations, medical and legal institutions of higher education, post-graduate medical institutions, and experts on medical law. In terms of the Open Society Institute – the program worked closely with the Public Health Program, New York and Human Rights Program in Budapest.

The program worked closely with the Ministry of Health, P. L. Shupyk National Medical Academy of Post-Graduate Education, Ministry of Internal Affairs, Ministry of Science and Education, Ministry of Justice, Ministry of Labor and Social Policy, State Department for Prisons, representatives of the Ukrainian Parliament Commissioner for Human Rights, the Advisory Council to the Verkhovna Rada Committee on Health, and the Ministry of Health's Public Council.

The program is also constantly building relationships with other donors and international organizations that work in the Public health field, such as: the International HIV/AIDS Alliance in Ukraine, All-Ukrainian Network of People Living with HIV/AIDS, All-Ukrainian Coalition of HIV NGOs, Joint United Nations Program on HIV/AIDS, US Agency for International Development, German Agency for Technical Cooperation, Rinat Akhmetov's Foundation for Development of Ukraine, World Health Organization, World Bank, Bill Clinton Foundation, and other public and government organizations.
