

International Renaissance Foundation

2010 Annual Report

The International Renaissance Foundation expresses sincere gratitude to all partners who provide financial and organizational support in building an open democratic society in Ukraine.

The International Renaissance Foundation (IRF) is an integral part of the Open Society Foundations network (established by American philanthropist George Soros) that incorporates national and regional foundations in more than seventy countries around the world, including Africa, Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. IRF was founded in 1990.

The mission of the International Renaissance Foundation – is to promote open democratic society in Ukraine by providing financial and organizational support for important civil society initiatives.

IRF remains one of the largest donor foundations in Ukraine, supporting civil society organizations working in areas that are part of the Foundation's priorities. Every year, IRF provides up to $10 million in support to NGOs in different regions of Ukraine. In addition to offering grants to other organizations, IRF also pursues its own (operational) activities, implementing projects in its target sectors that are also selected by public representatives. The Foundation is also well-known as an expert organization, initiator of effective projects, open discussions and catalyst of social change.

Openness and transparency of donor activities, and conformity with the needs of society are the main principles that guide the work of the International Renaissance Foundation. The public is involved in the distribution of Foundation funds for the needs of building a democratic open society through participation in the Executive Board and IRF Program Boards.

IRF distributes the majority of its grants to non-governmental organizations after open competitions are held for projects pursuing the program priorities set by leading representatives of local civil society

The IRF Board is the main public body that forms the strategy for the entire organization. The Foundation's priorities are determined by the Executive Board and Program Boards, whose members include prominent Ukrainian public figures and experts in IRF target sectors.

The funds operated by IRF come mostly from its main founder George Soros. IRF also receives support from international donors, as well as Ukrainian and foreign organizations and individuals.

Since its founding, the International Renaissance Foundation has provided more than $100 million in grants to various Ukrainian non-governmental organizations (NGOs), scientific-research organizations, academic institutions and publishing houses.

You can learn more about the International Renaissance Foundation on our website www.irf.ua.

DEVELOPMENT OF CIVIL SOCIETY IN A NEW ENVIRONMENT

The year 2010 was a difficult and controversial year for the International Renaissance Foundation (IRF), as it was for the entire country. Under the previous leadership, civil society institutions enjoyed freedom of activity, but were never considered necessary by that government for democratic reforms.

Last year the new government declared its intention to carry out a series of necessary reforms; however, this was done in a non-systematic and controversial way. The return to the Constitution of 1996, which redistributed a number of powers to the presidential branch, was perceived with ambiguity by society. New legislation on judicial reform, which is generally positive, in practice may make judges dependent upon the government. The Tax Code, which sparked mass protests by entrepreneurs, gives preference to the interests of big business over small and medium business, and does not limit opportunities for corruption by the tax authorities. New external testing rules created opportunities for renewed corruption in the university admissions process.

There was a deterioration in human rights, freedom of speech and the right to peaceful assembly. There was judicial persecution of human rights activities, which we had not seen in previous years. The Security Service of Ukraine investigated NGOs to determine whether IRF grants were being used to provide selective electoral support.

All this highlighted one of the government's main flaws – the lack of understanding of and open dialogue with civil society, without which even well-intentioned reforms are doomed to fail. In countries whose standards the government strives to reach, at least by what they say, absence of dialogue signals a lack of democracy, accountability and openness.

In 2010 the International Renaissance Foundation continued to support projects that helped local communities solve various important problems and civic initiatives that aim to make government accountable and transparent. IRF support made possible the opening of new regional legal aid centers, which is important for building a just and legal society. For the second year in a row, IRF implemented an anti-crisis program, thanks to which 3,000 children, people with special needs, youth, kindergartens, schools and orphanages, and academic publications that were hit hard by the economic crisis, were given a chance to survive and overcome, to some extent, the effects of the crisis. We supported independent monitoring of the first 100 days of the new government. Support was provided throughout the year for expert work on drafting legislation; public control over law enforcement; formation of public councils in the executive branch and fair external testing. IRF promoted reforms in the housing and communal services system, supported condominium associations, provided assistance to community organizations, helped protect patients' rights, develop hospices, promoted tolerance towards Roma and their integration into society, and the development of new media and e-government. Special attention was given to efforts to counter attempts to limit freedom of speech. Our priorities included promoting Ukraine's European integration, in particular, the liberalization of the visa regime between Ukraine and the EU, and the development of relations between NGOs from Ukraine, Europe and countries of the former Soviet Union.

We are very grateful to our many friends and partners, whose support made possible a number of important initiatives. In this condensed IRF Report you will have the opportunity to learn about some of the successful projects implemented last year by Ukrainian NGOs with the support of IRF. Complete information about all projects in 2010, as well as the strategic priorities and activities of our programs is available on our website www.irf.ua

OVERVIEW OF IRF ACTIVITIES IN 2010

ENHANCING THE IMPACT OF NGOS IN UKRAINE

The Civil Society Impact Enhancement Program (director – Oleksiy Orlovsky) creates conditions for the activities of non-governmental organizations by promoting their ability and initiative to take part in the decision-making process on the national and local levels, and protecting the rights of citizens as the end-users of state and communal services. We would like to take this opportunity to mention some of the successful public initiatives out of the 147 projects that the Program supported in 2010.

Forming public councils in government. The Ukrainian Center for Independent Political Research conducted an information campaign and provided consultation on forming public councils under bodies of executive power through seminars and the website <http://gromrady.org.ua>. Despite all the difficulties of forming such councils, NGOs, thanks in large part to support from this project, were able to join these councils. The project will be continued in order take into account the errors of previous years and help public councils work effectively: conduct preliminary examinations of government decisions and provide advice on government policy in a particular field.

With support from the Program and through the efforts of NGOs, an electronic register of public examinations was created and transferred into the ownership of the Secretariat of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine (CMU). The Secretariat of the CMU is currently working on adding information to the register. To the attention of concerned citizens: the Vice Prime Minister of Ukraine has given special instructions to bodies of executive power requiring that they periodically submit data to be included in the register (<http://civic.kmu.gov.ua>).

Support of public control over local government. Experts of the All-Ukrainian NGO “Association for Population Self-Organization” drafted the Law of Ukraine “On general meetings (conferences) of members of a territorial community based on place of residence” that stipulates that decisions of general meetings (conferences) are to be taken into consideration by local self-government bodies in their work (<http://samoorg.com.ua/wp-content/uploads/2010/10/zakon-pro-grom-zbory-proekt.doc>). The need for such a law stems from the adoption in 1997 of the Law “On local self-government in Ukraine”. However, since then no real measures have been taken aimed at developing this form of local democracy. This draft law was submitted for review to the relevant committee of the Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine: we are awaiting an outcome.

The Direct Action Committee continued its public campaign, which is supported by IRF, the UNITER Program and East Europe Foundation, and defended the rights of Kyiv drivers. In April 2010, the Kyiv District Administrative Court ruled in favor of the appeal filed by activists of the Direct Action Committee and declared illegal the practice of wheel-clamping introduced by Communal Enterprise “Kyivpastrans”. The Kyiv Court of Appeals confirmed this decision. The Direct Action Committee now plans to provide assistance to individual lawsuits against this communal enterprise for the return of unjustified charges. (<http://www.kpd.in.ua/>).

The NGO “Small Business Laboratory” in Slavutych developed a series of changes to streamline the municipal land management system by creating special electronic databases that were implemented by the local government. This resulted in a significant increase in the collection of payments for land use in the city of Slavutych, Kyiv oblast. Fees paid by legal entities to the local budget in the first half of 2010 increased by a third, while fees collected from individuals in the first six months of year was almost as much as the total collected in 2009.

Public actions to reform housing and communal services. We must acknowledge that with the arrival of a new team in the Ministry of Housing and Communal Services of Ukraine, the level of cooperation between this ministry and NGOs and donor institutions improved substantially. This allowed the Program in 2010 to direct a significant part of its efforts in this sphere. Support was given to 12 projects in 8 regions of Ukraine to support condominiums. Some of the most significant achievements include:

The Association for Protection of Rights of Consumers of Housing and Communal Services “Nash Dim” and the Center for the Support of Civic and Cultural Initiative “Tamarisk” created a resource center for condominiums in Dnipropetrovsk: a model was developed for management of a condominium by a management company. A manual was published that highlights property, organizational and financial aspects of condominiums, legislative acts and examples of required documents (<http://osbb.dp.ua>).

The Lviv NGO “Center for the Study of Local Self-Government” created a training center for future condominium managers and published the manual “Professional Residential Property Management”. The Center’s experts developed a system that automates accounting and calculation of rates for condominiums.

With support from IRF, the NGO “Residential Property Investors Association” defended the rights of people that invested in housing construction. Free legal advice was provided to 35 initiative groups on defending their interests in court. Investors created three housing cooperatives that in the future are to assume the functions of the developer and help investors complete the apartments they invested in. For more information visit <http://investhelp.com.ua/>.

Development of e-governance. With support from the Program and in cooperation with the State Committee on Informatization and IRF, on April 27, 2010 a National Center for E-governance was opened at the State Enterprise “State Center of Information Resources of Ukraine” (<http://nc.gov.ua/>). In December 2010, the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, with active participation of the Public Council on Information and Communication Technologies and experts from IRF, approved the “Concept of E-Governance Development in Ukraine”. The Program helps spread in Ukraine the Estonian experience of e-government, considered one of the best in Europe. E-governance is also being introduced in the regions of Ukraine: in June 2010, the Mykolayiv City Council adopted a program for introducing e-government in the city, the first such program approved on the local government level in Ukraine and which was supported by IRF.

ESTABLISHING RULE OF LAW

The Rule of Law Program (director – Roman Romanov) supports civil society initiatives directed to the protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms, promotes strengthened legal consciousness on the national and local levels, which helps people resolve important issues on a daily basis.

Legal Empowerment of the Poor. The Rule of Law Program introduced this direction in late 2009 in cooperation with the Open Society Justice Initiative (New York, Budapest) and partial support from the Victor Pinchuk Foundation. Community Legal Centers provide free legal aid to citizens. Residents of mostly small communities, remote towns and villages were able to protect their property, defend themselves against unscrupulous employers and take advantage of the existing social protection system. More than 10,000 citizens requested assistance from these Centers in 2010.

As a result of the work of these Center, a draft Regulation on the Commissioner for the Rights of Members of the Territorial Community in the Kherson Region was developed, systematic legal support was provided for the establishment of agricultural cooperatives in rural communities in the Luhansk oblast, and legal awareness campaigns on land ownership rights were conducted in rural communities in the Khmelnytskyi oblast. More than a third of the requests for assistance had to do with social security. The network of Community Legal Centers held public events regarding the irresponsible position of the government towards people who have reached retirement age and are legally entitled to pension supplements.

The network consists of 15 Centers in 6 oblasts of Ukraine: the Volyn, Khmelnytskyi, Kyiv, Poltava, Luhansk and Kherson oblasts. In December 2010, IRF supported a number of projects that will expand the network to five other oblasts. As the Initiative grows, it will bolster the legal capacity of people to defend their rights on their own.

Human rights and law enforcement. In spring 2010, relations between the Ministry of Internal Affairs (MIA) and civil society organizations deteriorated. Many initiatives that were implemented with support from IRF and met with approval by the public as well as employees of the internal affairs system were stopped. For example, the pilot electronic visitor registration system installed in the Zhovtnevy district police station in Kyiv was removed. The system offered people the opportunity to obtain confirmation that they were at the station, provided information about the structure of the station and possibility to obtain legal assistance, etc. – all of which makes police work transparent and accountable. The Public Council on Human Rights at the MIA ceased to exist. The Minister's human rights assistants in all oblasts of Ukraine were dismissed. Mobile groups that exercised public control over human rights practices in raion police stations and temporary holding facilities were dissolved. Given these circumstances, the IRF Rule of Law Program significantly increased its focus on the observance of human rights by law enforcement bodies

Association of Ukrainian Monitors of the Observance of Human Rights in the Work of Law Enforcement Bodies (UMDPL) became the successor to the Human Rights Monitoring Department at the MIA, which was eliminated by a decision of the Minister of Internal Affairs in March 2010. The accomplishments of the employees of the former department and three years of experience were not lost and became the foundation for the formation of a new system of public control over the work of the MIA and other law enforcement agencies in Ukraine. The organization systematically monitors human rights and fundamental freedoms throughout Ukraine. Information about UMDPL is available on their website: www.umdpl.info

First regional public opinion poll on police performance. With support from the Program, in 2010 the Kharkiv Institute of Social Research used a Ukrainian adaptation of the British Crime Survey to survey public opinion of police performance in Kharkiv. <http://khivr.kharkov.ua/index.php?id=1291897441>. According to the results, only 30% of those surveyed believe the police do a good job, while approximately 25% are unable to provide an opinion. Meanwhile, the statistical reporting system used in Ukraine since Soviet times to evaluate police performance annually gives figures showing nearly 100% crime detection. Experts claim that internal affairs employees are forced to “massage” these figures to reach the maximum level in order to demonstrate that their work is very effective. Based on discussions of the results, recommendations were developed on the need to introduce an alternative police performance evaluation system that takes into account the level of public trust, satisfaction with police work and sense of safety, level of cooperation between the police and public, etc. The recommendations were tailored for specific government agencies. In early 2011, the MIA issued an order on the new assessment methodology for the internal affairs system which includes the results of a representative public survey of trust in law enforcement as one of the criteria for assessing police performance.

Access to socially important information. The results of a nationwide survey of accessibility of general plans for Ukrainian cities presented by the Eastern Ukrainian Center for Civic Initiatives (EUCCI) showed that access in Ukraine to city plans is marked as “For Official Use Only” even though there is no regulation stipulating this restriction. This creates the opportunity for abuse by local government officials.

A national campaign was launched to lift the restriction on access to city plans that included public debates in all oblast centers of Ukraine, press conferences, publications in the media, legal and administrative appeals of refusals by city councils to provide cartographic information, developing proposals on how to improve the legal regulation of access to general plans (<http://totalaction.org.ua>). As a result of EUCCI's cooperation with the Ministry of Regional Development and Construction, Security Service of Ukraine, prosecutor's offices and city councils in 196 Ukrainian cities, Ukrainian legislation was amended to facilitate public access to city plans. Adopted on January 13, 2011 by the Verkhovna Rada, the Law of Ukraine “On urban development regulation” includes provisions that for the first time clearly outline the mechanism for ensuring public access to city plans. In particular, the law requires that city plans be available on the website of local self-government bodies and published in local print media. Detailed information about this campaign and other access to information initiatives is available on the “Right to Know” website: <http://stop-x-files-ua.org>.

SOCIALLY RESPONSIBLE MEDIA

The goal of the Mass Media Program (director – Vitaliy Zamnius) is to build up a qualified and publicly accountable journalist force in Ukraine.

Access to public information. The adoption of the Law “On access to public information” was a demand of Ukraine's civil society. For many years, the Mass Media Program had persistently supported the development of legislative proposals aimed at safeguarding freedom of speech, strengthening European standards in media, and ensuring access to socially important information. This happened also because of many years of support of the Public Council under the Parliamentary Committee on Freedom of Speech and Information. In 2010, the Program supported the group of experts that worked on the law on access to information, which was eventually adopted in January 2011. The law, for example, prohibits restricting access to information about the spending of budgets funds and administration of state and municipal property.

Teaching journalists about the opportunities of new media – this was the goal of the Internews-Ukraine project “MediaNext Winter School on New Media” for journalism students and media activists. Training initiatives about new media were also supported in many regions of Ukraine, including Lutsk, Crimea, the Cherkasy and Zhytomyr oblasts and many other regions of the country. A total of 29 projects, mostly in the regions, were implemented.

The Program also supported experts of the Taras Shevchenko Kyiv National University in developing courses on new media for regional centers of higher learning and organizing a series of trainings for lecturers. This will help improve the quality of journalism education and make it more up to date. Details about the project can be found at <http://www.newmedia.univ.kiev.ua/>.

“Nova Ukraina” (New Ukraine) School of Professional Journalism. The objective of this project of The Laboratory of Legislative Initiatives, launched by the Program in 2009, is to create a community of professional and socially responsible journalists in Ukraine. The focus of the training course, which consist of four 4-week sessions, is not just on gaining professional knowledge and skills, but also social, political and humanities issues. A total of 45 young journalists attended the School (<http://mediaschool.parlament.org.ua/>).

Monitoring and protecting the rights of journalists and media. The Program supported projects to monitor the observation of the rights of journalists and mass media (Institute of Mass Information – <http://imi.org.ua/>), monitoring observation of professional standards of journalism (Telekritika – www.telekritika.ua), and supported independent bureaus of investigative journalism, such as <http://www.svidomo.org/>. In light of the threat of renewed censorship, in 2011 the Program will give more attention to this area of activities.

OVERCOMING THE EFFECTS OF THE ECONOMIC CRISIS IN UKRAINE

The Ukrainian government did not develop a special strategy for overcoming the short-term and long-term effects, felt throughout the country, of the economic crisis. Vulnerable populations – children from poor families, pensioners, people with special needs – are particularly hard hit by the lack of budget funding. The Anti-Crisis Humanitarian Program (directors – Ruslan Kraplych and Kateryna Smaglyi) responds to these challenges. The Program is realized in Ukraine on the initiative of the Open Society Institute and IRF. In a number of oblasts (Vinnytsia, Volyn, Donetsk and Sumy) assistance from the Program was supplemented by funds from local governments with which memorandums of cooperation had been signed.

Provision of social services by public and charitable organizations – among other projects, this competition supported 15 projects to improve social services provided by NGOs and charitable funds to different social groups (social orphans, children from poor and large families, youth, lonely and poor seniors, people with special needs, people who lost their jobs because of the crisis). These activities will be continued in 2011 together with the Fund for the Development of the Carpathian Euroregion (<http://www.carpathianfoundation.org.ua/>) and the Krona Foundation (www.krona.niko.ua)

Summer camps for needy children. 43 summer camps were organized in 2010 with Program support. They were attended by approximately 4,500 children, which is nearly twice as many in 2009.

Provision of social services to disabled children. 24 grants were given through a competition organized together with the Krona Foundation. More than 3,000 disabled children are provided daily assistance, psychological and social rehabilitation, and school preparation.

Support of secondary schools and preschools. Through two competitions, 138 projects were supported in nearly all regions of Ukraine to support extended day programs and improve conditions at schools in raion centers, towns and villages. Community groups helped renovate classrooms, play rooms, playgrounds, cafeterias; furniture and books were purchased – without which these schools could not operate. The Program provided support for family-style kindergartens, Child Development Centers and Anti-Crisis Parenting Centers. These facilities will not only help increase the number of children with access to preschool education, but also provide an impetus for a new type of private enterprise.

The Pryirpinnia Development Fund implemented two successful projects to provide assistance to kindergartens in the cities of Irpin and Bucha, Kyiv oblast. Two additional groups were created in Horobynka Kindergarten (Bucha). The number of students increased from 108 to 170, thus improving access to knowledge and school preparation for children. Meanwhile, the Dzvinochok Kindergarten was able to go from a 6-hour to a 12-hour work day. The project is implemented in close cooperation with parents committees and mobilized the local community. During the renovations at Kindergarten № 25, which were completed in such two weeks, the employees and parents worked from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. Local council deputies helped co-finance this initiative.

Support of cultural, educational and artistic initiatives. 25 grants were given to support cultural, educational and artistic non-governmental organizations and structures, which were unable to implement projects as a result of the economic crisis. Support was provided for arts and cultural projects; associations and unions of artists; children's arts groups; social and humanities journals, analytical and popular arts magazines, humanities journals and publishers that specialize in research and humanities literature; NGOs that assist amateur artists with disabilities.

PROMOTING UKRAINE'S EUROPEAN INTEGRATION

The European Program (director – Iryna Solonenko) promotes Ukraine's European integration through the financial and expert support of civil society initiatives.

The change in government in Ukraine in 2010 also changed the context of relations between Ukraine and the European Union. The EU welcomes the democratic nature of the elections in Ukraine and promises of drastic reforms by the new government. The European Parliament recommended giving Ukraine membership prospects. The European Commission for the first time outlined priority reforms that were expected from Ukraine in the Association Agenda, the main politically binding document in EU-Ukraine relations since the end of 2009. Ukraine was given an Action Plan on liberalizing the visa regime with a list of necessary reforms.

Despite this positive dynamic, events inside the country in 2010 led to a decline in democracy, which complicated the dialogue between Ukraine and the EU. Given these circumstances, the Program paid special attention to support of the following initiatives (this is just a partial list).

Public control of Ukraine's fulfillment of its Euro-integration obligations. European integration is the essence and guiding light for the implementation of internal reforms in the country in practically all spheres. As such, public monitoring helps diagnose to what degree rhetoric and promises of reform and Ukraine's European choice coincide with the real actions of the government. Prior to the EU-Ukraine Summit in November 2010, independent experts showed that Ukraine fulfilled only 4 out of 60 priority reforms envisaged by the Association Agenda. Monitoring of the fulfillment of the EU-Ukraine Association Agenda is being implemented by a consortium of four independent think tanks (the Ukrainian Center for Independent Political Research, the Institute for Economic Research and Policy Consulting, the Center for Political and Legal Reforms – 30 experts total) with the media support of the international NGO Internews-Ukraine and in cooperation with the Civil Society Expert Council with the Ukrainian Side of the EU-Ukraine Cooperation Committee (www.es-ukraina.blogspot.com).

Prospects of visa-free travel to Europe as a domestic policy issue. The presentation by Europe of a visa liberalization action plan for Ukraine was the result of advocacy efforts by civil society organizations, in particular the "Europe Without Borders" initiative. Throughout 2010, this organization studied the fulfillment of legislative requirements for a visa-free regime, organized committee hearings in the Verkhovna Rada, and established cooperation with Western European think tanks that have successful experience lobbying a visa-free regime for countries of the Western Balkans. Thus, the Program helps consolidate the efforts of the public and media and demand domestic reforms from the government that will make Ukraine a real contender for a visa-free regime with the EU (www.novisa.org.ua)

In October 2010, the "Europe Without Barriers" initiatives presented the results of the fourth wave of public monitoring on issuing of visas to citizens of Ukraine to representatives of EU and Schengen zone consular services. According to the results, the EU-Ukraine Visa Facilitation Agreement functions better than in 2008, but compared to the year 2009 further significant progress is not achieved.

- only 12% of Schengen visas issued to citizens of Ukraine are valid for 1 year
- less than 1% of visas are valid for 2, 3, or 5 years
- 30% of applicants were able to obtain free visas
- in more than 80% of cases, the terms of visa application review did not exceed 10 days
- level of visa refusals – 4.6% (official data) and 7% (survey results)

An analysis of official data shows that:

- citizens of Ukraine received about 9.2% of all visas to the EU (second in the world after Russia – 29.4%)
- 1 in 41 citizens of Ukraine gets an EU visa (twice less than in Belarus – 1 visa in 21 citizens)
- nearly 40% of visas issued by EU member states in Ukraine are by Polish consulates

A rating of quality of consular services of Schengen consulates in Ukraine was compiled using various indicators. The consular services of Hungary were recognized as the best, and Greece the worst. (www.novisa.org.ua)

Ukraine's environmental policy harmonized to EU standards. Today, environmental pollution in Ukraine is several times higher than in developed countries. A major result of this is low life expectancy in Ukraine compared to European countries (approximately 66 years on average, compared with 80 in Sweden and 74 in Poland). In January 2011, the Law of Ukraine "On the fundamental principles (strategy) of national environmental policy to 2020" took effect. The law was passed by the Verkhovna Rada on December 21, 2010. To large extent, this was made possible by the efforts of the Ukrainian public, which kept a watchful eye on the debates and adoption of this document, and repeatedly expressed concern about the non-transparency of the process, demanded that it be revised and discussed openly. The strategy contains provisions the execution of which will allow for harmonizing the principles of Ukraine's environmental policy with EU requirements. A driving factor for polluting businesses comes in the form of a new economic tool – an increase in fees for dumping pollutants at the European level based on toxicity. (For more information go to the website of the "Mama-86" environmental organization <http://www.mama-86.org.ua>)

European Day celebrations throughout Ukraine. In May 2010, more than 10,000 citizens of Ukraine participated in street events, marathons, quests, fairs, forums, debates, seminars, tournaments, quizzes, photo exhibitions and painting contests with a European theme organized by the Network of European Information Centers in 15 regions of Ukraine. In addition, residents and visitors to Kyiv, Mykolayiv, Sevastopol and Lviv observed "European Parades" that became an innovative format of the traditional Europe Day in Ukraine. In essence, these parades became the first street shows in support of Ukraine's integration into Europe, European values and standards of living. (<http://ukrcei.org>, <http://www.euroyouth.org.ua>).

INTERNATIONAL PUBLIC PARTNERSHIP

IRF's East-East Program provides a platform for the exchanges of best practices between civil society organizations in post-Communist countries. In 2010, the Program (director – Tetyana Kukharenko) supported 20 international projects in Ukraine, provided for the participation of 130 Ukrainian activists and experts in the activities of partner organizations abroad. These were some of the most successful initiatives:

Monitoring access to public information. With support from the East-East Program, a group of analysts from Ukraine, Azerbaijan, Georgia and Kyrgyzstan made a comparative analysis of the transparency of the activity and accountability of the government in using the funds of the national budget in different sectors. Ukraine was recommended to develop a website of bodies of central government in order to adequately present public information for civilians and optimize the online presence of local government bodies. Detailed information can be found at <http://ua-energy.org/post/4833#>

At a conference in Kyiv, experts on energy sector development (from Ukraine, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Kazakhstan and a number of EU countries) presented the advantages for Ukraine of joining the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI). The Ukrainian government was given specific recommendations how to reduce corruption by introducing EITI principles: transparency in government reporting of revenues to the state budget and disclosure by companies in the energy sector of payments made to the government. Ukrainian NGOs were recommended to implement the initiative “Publish what you pay for” so that every taxpayer understands how energy rates are calculated and how revenues to the state budget from the energy sector are spent (<http://ua-energy.org/>).

International experience in guaranteeing the rights of people with special needs. International conferences were held in Poltava (Ukraine) and Ostrava (Czech Republic) on the issue of people with special needs and their integration into a normal life in society. The Poltava conference, which focused on the problem of barriers to people with special needs, convinced the city's government of the need to introduce 10 additional trolleybuses with lowered entry stairs into the city's public transport system, which will help people in wheelchairs to safely travel long distances and overcome inconvenient roads. During the meeting in the Czech Republic its participants learned about the best European practices of training and recruitment of social workers to work with people with special needs, engaging the handicapped in sporting and cultural events, inclusive and special education, job placement and integration into society, which is a norm of executing the Convention on the Rights of the Disabled.

At the end of 2010 the East-East Program launched a pilot initiative by announcing the competition “Exchange of Best Practices of Self-Organization and Civil Activity between Non-Government Organizations in Ukraine” along the model of international exchange programs. 13 initiatives were supported that will cover all regions of Ukraine and give participants the opportunity to share experiences in such spheres as public self-organization, executing social orders from local budgets, developing socially active rural schools, and many others.

IMPROVING EDUCATION QUALITY

The IRF Education Program (directors – Georgiy Kasianov and Olean Zaplotynska) supports public initiatives to contribute to systemic changes directed to bringing Ukraine's education sector closer to best European practices.

Information campaign “For Honest Admissions 2010”. As a result of changes in the leadership of the Ministry of Education in early 2010 and debates regarding the future of independent external testing in Ukraine, a coalition of NGOs conducted an information campaign in support of the independent external testing system entitled “For Honest Admissions 2010”. During the course of the campaign there was a noticeable increase in the percentage of people that believe external testing is a fairer way of assessing students' knowledge – from 32.4% in 2008 to 40.8% in 2010 (based on the results of surveys conducted by the Democratic Initiatives Foundation in 2008 and 2010). Meanwhile, 82.7% of freshmen claim that their parents did not have to resort to illegal means for them to gain admission to an institution of higher education (based on a survey of students by the Institute of Social and Political Psychology of the Academy of Pedagogical Sciences of Ukraine http://www.ispp.org.ua/bibl\_6.htm).

The situation with independent external testing in Ukraine remains controversial and requires greater attention from the public. In July-August 2010, OPORA and the Committee of Voters of Ukraine, with support from IRF and a number of other donor organizations, monitored the admission of students to higher education institutions in all oblasts of Ukraine (55 of the most prestigious higher education institutions in Ukraine). Through a hotline, nearly 2,000 legal consultations were given to secondary school graduates whose rights were violated during the document submission and admissions processes.

The NGOs were able to draw public attention to fake olympiad winner certificates, violations committed by admissions committees, violations of application deadlines and enrollment procedures, etc. Recommendations for improving the admissions process were directed to the Ministry of Science and Education of Ukraine.

Law and education. Support was provided for the developing of pilot courses on education law in centers of higher learning; the first free online legal advice service for educators was launched (<http://www.osvitaua.com/shkilniy-svit/konsultaciya-dlya-osvityan/>). New initiatives were supported to provide legal advice and litigation support to individuals whose rights were violated during the higher education admissions process, and trainings on legal aid for independent observers of the 2010 admissions process.

Management and financing of education: opportunities for change. In 2010, state financing for education in Ukraine increased to 6.6% of GDP; however, the sector constantly lacks funds. According to experts that researched the system of financing education in the Kyiv, Lviv and Donetsk oblasts, this is due to inefficient use of budget funds, a fragmented system of administration, excessive centralization and branching of the school system at a time of decreasing student numbers. NGOs developed recommendations for optimizing the system of education financing on the central and regional levels. The manual “School Budget” was prepared for school principals and trainings were held in Kyiv and 7 regions of Ukraine.

Introducing inclusive education. Access to quality education for children with special needs remains a serious problem in Ukraine. With support from the IRF Education Program, a draft basic concept of inclusive education in Ukraine was developed along with a package of proposals on necessary changes to legislation. The Ministry of Science and Education of Ukraine announced a Concept to be debated publicly and the Cabinet of Ministers issued an order “On approving a plan for introducing inclusive and integrated education in secondary schools for the period through 2012”.

570 UKRAINIAN TRANSLATIONS OF THE WORLD’S BEST LITERATURE

In 1999-2010, the Social Capital and Academic Publications Program (SCAP) (director – Taras Lyuty) helped make possible the translation into Ukrainian and publication of leading foreign literature in the humanities and social sciences. To date, 570 titles have been published. Although the Program suspended its grant activities in 2010, it is looking for potential donors to take over the legacy of this project. There is no other institution in Ukraine with such experience. The SCAP Program is ready to act as an advisory or executive body to support publishing. At its close, the Program supported the translation and adaptation of the “European Dictionary of Philosophy” (Dukh i Litera and Youth Center for Humanities). Together with the Polish Institute in Kyiv and the IRF Education Program, 4 projects were supported to translate Polish literature on tolerance and civic education in the teaching of history.

PUBLIC HEALTH

The activities of the Program (directors – Viktoria Tymoshevska and Olena Kucheruk) are directed at protecting human rights in healthcare and ensuring equal access to prevention and treatment programs for vulnerable groups.

Protecting the rights of patients who need palliative care. Anyone who has cared for a severely ill loved one will pay attention to the work of the following NGOs: Rivne Oblast Branch of the All-Ukrainian Network of People Living with HIV/AIDS, Kyiv Oblast Branch of the All-Ukrainian Network of People Living with HIV/AIDS and the Institute for Legal Studies and Strategies. They documented violations of rights of palliative patients who were in a hospital, hospice or at home and did not have access to proper medical care or pain treatment. The Program supported three pilot projects to create visiting palliative care teams at health facilities in the Zakarpattia, Mykolayiv and Cherkasy oblasts. These are the first initiatives in Ukraine that will help develop an effective model of providing services in cities and rural areas for palliative patients living at home.

Reducing harm from drug use. The Program supported a number of initiatives to overcome human rights violations and access to lifesaving treatment (substitution maintenance therapy – SMT) during the detention, arrest and imprisonment of injection drug users (IDUs). Interruptions in treatment and resulting withdrawal syndrome provide the opportunity for abuse of those detained by law enforcement. International organizations consider this torture. With organizational, financial and expert support from the Program, an interdepartmental group of experts was formed under the Committee on HIV/AIDS and other Dangerous Diseases of the Ministry of Health of Ukraine. The group drafted the interdepartmental order on ensuring uninterrupted substitution maintenance therapy to patients. If this document is adopted, all substitution maintenance therapy patients (more than 6,000 people) potentially stand to benefit.

Lower prices for essential medicines. With the financial and expert support of the Program, a special working group was created within the Ministry of Health and Academy of Legal Sciences to develop legal mechanisms to lower prices for certain medicines. Group of drugs were identified for which the opportunity to apply flexible provisions of international free trade agreements and intellectual property rights will be examined. The group is currently focusing on antiretroviral drugs for treating HIV/AIDS and antiviral drugs to treat viral hepatitis. If successfully implemented, these mechanisms can be used to lower prices and negotiate with manufacturers of drugs used to treat cancer, cardio-vascular disease and other innovative drugs.

INTEGRATING ROMA INTO UKRAINIAN SOCIETY

The Roma of Ukraine program (director – Nataliya Kyyak) promotes initiatives aimed at the protection of Roma rights, improvement of access to health care services, acquisition by Roma children and youth of primary (basic skills) and higher education.

Improving the health of Roma through a health mediators program. In late 2009 and throughout 2010 the Roma in Ukraine Program implemented a joint project with the Roma Health Project (OSI Budapest) entitled “Improving Roma Health by Creating a Network of Roma Health Mediators in Ukraine”. 15 Roma mediators worked in 5 pilot regions. Before starting their work, the Roma mediators (facilitators) attended a week-long training-internship course in Romania, where a similar program has existed for more than 10 years. According to the Chirikli Roma Organization, during the course of the project, the mediators compiled a database of nearly 14,000 Roma and their problems. According to the report by the health mediator in the village of Siurte (Uzhhorod raion, Zakarpattia oblast), nearly 60% of people require urgent medical care because they suffer from various chronic diseases. The mediators identified the problem of vaccinations in all pilot regions.

Preparing Roma children for school. The acquisition by Roma children of life skills such as basic reading, writing and arithmetic gives them the opportunity to study in primary school on the same level as other children. As a result of the competition, support was given to 13 organizations to organize preparatory courses for more than 250 Roma children starting school in 2010.

Within the framework of its education focus area, the Roma of Ukraine Program is actively cooperating with the Roma Education Fund (REF). In 2010, the Program conducted an informational campaign about the program in the regions, thanks to which the 76 Roma students were given scholarships (nearly twice as many as in 2009). In addition to scholarships, the Program also sponsored foreign languages courses, mostly English, for 21 students.

Identification documents in Roma communities. A serious problem in the Roma community in Ukraine is the absence of identity documents. According to NGOs, in many areas of the Zakarpattia oblast with large Roma populations, from 30 to 50% of Roma do not have documents. Through the competition “Passportization for Roma Communities” support was given to 10 NGOs to monitor the availability of birth certificates and Ukrainian passports, identify common reasons for the lack of documents, and help Roma obtain documents.

National Roma newspaper “Romani Yag”. In 2010 the Program continued its support of the Roma national newspaper “Romani Yag”. 15 issues of the newspaper were published along with an electronic version on the Romani Yag website (<http://www.romaniyag.org/>).

HUMANITARIAN PROGRAM

ANTI-CRISIS HUMANITARIAN PROGRAM

---

Number of Projects: 225
Grant Amount: UAH 15,169,452
Share of the Total Grant Amount: 19.67%

Program Goal in 2010: to support the humanitarian sector in Ukraine, preserve the country's cultural and human potential, and help vulnerable groups that were affected by the financial and economic crisis.

Program Priorities in 2010:

- Support of socio-cultural institutions (secondary schools, preschools, rural community centers and libraries), and non-governmental and charity organizations that implement humanitarian and social projects for children and youth;
- Support of social anti-crisis initiatives of NGOs that work with traditionally vulnerable groups (children and adults with disabilities, poor and lonely seniors, the homeless, refugees);
- Support for NGO projects developed in cooperation with local government and business to improve youth employment, develop social enterprise and support the middle class.

Competitions and Important Initiatives Supported by the Program in 2010:

The competition “Social Initiatives to Help Children with Special Needs” (together with the Krona Foundation) was announced to help children with special needs integrate into society and to fight poverty. 78 project proposals were submitted and 24 projects were supported.

An additional microgrant competition was announced as part of the joint competition with the Krona Foundation “Social Initiatives to Help Children with Special Needs” to prevent the termination of social services for children with special needs on the community level. 57 project proposals were submitted and 9 projects were supported.

Thanks to these projects, 56 types of services for children with special needs were reinstated and supported and 13 new services were created, including: health promotion, day care, socio-medical and physical rehabilitation, early crisis intervention to prevent abandonment of children with developmental disabilities, early learning and development, preparation for inclusion, socio-psychological rehabilitation for severely ill children, vocational guidance and employment counseling, etc.

In total, assistance was provided to 3,120 children and teenagers with special needs: disabled children, seriously ill children that require treatment or physical rehabilitation, children with mental disorders, at risk children (orphans and children deprived of parental care, poor) and their parents.

The competitions also provided employment to 80 specialists (social workers, speech pathologists, psychologists, rehabilitation therapists, doctors) that provide services, often unique, for children with special needs. 200 volunteers were also recruited to help children.

The competition “Assistance to Nurseries and Kindergartens to Help Working Mothers”, announced jointly with the Ministry of Science and Education of Ukraine, aimed to help address overcrowding and lack of preschools. The competition also provided support for repairs to improve sanitary and overall conditions at preschools in rural communities. 127 project proposals were submitted and 59 projects were supported.

The competition “The School is My Home and Family”, announced jointly with the Ministry of Science and Education of Ukraine, aimed to overcome the negative effects of the crisis – reduced numbers of extended-day groups in secondary schools and underfunding (or closure) of after-school activities (clubs, hobby groups, sports clubs) due to growing state and local budget shortfalls. 268 project proposals were submitted and 79 projects were supported.

The competition “Support of Vulnerable Social Strata in Western Ukraine During Crisis Period” (in cooperation with Carpathian Foundation) encouraged NGOs to design projects to help socially vulnerable populations in four oblasts of the Carpathian region: Zakarpattia, Ivano-Frankivsk, Lviv and Chernivtsi oblasts. 70 project proposals were submitted and 18 projects were supported. Their goal was to improve the lives of target groups such as orphans and children deprived of parental care, children with disabilities, addicts, the elderly and homeless.

The focus of these projects was to organize informal social enterprises with participation of the disabled, elderly and vulnerable children to increase household incomes, provide care and social support services, develop eco-tourism, involve children in community work; organize social enterprises to provide services during the crisis, introduce effective models of cooperation between business and community by introducing a system of social discounts in the cities of Chernivtsi, Uzhhorod, Ivano-Frankivsk and Lviv; supporting rehabilitation centers and providing services to children with disabilities during the crisis; social integration and adaptation of orphans and children deprived of parental care; providing food and basic household items for single, low-income seniors; improving the quality of medical and social services during the crisis.

The competition “Organization of Summer Camps for Children From Low-Income and Vulnerable Families” was announced jointly with the Ministry of Family, Youth and Sports of Ukraine in order to prevent neglect and abandonment of children being raised in large, poor or single parent families by organizing summer sleep away camps and school day camps. 149 project proposals were submitted and 42 projects were supported. More than 4,000 children attended camps in 2010 and another 3,000 learned to swim thanks to the Fund to Support Youth and Olympic Swimming headed by Denys Silantiev and Yana Klochkova.

The competition “Transforming Crisis-Hit Houses of Culture (Village Clubs) into Community Centers and Engaging Local Art Groups in Charitable Work” was announced in December 2010 in order to improve the functioning of cultural institutions suffering because of the financial crisis but able to revive and develop their activities. The competition seeks to provide support for community activists and creative groups in villages, towns and small cities by transforming cultural buildings and libraries into local community centers. 334 project proposals were submitted and the results will be announced in March 2011 (information will be available in the 2011 IRF annual report).

The supplementary competition “Transforming Crisis-Hit Houses of Culture (Village Clubs) into Community Centers and Engaging Local Art Groups in Charitable Work in Donetsk Oblast” was announced jointly with the Donetsk Oblast State Administration within the framework of a signed Memorandum of Cooperation. 91 project proposals were submitted and the results will be announced in March 2011 (information will be available in the 2011 IRF annual report).

The competition “Support of Youth Labor Centers in Times of Economic Crisis” was announced jointly with the Ministry of Youth, Family and Sports in December 2010. The goal of the competition is to increase youth employment during the financial and economic crisis and improve employment figures among unemployed youth and university students. The competition will support innovative projects and programs designed by NGOs, youth labor centers, student employment centers and employment services in cooperation with business and local government. 77 project proposals were submitted and the results will be announced in March 2011 (information will be available in the 2011 IRF annual report).

Partnership and Cooperation

An important objective of the Anti-Crisis Humanitarian Program is to encourage representatives of state and local government, non-governmental organizations, international donor organizations, businesses and charitable foundations to join efforts and create a “consortium of benefactors” on the national and regional levels to overcome the negative effects of the crisis.

In 2010 the International Renaissance Foundation signed a number of Memorandums on creating “anti-crisis” consortiums. Memorandums were signed with the Lutsk City Council, Vinnytsia Oblast Council, Vinnytsia City Council, Kirovohrad Oblast State Administration, Donetsk Oblast State Administration and Oblast Council and Dnipropetrovsk Raion Council to hold joint anti-crisis competitions for NGOs of the given regions to implement important social projects and work with children and youth. Local authorities are to provide co-financing of 200,000 to 1,000,000 hryvnias.

Memorandums of cooperation were also signed with state institutions, in particular the Ministry of Youth, Family and Sports of Ukraine. Throughout the year the Anti-Crisis Humanitarian Program actively cooperated with several charity organizations – the Fund for the Development of the Carpathian Euroregion and the Krona Foundation – to help vulnerable populations and children with special needs. Later on, our partners became Rinat Akhmetov’s Foundation for Development of Ukraine” and the Ukrainian Center for Museum Development (founded by the International Charitable Fund “Ukraine 3000”), which helped organize the international conference “Public Reform of Museum Management and Marketing”.

Difficulties Faced by the Program and Outlook for the Future:

The financial and economic crisis in Ukraine overlapped with the continuous political crisis and, consequently, overall social depression. As a result, it was rather difficult for the staff and experts of the Anti-Crisis Humanitarian Program to identify social consequences of the 2008-2009 crisis and separate them from the negative consequences of post-communist transformations and mistakes made by governments throughout Ukraine’s independence.

Unfortunately, neither the government headed by Prime Minister Yulia Tymoshenko nor the government led by Mykola Azarov performed thorough and expert studies of the consequences of the financial and economic crisis on Ukrainian society. In spring 2010 the Anti-Crisis Humanitarian Program held a roundtable with representatives of numerous research institutions and think tanks that helped identify problems in certain spheres and social groups, but did not provide a comprehensive picture of the impact of the global crisis on Ukraine’s economy, culture and social sphere.

The large number of memorandums of cooperation signed between IRF and local authorities in 2010 gives us optimism. There is every reason to say that local government is willing to actively implement projects to overcome the effects of the crisis. At the time of this report, the Anti-Crisis Humanitarian Program had received more than 15 letters from municipal, raion and oblast councils on signing memorandums of cooperation with IRF for anti-crisis initiatives; only cooperation between local activists, leaders of the NGO sector, government and international donors can help accelerate Ukraine’s economic and socio-cultural recovery.

CIVIL SOCIETY IMPACT ENHANCEMENT PROGRAM

Number of Projects: 143
Grant Amount: UAH 15,463,933
Share of the Total Grant Amount: 20.05%

The goal of the Program is to promote development of a system to protect the rights of public and municipal service consumers and to support NGO policy capacity building.

Program Priorities for 2010:

- Public monitoring of national and local government institutions and their officials, their activities, policies, and responsibility thereof.
- Support of participation of the third sector in the decentralization reforms development.
- Support of independent national and regional think tanks.
- Promote civic activism of territorial community members to solve major local problems.
- Support the development of a system to protect the rights of public and municipal service consumers. E-governance (e-democracy) development.
- Support development and implementation of a responsible energy policy.
- Promote interethnic tolerance, good neighborhood relations, and social integration.

Competitions and Tenders in 2010:

- The competition “Local Initiatives for Improvement of Living Quality” conducted jointly by the International Renaissance Foundation (IRF), the East Europe Foundation (EEF) and PACT (the implementer of the UNITER project) aimed at strengthening the relations between the public and private sector on the local level, enhancing the abilities of local citizens to make innovative decisions for the local economy and social development and to guarantee the participation of citizens, monitoring and advocacy at the grass-roots level in the planning of policy and reforms. Total number of applications submitted for the competition was 238. The number of projects supported by the EEF was 22 and the number of projects supported by IRF was 9.
- The competition “Public Control of Activity of the Public Authorities” was aimed at ensuring independent public control of the activities of national and local government institutions and their officials, and their accountability to citizens for the policies implemented. Of the 84 project proposals submitted, 11 were supported.

- The competition “Micro-Grant Support to Public Initiatives” was aimed at fostering the micro-grant support of non-government organizations in developing the self-organization of people at their place of residence, standing up for their rights and group interests in the mutual relations with state and local self-government bodies and providers of social, housing, utilities and other services. Of the total 65 applications submitted to the competition, 8 were supported.
- The competition “Tolerant Ukraine” envisaged the support of civil society initiatives aimed at the development of inter-ethnic tolerance, overcoming the influence of stereotypes and prejudice in the spheres of inter-ethnic relations, achieving the required level of inter-ethnic understanding, the social and cultural integration of national minorities and ethnic communities into Ukrainian society on the grounds of mutual respect to the diversity of cultural identities. In compliance with the terms of the competition, the project activity was to be performed exclusively on the territory of the Autonomous Republic of Crimea and the Zakarpattia, Odesa and Chernivtsi oblasts. Of the 25 project proposals submitted, 8 were supported.
- The competition “Policy Analysis to Resolve Issues of Regional and Local Development” was aimed at building the capacity of civil society organizations to analyze state/regional/municipal policies with the objective of enhancing their impact on the content of comprehensive decisions of state and local self-government bodies in the process of resolving social issues of regional and local importance. Of the 45 proposals submitted to the competition held in two stages (in the first stage participants submitted their project concepts and in the second stage those that successfully advanced from the first stage prepared full draft proposals) 6 of them were supported.
- The tender “Legislative Regulation of Providing Administrative Services” envisaged fostering public participation in reforming the system of administrative services. The only draft proposal submitted for the tender failed to gain the support of the Program Council as a result of which the tender was deemed as not having taken place. Consequently, the Program Board made a decision to support two projects as negotiated grants within this activity direction.
- The competition “Budgetary Policy Monitoring on the Local Level” was aimed at conducting independent public monitoring and analysis of the process of forming the revenue side of the local budget, its fulfillment and public reporting of the results of its fulfillment by representatives of local self-government bodies, as well as local bodies of executive power and their officials. Of the 40 proposals submitted to the competition, 12 were supported.
- The tender “Reforming the Housing and Communal Services System” was aimed at promoting the participation of civil society representatives in the implementation of reform of the housing and communal services system in Ukraine. Of the 5 proposals submitted, 1 was supported.
- The competition “Public Participation in the Process of Improving Legal Acts” was aimed at civil society drafting proposals to resolve real problems of local development through public debate and lobbying for the approval of new legal acts and improvement of those currently in effect by state and local self-government bodies, and their officials. Of the 43 project proposals submitted, 12 were supported.
- The competition “Supporting Activity and Creation of Resource Centres for Neighbourhood Associations and Condominiums” was aimed at supporting the activity of existing resource centers and opening new ones for neighbourhood associations and/or condominium associations to foster self-organization of citizens and conduct reforms of housing and utilities administrations at the local level. Of the 71 proposals submitted, 11 were supported.

- The competition “Activity Effectiveness Enhancing of NGOs and Third Sector Activists” was aimed at fostering the growth of the professional level of representatives of NGOs in order to enhance the effectiveness of civil society institutions and the influence of the public on resolving relevant problems of local development. Of the 34 project proposals submitted, 10 were supported.

In addition, 36 non-competitive projects were supported by the Program in 2010.

Important initiatives launched and/or implemented in 2010:

In 2010 the Program continued its focus on expanding the use of public examinations as an instrument of public control over the activities of bodies of executive power. The Resolution of the Cabinet of Minister of Ukraine (CMU) № 976 from November 5, 2008 “On approving the Procedure for promoting public examinations of the activities of bodies of executive power” (with amendments) allows for civil society institutions to conduct independent assessments of the activities of executive power bodies and the execution of decisions made by these bodies, and to develop proposals to resolve problems of social importance that are to be taken into account by executive power bodies in their work. This Resolution envisaged the creation of an electronic register of public examinations in the “Civil Society and Government” section of the official website of the Cabinet of Ministers. With support from the Program, the Creative Union “Technologies of Optimum Personality Development” developed and transferred into the ownership of the Secretariat of the Cabinet of Ministers an electronic register of public examinations (<http://civic.kmu.gov.ua/civic/control/uk/exam/search>). Special instructions were issued by the Vice Prime Minister of Ukraine to executive power bodies requiring that they periodically submit certain data to be included in the register. The Secretariat of the CMU is currently working on adding information to the register.

On November 3, 2010, the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine adopted Resolution № 996 “On public participation in formulating and implementing state policy” which established a new procedure for forming public councils and consultation with the public. From now on, public councils are to be formed not by a unilateral decision of the head of an executive power body, but by civil society institutions themselves. Members are selected for a 2-year term through open preferential voting. The Resolution also significantly expanded the list of organizations that can become members of public councils and created conditions for more democratic procedures in the work of such councils. Due to time constraints (there were only 3 months to set up public councils), the Program supported the non-competitive project of the Ukrainian Center for Independent Political Research (UCIPR) “Promoting the Access of Civil Society Organizations to Working in Public Councils Created at the Executive Power Bodies” which together with partner organizations provided consultation and methodological support. UCIPR created the website <http://www.gromrady.org.ua> that provides civil society institutions with detailed methodological recommendations, sample documents and other information related to the formation of public councils and other issues related to the work of public councils in Ukraine. The project team also held numerous seminars on this topic for representatives of bodies of executive power and civil society institutions on the national and regional levels, set up a hotline to provide consultation on how to create effective public councils, and created a specialized informational bulletin for civil society institutions.

In 2010 the Program resumed its practice of supporting think tanks, with particular emphasis on supporting activities on the local and regional levels. The Program announced a special two-stage competition in which NGOs had to demonstrate their analytical potential by using policy analysis tools to develop a concept of solving certain pressing problems of local or regional development; 6 NGOs from different regions of Ukraine were selected. In order to improve the analytical skills of these organizations’ experts, a three-day training on policy analysis was conducted by leading Ukrainian experts still during the project proposal stage. Experts of the Ukrainian Institute for Public Policy, one of the leading think tanks in Ukraine, provided the winners of the competition with ongoing consultation during their work on analyzing local and regional policy.

One of the key directions of the Program was support for projects aimed at drafting new and improving existing legal acts to address the most pressing problems on the national and local levels. We should highlight the development by experts of the All-Ukrainian NGO "Association for Population Self-Organization" of the draft Law of Ukraine "On general meetings (conferences) of members of a territorial community based on place of residence". The Law of Ukraine "On local self-government in Ukraine" stipulates that decisions of general meetings are to be taken into consideration by local self-government bodies in their work and that the procedure for holding such meetings is to be determined by law and statute of the territorial community. This law does not exist yet in Ukraine, while the competence, procedure for convening general meetings and implementing their decisions is governed by the Resolution of the Verkhovna Rada from December 17, 1993 № 3748-XII "On approving Regulations on general meetings of citizens at their place of residence in Ukraine". Given the legislative changes that have taken place in Ukraine since this Resolution was adopted, it now contradicts the Constitution of Ukraine and Laws of Ukraine "On local self-government in Ukraine" and "On bodies of self-organization of the population", and others. This situation makes it impossible for members of a territorial community to exercise this right and take part in solving local problems. The drafted Law of Ukraine "On general meetings (conferences) of members of a territorial community based on place of residence" aims to eliminate these regulatory discrepancies. This bill was subject to public debate at four regional roundtables and a special national conference held in Vinnytsia and was submitted for review to the relevant committee of the Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine.

In late 2010 the Lviv NGO "Center for the Study of Local Self-Government" launched a project, with support from the Program, aimed at identifying key problems of payment for administrative services and developing a complete system of legislation in this sphere. The system of administrative services in Ukraine remains non-transparent, bureaucratic and expensive for citizens. Key problems include the absence of legislative regulation of administrative procedures and fees for administrative services. The latter problem is particular acute for consumers of services because government agencies and entities created under them often collect unreasonable fees from citizens and businesses. This approach by the government to "earn money" from administrative services leads to the "breakdown" of administrative services and deliberate complication of the procedure of rendering them. Most project activities will take place in 2011 and will include an analysis of problems related to payment of administrative services in Ukraine. A draft Law "On administrative fees" will be developed following discussions of the conclusions of the study.

In addition to supporting the development and public debate of legal acts on the national level, the Program continued to provide financial support for public initiatives on the local level. The Zhytomyr Oblast Center for Youth Initiatives and the Youth NGO "Creative Youth Association "Nivroku" successfully completed projects aimed at the development, public debate and lobbying of city charters for Zhytomyr and Ternopil. As a result of these projects, the Zhytomyr City Council adopted its city charter as a whole and the Ternopil City Council adopted its city charter in the first reading.

Certain projects supported by the Program helped improve local budget revenue collection. A project by the NGO "Small Business Laboratory" in Slavutych was aimed at introducing systematic changes in municipal land management. Recommendations that were developed by the organization after an analysis of the existing state of affairs and implemented through decisions of the local government helped to significantly increase the collection of payments for land use. In 2009 legal entities paid a total of 699,400 hryvnias in rent for land, while in the first half of 2010 alone, thanks to a new systematic approach, this figure was up to 524,800 hryvnias (a 33% increase over planned targets). Even more telling was the collection of rent from individuals in the city of Slavutych: the amount collected in the first half of 2010 was close to the total for 2009: 281,500 and 282,700 hryvnias, respectively.

In 2010 the Program continued to support civil society initiatives aimed at defending the rights of certain categories of citizens. With support from the Program, the NGO “Direct Action Committee” successfully defended in the courts the rights of Kyiv drivers. NGOs and lawyers on numerous occasions insisted that wheel clamps and fees charged to have them removed were illegal because only law enforcement agencies through a court order can limit a person’s right to use their property (in this case a car). In April 2010 the Kyiv District Administrative Court declared illegal Sections 31 and 32 of the Parking Rules which allow cars parked incorrectly to be wheel-clamped. Subsequently, the Kyiv Court of Appeals confirmed this decision by denying the appeal of the Communal Enterprise “KyivParkService”. It is estimated that while these Parking Rules were in force, KyivParkService, which introduced car booting, fined car owners to the tune of several million hryvnias. The Direct Action Committee plans to focus its activities on providing assistance to individual lawsuits against this communal enterprise for the return of unjustified charges.

The NGO “Residential Property Investors Association” implemented a project aimed at assisting initiative groups of individuals that invested in residential property to organize and provide legal assistance to protect their rights and collective interests in relations with developers, state and local authorities, and representing and defending the interests of private investors in the courts. Free legal assistance was provided to investors as part of this project. A key aspect of the work of the project team was the establishment of a system of communication with initiative groups of investors and community activists aimed at defending their rights and addressing pressing problems through a specialized call center and the Association’s website: <http://investhelp.com.ua>. As a result of the project, an effective system of initiative groups was established at 35 incomplete construction sites, private investors were given close to 1200 free legal consultations, 3 housing cooperatives were created that in the future are to assume the functions of the developer and help investors complete the apartments they invested in.

The Program continued to actively support reforms in the housing and communal services sector. Following the review of projects submitted for the tender “Reform of the Housing and Communal Services System” support was given to the project of the NGO “Kyiv Homeowners Association”. The goal of the project was to study the situation in the sector, draft a number of reform bills (including by studying the experience of several other countries), conduct a broad information campaign and hold public debates on draft laws and analytical materials. The main project activities will be carried out in 2011.

The Dnipropetrovsk City NGO “Association for Protection of Rights of Consumers of Housing and Communal Services “Nash Dim” in partnership with the NGO “Center for the Support of Civic and Cultural Initiative “Tamarisk” implemented two related projects in the city of Dnipropetrovsk. The projects supported the activities of a condominium resource center to facilitate the creation and build the capacity of condominium associations by providing consultation, informational, organizational, methodological and legal assistance, and share throughout the region best practices in reforming the housing and communal services system. The organizations also designed a management model for condominiums and published the manuals “Managing Apartment Buildings through Condominium Associations and Management Company” and “Practical Guide for Heads of Condominium Associations and Housing Cooperatives”.

The Lviv NGO “Center for the Study of Local Self-Government” created a training center for future condominium managers at the Lviv Condominium Association MZhK-No1. The organization wrote and published the manual “Professional Residential Property Management”. Materials provided by the Krakow Association of Property Managers were used in designing the training course and manual. The Center’s experts also developed a unique automated accounting system that calculates rates for condominiums.

The Program's energy related activities encountered certain difficulties. The new government did not take all the steps necessary for Ukraine to join the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI). Nevertheless, thanks to the efforts of members of the EnergyTransparency Association, a series of activities were carried out in 2010 aimed at lobbying for Ukraine to join this Initiative. The Program, together with the East-East Program, supported the project of the Youth NGO "Institute for Sustainable Development" to hold an international conference in Kyiv in November 2010 to discuss the state of implementation of the Energy Strategy of Ukraine through 2030 and Ukraine's accession to the EITI. Participants included representatives of the World Bank, members of the EITI Board and Secretariat, Revenue Watch Institute (RWI), foreign diplomats, NGOs from Ukraine, Georgia, Kyrgyzstan, Kazakhstan, Azerbaijan and Bulgaria. At this conference, a representative of the Ministry of Fuel and Energy of Ukraine for the first time publicly expressed the government's readiness to continue to implement the EITI in Ukraine.

No less important were other Program funded initiatives implemented by members of the EnergyTransparency Association to promote EITI in Ukraine. In particular, the NOMOS Center for Black Sea Security Studies developed proposals for amendments to the existing legal framework of Ukraine in the context of the future implementation of the EITI. The Program supported a project of the International NGO "Kyiv International Energy Club" to organize a visit by Ukrainian journalists to the EITI International Secretariat to learn about the fundamental ideas and principles of the EITI. The NGO "School for Policy Analysis" launched a project aimed at creating a regional network of NGOs to promote energy transparency and Ukraine's accession to the EITI. The NGO "Dixi Group" is conducting a national campaign for transparency in the Ukrainian energy sector through the website UA-Energy.org.

Activities to promote interethnic tolerance, good neighborhood relations, and social integration for the first time extended beyond the Autonomous Republic of Crimea to the Zakarpattia, Odesa and Chernivtsi oblasts. The Program announced the first open competition for activities in these regions and financed 8 projects. The supported projects were aimed at teaching tolerance, overcoming prejudice and stereotypes of other ethnic groups, and organizing events focusing on strengthening democratic dialogue among representatives of communities in various regions of Ukraine.

Considerable success was achieved in the E-governance and E-democracy component of the Program. This area of activities influences administrative reforms in Ukraine by: lobbying for changes in public policy and the administrative system, changing the mindset of civil servants; helping local government institutions improve management quality and efficiency and services provided to the public; building dialogue and partnerships between government agencies and civil society based on social responsibility; promoting openness of information.

The top priority for this area of activities in 2010 was supporting the creation of a National Center for E-Governance. A Memorandum of Cooperation was signed in 2009 between the State Committee on Informatization of Ukraine and IRF and on April 27, 2010 a National Center for E-governance was opened at the State Enterprise "DerzhInformResource" in compliance with Cabinet of Ministers Order №360-r from March 1, 2010. We should point out that this was the first time in all the years of independence that a state institution was created to provide support to state and local government, business and civil society organizations to introduce and apply e-government technologies.

Also within the framework of this Memorandum, a working group was created to draft a Concept of E-Governance Development in Ukraine that included leading Ukrainian and international experts on e-governance and representatives of the Estonian e-Governance Academy. Public debates were held of the drafted documents, including on the level of the Public Council under the State Committee on Informatization of Ukraine and the Council of Entrepreneurs under the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine. On December 13, 2010, the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine approved the "Concept of E-Governance Development in Ukraine" by Cabinet of Ministers Order №2250-r.

In January-July 2010 the Fund for the Development of Mykolayiv City, with support from IRF, implemented the project “Electronic City – Mykolayiv” as a result of which the program “Electronic Governance and Electronic Democracy in Mykolayiv City for 2010-2015” was developed and publicly debated. The Mykolayiv City Council adopted this comprehensive program on June 24, 2010. Total funding for this municipal program equals 7.5 million hryvnias. We should note that this document was the first comprehensive program on e-government and e-democracy adopted by a local government institution in Ukraine.

On December 8, 2010, representatives of the Ukrainian government and NGOs from Ukraine and Estonia signed Memorandums of Cooperation in the field of electronic governance at the Estonian Embassy in Kyiv. The Memorandums of Cooperation on the Development of E-Governance were signed by the State Committee of Ukraine on Science, Innovation and Information, IRF, the Estonian e-Governance Academy, the Open Estonia Foundation, the eGovernance Laboratory and the company Adamant. The signing of these memorandums marks the start of a new level of international cooperation and dialogue between government agencies, business and civil society, as the Estonian experience in developing open e-communication between governmental officials and citizens at all levels of dialogue between society, business and authorities is the most famous in Europe.

Difficulties in implementing program priorities:

Socio-political processes in Ukraine had a significant effect on the implementation of the Program's strategy in 2010. The results of the presidential elections and changes in staff in the executive branch at the start of the year forced the Program to make adjustments to certain activity directions. A good example is public participation in decentralization reforms. With the appointment in early 2010 of a new Minister of Regional Development and Construction it became difficult to continue promoting civil society initiatives on administration and territorial reform and local government reform, which had been actively supported by the Program in previous years. The new leadership of the Ministry began developing their own concepts of these reforms without involving representatives of the public in this process.

On the other hand, new opportunities opened up for NGOs to advance reforms in the housing and communal services sector. With the arrival of a new team at the Ministry of Housing and Communal Services came a new push for reforms. The ambitious plans announced and steps taken by the Ministry, such as establishing close cooperation with NGOs and donor organizations, showed the potential of such cooperation. Therefore, in 2010 the Program focused a large part of its efforts on reforms in this sector.

The Program faced new challenges following the local government elections in late October. Major changes in the composition of certain city councils resulted in a radical review by some local governments of future support for civil society initiatives. Many projects that relied heavily on relations with local government were jeopardized due to the fact that sometimes the party or business interests of newly elected local council deputies got in the way of valuable public initiatives. An example is the situation with the Regional Center for E-Government in Crimea, which officially opened in September 2008 following the signing of a Memorandum of Cooperation by the Ministry of Regional Development and Construction, the Council of Ministers of the Autonomous Republic of Crimea, the Executive Committee of the Sudak City Council and IRF. On December 8, 2010, the newly elected city council passed a decision transferring the premises where the Center had been located to another organization to rent on preferential terms.

Therefore, the Center had to focus its attention on moving and addressing the issue of its legal status as a regional branch of the National Center for E-Government.

Partnership and Cooperation:

The second joint competition aimed at supporting local level reforms was announced in early 2010 together with the UNITER Program and East Europe Foundation.

The Program continued to actively develop cooperation with the Open Society Institute network (OSI), in particular the OSI-LGI (Local Government and Public Service Reform Initiative). In 2010, owing to additional funds received from OSI-LGI, the Program announced a tender to support housing and communal services reform, as well as competitions aimed at monitoring local budget policy, promoting public participation in improving legal acts, expanding the network of resource centers for public self-organization and condominium associations, and building the capacity of NGO activists. In addition, with support from OSI-LGI, the Program was able to fund a small non-competitive project by the Mykolayiv Municipal NGO “Fund for the Development of Mykolayiv City” to advance technologies of electronic government and electronic democracy in the city of Mykolayiv.

The Program continued its cooperation with the Revenue Watch Institute (RWI), International Secretariat of the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI), and Open Society Foundations in Azerbaijan, Georgia, Kyrgyzstan and Kazakhstan to analyze the level of access to information in the energy sector. In late 2010 the Program also initiated cooperation with these OSI Foundations to conduct a joint international comparative study on transparency in public procurement. The main activities will take place in 2011-2012.

The Program actively cooperates with the e-Governance Academy (Tallinn, Estonia) and the East-East Program in the sphere of e-governance and e-democracy. Key partners in this direction in 2010 included the National Center for Electronic Government, the State Committee of Ukraine on Science, Innovation, the State Enterprise “DerzhInformResource”, local government institutions in Mykolayiv, Vinnytsia and Ivano-Frankivsk, the Open Estonia Foundation, the eGovernance Laboratory and the company Adamant.

The Program also cooperates closely with other IRF Programs. Together with the European Program, support was given for Ukrainian NGOs to establish cooperation with leading public platforms in the European Union. Together with the East-East Program support was given to energy and electronic government projects.

Over the course of 2010 support was also given to 26 projects under the Legal Empowerment Program for the Poor, 7 projects under the Free Legal Aid Program as well as 23 non-competitive projects.

Noteworthy Initiatives and Projects Supported in 2010

Legal Empowerment for the Poor. This area of activities of the Rule of Law Program was launched in late 2009 in cooperation with the Open Society Justice Initiative (New York, Budapest) and with support from the Victor Pinchuk Foundation. Community Legal Centers, established mainly in small communities, provide citizens with free legal assistance, thus helping residents of remote towns and villages protect their property, defend themselves against unscrupulous employers and take advantage of the existing social protection system. More than 10,000 citizens requested assistance from the Community Legal Centers in 2010.

More than a third of the requests had to do with social security. The network of Community Legal Centers held public events regarding the irresponsible position of the government towards people who have reached retirement age and are legally entitled to pension supplements. Instead of exercising their rights, pensioners faced legal opposition from the Pension Fund in courts at all levels. The Centers provide legal assistance to the poor at no cost.

Marked achievements of the Centers in 2010 include the development of a draft Regulation on the Commissioner for the Rights of Members of the Territorial Community in the Kherson Region, systematic legal support for establishing agricultural cooperatives in the Luhansk oblast and legal awareness campaigns on land ownership rights in rural communities in the Khmelnytskyi oblast.

The network includes 15 Centers in 6 oblasts of Ukraine: the Volyn, Khmelnytskyi, Kyiv, Poltava, Luhansk and Kherson oblasts. In December 2010 IRF supported a number of projects that will expand the network to the Odesa, Chernihiv, Rivne, Dnipropetrovsk and Mykolayiv oblasts. As the Initiative grows, it will bolster the legal capacity of people to defend their rights on their own.

Human Rights in Law Enforcement

In spring 2010 there was a major change in relations between the Ministry of Internal Affairs (MIA) and civil society organizations. Many initiatives that were implemented with support from IRF and met with approval by the public as well as employees of the internal affairs system were stopped. For example, the pilot electronic visitor registration system installed in the Zhovtnevy district police station in Kyiv was removed. The system offered people the opportunity to obtain confirmation that they were at the station, provided information about the structure of the station and possibility to obtain legal assistance, etc. The Public Council on Human Rights at the MIA ceased to exist, along with public councils at oblast departments of the MIA. The Minister's human rights assistants in all oblasts of Ukraine were dismissed. Mobile groups that exercised public control over human rights practices in raion police stations and temporary holding facilities were dissolved. Given these circumstances, the IRF Rule of Law Program significantly increased its focus on the observance of human rights by law enforcement bodies.

Association of Ukrainian Monitors of the Observance of Human Rights in the Work of Law Enforcement Bodies (UMDPL) became the successor to the Human Rights Monitoring Department at the MIA, which was eliminated by a decision of the Minister of Internal Affairs in March 2010. The Rule of Law Program helped transform this structural subdivision of the MIA responsible for human rights issues into an all-Ukrainian non-governmental organization. The accomplishments of the employees of the former department and three years of experience were not lost and became the foundation for the formation of a new system of public control over the work of the MIA and other law enforcement agencies in Ukraine. The organization systematically monitors human rights and fundamental freedoms throughout Ukraine. Information about UMDPL is available on their website: www.umdpl.info

First regional public opinion poll on police performance. With support from the Program, in 2010 the Kharkiv Institute of Social Research used a Ukrainian adaptation of the British Crime Survey to survey public opinion of police performance in Kharkiv. <http://khisr.kharkov.ua/index.php?id=1291897441>.

As the results showed, only 30% of those surveyed believe the police do a good job, while approximately 25% are unable to provide an opinion. Meanwhile, the statistical reporting system used in Ukraine since Soviet times to evaluate police performance annually gives figures showing nearly 100% crime detection. Experts claim that internal affairs employees are forced to “massage” these figures to reach the maximum level in order to demonstrate that their work is very effective.

Based on discussions of the results, recommendations were developed on the need to introduce an alternative police performance evaluation system that takes into account the level of public trust, satisfaction with police work and sense of safety, level of cooperation between the police and public, etc. The recommendations were tailored for specific government agencies. In early 2011 the MIA issued an order on the new assessment methodology for the internal affairs system which includes the results of a representative public survey of trust in law enforcement as one of the criteria for assessing police performance.

Access to socially important information. Presented by the Eastern Ukrainian Center for Civic Initiatives (EUCCI), the results of a nationwide survey of accessibility of general plans for Ukrainian cities caused public outrage. Despite the social importance of such information, access in Ukraine to city plans is marked as “For Official Use Only” even though there is no regulation stipulating this restriction. This situation makes it impossible for the public to control the implementation of the general plan and creates the opportunity for abuse by local government officials.

A national campaign was launched to lift the restriction on access to city plans that included public debates in all oblast centers of Ukraine, press conferences, publications in the media, legal and administrative appeals of refusals by city councils to provide cartographic information, developing proposals on how to improve the legal regulation of access to general plans. Additional information can be found at: <http://totalaction.org.ua/taxonomy/term/853>.

As a result of EUCCI's cooperation with the Ministry of Regional Development and Construction, Security Service of Ukraine, prosecutor's offices and city councils in 196 Ukrainian cities, Ukrainian legislation was amended to facilitate public access to city plans. Adopted on January 13, 2011 by the Verkhovna Rada, the Law of Ukraine "On urban development regulation" includes provisions that for the first time clearly outline the mechanism for ensuring public access to city plans. In particular, the law requires that city plans be available on the website of local self-government bodies and published in local print media.

Detailed information about this campaign and other access to information initiatives is available on the "Right to Know" website: <http://stop-x-files-ua.org>

MASS MEDIA
PROGRAM

MASS MEDIA PROGRAM

---

Number of Projects:	43
Grant Amount:	UAH 3,785,119
Share of the Total Grant Amount:	4.91%

The mission of the IRF Mass Media Program is to build up a qualified and publicly accountable journalist force in Ukraine.

Program Priorities for 2010:

- Promotion of journalists' rights.
- Development of investigative journalism
- Support to convergence of traditional and new media in Ukraine
- Promotion of public media literacy
- Increasing professional level of Ukrainian journalists

Program Competitions in 2010:

“Development of New Media and Support of the Use of New Communications Technologies in the Activity of the Mass Media”. The objective of the competition was to raise the level of professionalism of Ukrainian journalists and foster the preservation of the independence of the mass media through mastering new platforms via the Internet and mobile communications, thereby capturing new audiences and support of feedback with information users. A total of 29 projects, most of them in the regions, were supported.

The remaining initiatives of the Program were out-of-competition, negotiated or operational in nature.

Important Program initiatives realized in 2010

Monitoring observation of the rights of journalists and the mass media and the observation of professional standards in support of the Program by the latter is executed by such authoritative partners as the Institute of Mass Information and Telekritika. The Program offers support to the “Svidomo” Bureau of Investigative Journalism, which is considered an authority in professional circles and was created with the support of IRF.

In 2010, the Program for the second time in a row supported the New Ukraine School of Professional Journalism. The school's lessons focus mainly on global issues ranging from economy to ecology. Approximately 40% of the lecture hours are dedicated to gaining professional knowledge and skills. Another objective of the school is to create a community of professional and socially responsible journalists that would support one another, thereby complying with the standards of their profession. The Agency for Legislative Initiatives, which has many years of successful experience in realizing a similar project for a broader audience called the Ukrainian School of Political Studies, was the implementer of the project.

In 2010, 20 young but already successful journalists became the participants of the school. The first alumni conference was held, which helped unite graduates of two different years in joint ideas and projects. The graduates help one another fulfill professional tasks and execute joint initiatives.

The project “Nashi Hroshi” (Our Money) (<http://nashigroshi.org>) is an interesting initiative in the sphere of investigative journalism. A national agency of investigative journalism in the spheres of spending of budget funds, purchases through tenders and public financing were initiated with the support of the Program. Today, Nashi Hroshi is the largest source of information on this topic.

In 2010, the Program initiated support of the initiative “Fostering the Enhancement of the Media Literacy of Citizens”. A working group was created. Its objective was to develop a training program in which the students of pedagogical universities are lectured about media literacy. The working group included representatives of the Ministry of Education, Ministry of Science, Youth and Sports of Ukraine and authoritative civil (independent) media experts. The aim of this activity is the further implementation of training courses on media literacy in secondary schools in Ukraine.

The most influential direction in the work of the Program was the support of the development of new media in Ukraine. Within its framework we supported a number of training projects and pilot initiatives on implementation of convergence editing in traditional mass media.

An interesting start-up initiated and supported by the Program was the launch of the website “Vladometr” (<http://vladometr.org/>, <http://www.facebook.com/vladometr>), an online instrument for monitoring the fulfillment of promises made by the government. At the moment, there are more than 2,000 promises of the government in the database, which makes this resource the most comprehensive database on the given topic. The non-government campaign “Noviy Hromadyany” (New Citizen) is widely popularizing this site.

The project of Internews-Ukraine “Media Next Winter School on New Media” for journalism students and media activists was aimed at familiarizing journalists with the possibilities of new media. The training initiatives about new media were also supported in many regions of Ukraine, in particular, Lutsk, Crimea, the Cherkasy and Zhytomyr oblasts and many other regions of the country.

The Program also supported experts of the Taras Shevchenko Kyiv National University in developing training programs in normative disciplines and special courses on new media for universities in the regions. The team that worked on this project organized a cycle of training sessions for lecturers of journalism from different cities of Ukraine on using the latest technologies in the work of journalists. This will help improve the quality of education in journalism and make it more up to date (details about the project can be found at <http://www.newmedia.univ.kiev.ua/>).

Obstacles the Program ran into during the implementation of its strategy, supported projects and initiatives in 2010.

One of the challenges for the Program was and remains the potential reversal of the achievements in freedom of speech in the country, introduction of a sweeping censorship and self-censorship and pressure on independent journalists. This will force highlighting the monitoring and ensuring compliance with the rights of journalists and the mass media in Ukraine as the main priority of the Program.

Partnership and Cooperation in 2010

In its work the Program traditionally cooperates and coordinates its activity with other media donors that work in Ukraine, the main one being the U-Media project, which is realized by the Internews-Network with the support of USAID. Cooperation also takes place within the framework of the Open Society Institute network.

- Promoting European studies at the universities of Ukraine

2010 Competitions:

- “Development of Cooperation of Ukrainian and Western European Think Tanks” was aimed at establishing ties and cooperation between think tanks and/or non-government organizations in Ukraine and Western Europe in order to enhance the presence of Ukrainian expert opinion in the countries of Western Europe and expand better Western European experience, standards and practices in Ukraine. The competition was announced twice in 2010. 3 of the 18 projects received were supported.
- “Ukraine's European Identity” was aimed at raising awareness on European heritage of Ukraine and Ukraine's historic, cultural, and human ties with Europe via dissemination of research results and publishing relevant materials, shooting and disseminating films, organizing awareness-raising events. 8 of the 70 projects submitted were supported.
- “Conducting the School of European Integration for Leaders of Civil Society in Ukraine” as a pilot event aimed at capacity-building of representatives of different segments of civil society in Ukraine to take advantage of the opportunity of European integration in promoting reforms and European standards in Ukraine. 1 of the 2 projects submitted was supported.
- “Development of a Network of Regional European Information Centers on the Basis of Oblast Universal Scientific Libraries” was aimed at enhancing and expanding the activity of existing oblast European Information Centers. 15 of the 18 projects submitted were supported.
- “Organizing Academic Conferences on European Integration” within the framework of which international academic conferences organized by Ukrainian universities were supported aimed at developing academic discourse on the issues of European integration with policy focus on EU-Ukraine relations. 3 of the 26 projects submitted were supported.
- “Translation of Foreign Literature on European Integration and Post-Communist Transformation into the Ukrainian Language” within the framework of which the publication of modern academic literature on European integration and post-Communist transformation in countries of Central and Eastern Europe and the processes of state-building in Ukraine were supported. 4 of the 8 projects submitted were supported.
- “Publication of Literature on European and Euro-Atlantic Integration by Ukrainian authors” with the objective of publishing and re-publishing high quality Ukrainian materials on European and Euro-Atlantic integration. 3 of the 19 projects submitted were supported.

In addition, 36 of the 52 out-of-competition project proposals submitted in 2010 were supported. In 2010, 73 of the 213 project proposals submitted overall were supported. This is one and half times more than in the previous year. Besides that, one operational project was implemented.

Important Initiatives in 2010:

Civil Society Monitoring of Implementation of Ukraine's European Integration Commitments remained one of the key priorities for the European Program. The corresponding project that monitors implementation of the EU-Ukraine Association Agenda – the principal politically binding document in relations between the EU and Ukraine as of 2010 – has been implemented by a consortium of four independent think tanks (the Ukrainian Center for Independent Political Research, the Institute for Economic Research and Policy Consulting, the Center for Political and Legal Reforms with the media support of the international NGO Internews-Ukraine) in cooperation with the Civil Society Expert Council with the Ukrainian Side of the EU-Ukraine Cooperation Committee and a working group of experts on the environmental aspects of European integration. 30 experts of independent think tanks participated in the project.

The importance of civil society monitoring of the Association Agenda has to do with the fact that European integration offers the basis and guiding principles for the domestic reform process in Ukraine in practically all spheres. As such, civil society monitoring helps to diagnose to what degree rhetoric and promises of reform and Ukraine's European choice coincide with the actual actions of the government.

The EU-Ukraine Association Agenda is a fundamental document that replaced the EU-Ukraine Action Plan and as of the start of 2010 regulates relations between Ukraine and the EU until the Association Agreement is signed. The fulfillment of obligations within the framework of the Association Agenda aims to harmonize standards of living, governance and economic policy in Ukraine with European standards.

Over the course of 2010 two interim reports within the framework of the project and a series of expert assessments regarding different tasks envisaged in the Association Agenda were published. The publication of one more interim report and a summary report are expected over the course of 2011.

The interim results of public monitoring published prior to the EU-Ukraine Summit in November 2010 show that Ukraine fulfilled only 4 out of 60 priority reforms envisaged by the Association Agenda. The overall trend is stagnation on issues of political dialogue and a worsening of the state of affairs in human rights and democracy. The situation with economic reforms has been more promising.

NGO experts in Ukraine participate in the drafting of the EU Strategy for the Danube Region

Representatives of non-governmental organizations from L'viv, Kyiv, Chernivtsi, Uzhhorod, Odesa, Tatarbunari and Izmail that form the Working Group on the Danube Region under the auspices of the Civil Society Expert Council with the Ukrainian Side of the EU-Ukraine Cooperation Committee drafted the document "Civil Society View on Ukraine's Participation in the EU Strategy for the Development of the Danube Region". These proposals were based on the results of public hearings held in the city of Izmail.

The civil society's vision on the development of the Danube region was reflected in Ukraine's official position, which consists of concrete projects and initiatives that were submitted to the European Commission. The proposals are aimed at improving the lives of the local population residing in the Danube region in the spheres of environmental protection, transport, energy, culture, security and institutional development. Specifically, implementation of a project for the construction of the Orlovka-Isakcha international freight and passenger ferry route and a bridge at this crossing point, the construction of the 261-km long Odesa-Reni highway from the bridge across the Dnister estuary, creating a system of disposal of household waste in the region's populated areas, announcing flood warning measures and projects on the development of rural, green, wine and cruise tourism have been proposed. There are also plans to ensure the local population access to drinking water, implement organic rural farming, resolve the painful issue of Lake Sasik, expand protected reserve parks and renew other flora and fauna in the region.

The EU Strategy for the Danube Region initiated by the European Commission in 2009 is a vision of the directions of aggregate development of the Danube region in the spheres of environmental protection, transport, energy, culture, security and institutional development. The strategy applies to separate regions of 14 countries situated on both banks of the Danube River with a total population of 115 million, 6 million of which live in Ukraine. Ukraine's position submitted to the European Commission in August 2010 is the result of the joint work of the Ukrainian Civil Society Working Group on the Danube Region and the Inter-Departmental Working Group on Drafting the EU Strategy for the Danube Region under the auspices of the Ministry of Regional Development and Construction of Ukraine. Hence, this became a unique example of the effective cooperation between civil society and government.

Prospects of visa-free travel are ever closer

The civil society initiative "Europe Without Barriers" (www.novisa.org.ua) realized a number of measures over the course of 2010 aimed first and foremost at introducing a visa-free travel between Ukraine and EU member states and, secondly, at improving the conditions for the issuing of Schengen visas to Ukrainian citizens within the framework of the EC-Ukraine Visa Facilitation Agreement.

The "Europe Without Barriers" initiative published a report, which analyzed legislation to be adopted by Ukraine in order to be eligible for visa-free travel to the EU, and co-organized the hearings in the Verkhovna Rada on relevant issues. Cooperation was initiated with the Center for European Policy in Brussels and the European Stability Initiative (Brussels-Berlin-Istanbul), which played a key role in the implementation of visa-free travel to the EU for citizens of the Western Balkan countries. In addition, roundtables were held in Brussels and Kyiv on the prospects of visa free travel to the EU for Ukraine and other countries of Eastern Europe with participation of experts from these countries. Finally, the publication "Visa-Free Europe for the Eastern Partnership: a Way to Achieve" was drafted.

As a result of these and other advocacy efforts, the EU presented Ukraine with a visa liberalization action plan, which lists conditions that Ukraine must fulfill to be eligible for visa free travel with the EU. The work on fulfilling this plan requires coordinated and systematic efforts on the part of Ukraine's Cabinet of Ministers, relevant ministries, parliamentary committees and the parliament on the whole with the involvement of independent experts from Ukraine and the European Union.

The main reform areas in this respect include migration policy, document security, protection of personal data, border control and anti-corruption policy. The state of legislative and institutional guarantees of all these directions in Ukraine remains unsatisfactory. As such, the main task today is implementing the necessary internal reforms that will make Ukraine a realistic contender for a visa-free travel with the EU. An active civil society and mass media must consolidate efforts and demand from the government that it implement the corresponding reforms.

In the sphere of improving the conditions for issuing visas to Ukrainian citizens, the Europe Without Barriers initiative made public in October 2010 the results of the fourth stage of NGO monitoring of the issuing of EU member states visas to Ukrainian citizens. The previous stages of monitoring were conducted in 2006, 2008 and 2009. The procedure for issuing of visas in Ukraine by the consular services of 20 EU and Schengen Area member countries (31 consulates in 9 cities of Ukraine, 20 of which are based in Kyiv) were researched and a "rating of Schengen consulates" in Ukraine was compiled based on different indicators of the quality of consular services. The consular service of Hungary, which has three consulates in Ukraine (Kyiv, Uzhhorod and Berehovo), showed the best indicators on the aggregate. The consular service of Greece, with offices in Kyiv, Odesa and Mariupol, showed the worst results. Representatives of 14 of the 20 consular services researched were present at the presentation of the results, which is a high indicator testifying to the reputation of the project and the high level of trust in the Europe Without Borders initiative as an unbiased and professional non-governmental initiative.

The main conclusions are that the EU-Ukraine Visa Facilitation Agreement is functioning better than in 2008, though compared to 2009 further notable progress has not been achieved. Indeed, the time spent standing in lines has decreased mainly due to the introduction of external services (visa centers), which at the same time makes visas more expensive. The weighted average of the number of free visas stabilized at approximately 30% and the term of review of visa applications within 10 days stipulated in the Visa Facilitation Agreement is met in 80% of all cases, which is testimony to certain improvement in the process compared to previous years. The weighted average of rejected visa applications stabilized at a relatively low level (4.6% according to official data and 7% according to the results of survey), albeit with an essential difference of 5 times and higher between different consulates, which is testimony to the presence of the "political factor" in the work of consulates. Around 12% of all visas issued to Ukrainian citizens are valid for 1 year or so, and 2-, 3- and 5-year visas are a rare phenomenon (less than 1%).

The Europe Without Barriers initiative also presented in Kyiv and the regions a translation of the European Union Visa Code that took effect on April 5, 2010 with comments. The EU Visa Code introduced generally positive, though negligible adjustments of the visa practices of consulates, namely full unification of visa application forms, an increase in the number of multi-entry visas valid for 6 months and more and, accordingly, a certain reduction in the number of short-term multi-entry visas.

For more details about the activity of the initiative go to www.novisa.org.ua.

Thanks to the efforts of NGO experts the principles of Ukraine's environmental policy have been harmonized to EU requirements

On January 14, 2011, the Law of Ukraine "On the fundamental principles (strategy) of national environmental policy to 2020" took effect. The law was passed by the Verkhovna Rada on December 21, 2010. This means Ukraine fulfilled its main obligation in the environmental sector within the framework of the EU-Ukraine Association Agenda for 2010. The adopted law defines the goal and principles of state environmental policy, strategic goals and tasks, the instruments and stages of implementation of national environmental policy and the expected results of implementing the strategy. The strategy contains provisions the execution of which will allow for harmonizing the principles of Ukraine's environmental policy with EU requirements.

The bill drafted with the participation of civil society, scholars and members of the Ukrainian parliament was returned for revision on more than one occasion in 2008 due to procedural violations and changes of government. Civil society, in particular the Working Group on Environmental Policy of the Public Council under the Ministry of Ecology and Natural Resources, kept a watchful eye on the process of debates and adoption of this long-awaited legislative document, more than once expressed its concern about the non-transparency of the process and demanded that it be revised and debated as stipulated by Ukrainian legislation. The prepared and submitted written comments of civil society experts were ignored a number of times or were washed out of the text of the law. Substantial progress in the process of talks between the Ministry of Ecology and Natural Resources and the public on the content of the strategy was only achieved in the fall of 2010.

The passing of the Strategy on National Environmental Policy by the end of 2010 was the main condition for Ukraine being granted EUR 45 million in budget support from the European Union and the government of Sweden. In the course of drafting the Strategy, the European Commission informed the government of Ukraine that involving civil society in the process of drafting the Strategy is one of the fundamental principles in the preparation and implementation of policy along the European model. The European Commission felt that the participation of civil society in preparing the Strategy draft is also a necessary condition for rendering budget support for the realization of the Strategy and expected that the draft of this document would go through proper public debate and sound proposals would be used to improve the document. Such a position of the European Commission apparently had an impact on the desire of the Ukrainian government to cooperate with organized civil society working on environmental issues.

Pursuant to the adopted law, the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine was instructed to draft and approve the National Action Plan (NAP) on Environmental Protection by March 31, 2011. The working group of environmental NGOs in Ukraine “EcoInt” in collaboration with the Public Council at the Ministry for Ecology and Natural Resources of Ukraine and the Civil Society Expert Council with the Ukrainian Side of the EU-Ukraine Cooperation Committee plan to continue monitoring of this process and conducting a series of public expert debates on the NAP in different regions of Ukraine and in Kyiv.

Ukraine’s European identity is being confirmed

Over the course of 2010 a number of measures aimed at popularizing historic and cultural ties with Europe and Ukraine’s affinity to European civilization were organized in the Autonomous Republic of Crimea, the Volyn, Dnipropetrovsk, Zhytomyr, Zaporizhzhia, Kyiv, Luhansk, Lviv, Mykolayiv, Odesa, Rivne, Kherson and Chernivtsi oblasts and in the cities of Kyiv, Kremenchuk, Mariupol and Sevastopol with the support of the European Program.

In the Luhansk oblast a historical regional research was conducted to find Europeans that made significant contributions to the development of this region of Ukraine. In different times since 1724 representatives of European peoples working on the territory of the Luhansk oblast created coal and metallurgy plants, medical and learning institutions and cultural and architectural values. Charles Gascoigne, Gustav Hess de Calve, Kazimierz Mscichowski, Gustav Hartmann, Johann Dahl, Rudolf Hennefeld and Frederic Le Play all became part of the history of Luhansk, Lysychansk, Slovyanoserbsk, Alchevsk, Stakhaniv, Svativ and other cities and villages in the oblast. According to the results of research, a book titled “European Essence of the Luhansk Oblast” was published and a mobile exhibit was held under the same name.

The results of the first public opinion poll on this topic conducted among Crimean youth illustrate their level of European identity and attitudes towards Europe and European values. To be more specific, only one of four young Crimean residents considers themselves European. Crimean youth does not know what European values are. Indeed, only 12% of those surveyed could answer this question. Further, the overwhelming majority of young residents of Crimea never spoke with a foreigner from an EU country (only 17% had such an experience), only 7% visited an EU country and only 4% have friends, relatives or acquaintances there. These statistics testify to the extremely low level of human contact with other countries of Europe or, otherwise said, about the non-integration of Crimean youth into the European space. At the same time, the majority of young residents of Crimea support the conducting of reform to achieve European standards in politics, governance, law, economics and social and educational spheres.

In May 2010, thousands of residents of Kyiv, Mykolayiv, Sevastopol and Lviv and visitors to these cities observed “European Parades” held within the framework of Europe Day in Ukraine celebrations. Pedestrians in these cities and central squares were accompanied by a variety of theatrical acts – theater on stilts, performances of drummers and concerts. The holding of European Parades in Ukrainian cities became an innovative informational and entertainment show that diversified the format of the traditional Europe Day in Ukraine. In essence, these parades became the first street shows in support of Ukraine’s integration into Europe, the objective of which was a call to action to people to not be indifferent to the path along which Ukraine is moving and support of the aspirations towards European values and standards of living in Ukraine. It is expected that the “European Parade” will become an annual tradition during the celebration of Europe Day.

In addition, the Network of European Information Centers conducted more than 35 festive events in 14 regions of Ukraine up to Europe Day for representatives of European school clubs, students, professors and representatives of NGOs, the mass media and residents of the cities of Simferopol, Lviv, Mykolayiv, Rivne, Sumy, Kharkiv, Khmelnytsky, Chernivtsi and Chernihiv. In total, more than 10,000 citizens of Ukraine participated in the European street events, marathons, quests, fairs, forums, debates, seminars, tournaments, quizzes, photo exhibitions and painting contests with a European theme.

Difficulties in 2010

The change of government in Ukraine at the start of 2010 altered the context of relations between Ukraine and the EU: leaders of EU countries welcomed the democratic nature of the elections in Ukraine and the promises of the new leadership to undertake decisive reforms. The European Parliament recommended offering Ukraine prospect of EU membership and a visa-free travel. The European Commission for the first time compiled a specific list of priority reforms it expects from Ukraine setting specific deadlines and forms of potential assistance from the EU (the so called Commissioner Füle Matrix). The list of priorities specified the provisions of the Association Agenda, the main binding document in EU-Ukraine relations in 2009 and the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine approved the plan of action to execute the priorities of the European Commission.

The first steps of the new government in foreign policy (leaning towards Russia) and in domestic policy (oppression of democratic freedoms) raised the concern about Ukraine's commitment to European integration. On the backdrop of the positive dynamics of bilateral relations between Ukraine and the EU in 2010, namely the process of negotiating the Association Agreement and visa free dialogue, the internal events in Ukraine in 2010 testify to a decline in the level of democracy, the retraction of political freedoms, targeted and politically motivated persecution, etc. While the assessment of the situation with democracy and freedoms in Ukraine on the international arena considerably fell over the past year, the internal problems in the country did not reach such a level that would allow the EU to put forth ultimatums that would compromise negotiations on the Association Agreement.

Accordingly, the significance of civil society monitoring of Ukraine fulfilling its obligations with respect to European integration as an external safeguard to prevent Ukraine from changing its course to democratic development is growing. In order to fulfill comprehensive monitoring of all key spheres in which Ukraine took upon itself obligations before the EU, more resources are needed than those that are currently available in the European Program. In addition to that, there are other areas that require additional activeness – namely, strengthening of the role of civil society in implementing and developing the Eastern Partnership initiative and enhancing the awareness of Ukrainians of the practical aspects of European integration and events outside Ukraine. For example, the strengthening of ties between Ukrainian civil society and pan-European civil society is complicated, first and foremost, by the general state of civil society in Ukraine (e.g. the low number of think tanks and pan-national civil society platforms that could potentially cooperate with the EU-based platforms). Secondly, progress in development of the Civil Society Forum of the Eastern Partnership and the activity of Ukrainian non-governmental organizations is not notable. Accordingly, the European Program in 2011 will operate by the same priorities set in 2010, albeit with certain placing of accents on the aforementioned obstacles and needs.

Partnership and cooperation:

In 2010, the Program operated in cooperation with the East-East: Partnership without Borders Program, the Open Society Institute Office in Brussels, the Stefan Batory Foundation (Poland), the European Integration Department of the Secretariat of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, the Ukrainian delegation for talks with the EU on signing the EU-Ukraine Association Agreement, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Ukraine, the National Television and Radio Broadcasting Committee of Ukraine, the Delegation of the European Union to Ukraine, the Information and Documentation Center of the Council of Europe, the Civil Society Expert Council with the Ukrainian Side of the EU-Ukraine Cooperation Committee, the Europe Without Barriers initiative, the Network of European Information Centers in Ukraine, the Friedrich Naumann Foundation, the Swiss Embassy in Ukraine and the NORLA Foundation (Norway).

EAST-EAST PROGRAM: PARTNERSHIP BEYOND BORDERS

Number of Projects:	57
Grant Amount:	UAH 3,143,760
Share of the Total Grant Amount:	4.08%

The East-East Program creates conditions for international partnership of civil society. Its aim is to foster the development of competence and capacities of civil society through international exchange of experience, better practices and innovations that relate to socio-economic and socio-political problems of society.

In 2010 the Program worked within the framework of thematic priorities such as European integration, public policy, responsible governance, rule of law, freedom of speech, health care, education, inter-racial tolerance, etc.

The traditional competition “International Experience of Civil Society’s Impact on Democratic Transformations” conducted over a year offered an expanded list of priorities that did not limit the initiatives of civil society:

- formation of a system of independent monitoring and assessment of the activity of state and local self-government bodies and their officials as to resolving relevant issues of national and local development (in particular, budget, energy, housing utilities, development of local democracy, etc.) and arranging for constant and systemic dialogue between the government and civil society;
- developing a system of self-organization of the people, condominiums and public advocacy (for example, on issue of the quality of housing and communal services, protection of consumers’ rights, etc.);
- studying the experience of implementation of European social policy, guaranteeing social and economic rights (execution of public administration taking into account the principle of social fairness, transformation of the system of state privileges in post-communist societies and introducing standards of the European Social Charter);
- research of approaches to formation and implementation of anti-discrimination policies in countries of the European community, as well as the standards of protection from discrimination in the Council of Europe and the EU;
- expanding the practice of social mediation, avoiding conflicts, development of inter-cultural dialogue and tolerance in society, European experience in the integration of the Roma population into society;
- raising the effectiveness of national policies of European integration (i.e. the best practices of public monitoring; implementation of Euro-integration policy; taking advantage of the financial assistance of the EU; advocacy of a visa-free regime with the EU, etc.);

- forming social demand for European integration (best practices of lecturing European studies in higher learning institutions; using the possibilities of educational, scientific, cultural and youth programs of the EU; trans-border cooperation; attracting funds of the EU at the grass-roots level; raising the level of awareness of the consequences of adaptation to EU standards, etc.);
- raising the quality of journalism (practice of raising media awareness among the general public, the effectiveness of investigative journalism and introducing new communication technologies in the activities of traditional mass media);
- development of the educational sphere (experience in reform of education laws in accordance with European standards, an expert inspection of educational programs in history, developing models of financial autonomy of schools and analyzing education policy);
- developing a system of health care (protection of patients' rights, development of a system of palliative care, monitoring budget expenditures in the sphere of health care and access to vital medications for different groups of patients and engaging representatives of vulnerable groups in the decision-making process);
- exchange of the best models of overcoming the consequences of the socio-economic crisis.

The objective of the competition was to enhance the possibilities of civil society to exert influence on the resolution of socially critical issues and implementation of reform through the exchange of international experience, practice and ideas concerning such influence in different countries.

At the end of the year the East-East Program launched a pilot initiative by announcing the competition “Exchange of Best Practices of Self-Organization and Civil Activity between Non-Government Organizations in Ukraine” along the model of international exchange program. Its objective is expanding the best practices of self-organization and successful experience of public activity among NGOs of Ukraine gained on both the national and international levels; raising the effectiveness of the influence of civil society on decision-making at the state level, resolving critical problems in society and fostering closer cooperation with the third sector.

A total of 20 proposals were submitted for consideration. The most effective ones were four proposals from Donetsk. At the same time, not a single proposal was submitted from Crimea and separate oblasts of Ukraine. A total of 13 initiatives were supported. They have national status and engage civil society from all regions of Ukraine. Participants were proposed to exchange valuable experience in self-organization and development of civic activism in such spheres as public self-organization, executing social orders from local budgets, developing socially active schools, innovative work with youth, development of youth entrepreneurship, student self-government, mediation in schools, preventing the exploitation of children, responsible parenthood, environmental education, social assistance to refugees, development of civic activeness of people with specific needs, palliative care, etc. All these projects will be implemented in 2011.

Geography of the East-East Program's Strategic Partnership

Last year the Program supported mostly regional projects in which more than three countries were engaged. The Visegrad countries (Poland, Czech Republic, Slovakia and Hungary) and the chairing of the EU by Poland and Hungary in 2011 are traditionally the most interesting for Ukrainian civil society from the perspective of strategic partnership with the EU. Many initiatives were realized with countries of the Southern Caucasus (Azerbaijan, Georgia and Armenia), which are important partners of Ukraine in the Eastern Partnership region. Cooperation of Ukraine's civil society with Balkan countries (in particular, Serbia and Macedonia) is becoming more dynamic. The experience of these countries in the framework of the process of European integration is interesting and beneficial for Ukraine. Participants from Russia, Belarus, Kazakhstan and Kyrgyzstan have also joined the majority of inter-regional initiatives.

But the most projects were implemented together with Moldova and Romania, which are the successful development of trilateral initiatives of the East-East Program aimed at developing a good neighborhood policy. At conferences held in Chernivtsi (April 2010) organized to assess long-standing trilateral cooperation their participants drew the following conclusions:

- The trilateral initiative of the East-East Program fostered the establishment of long-term partnership relations between civil society institutions in Ukraine, Moldova and Romania. International meetings held within the framework of the supported projects afforded many non-governmental organizations working in different spheres the opportunity to familiarize themselves with one another's activities and form international civil society "consortiums" for stable cooperation in the region. The majority of such international teams plans to develop and is today implementing a number of different significant projects that already have the support of donor programs, particularly at the trans-border level within European regions.
- The trilateral initiative made a contribution to developing a friendly climate and gaining the trust of civil society in the region. The possibility of direct communication considerably reduced the level of bias and negative stereotypes in relations between our countries that had accumulated over the previous years.
- The announced trilateral competitions created conditions for the exchange of the best practices of European integration in the context of enlargement of the European Union towards the East and the need to implement internal reforms in neighboring countries.
- Trilateral cooperation fostered the enhancement of possibilities and the awareness of NGOs engaged in the projects and afforded them a great opportunity to improve their image through the implementation of international initiatives.
- Owing to these trilateral projects think-tanks in the three countries initiated stable partnership, which is considered one of the most valuable achievements of the East-East Program from the perspective of the analytical project jointly elaborated by an international team of experts in the period 2005-2008. Cooperation among the analysts continues to this day.
- The trilateral initiative helped raise the relevancy of debates on the problems of national security, in particular the need for establishing professional dialogue on resolving the Transnistria conflict.
- At the same time, the results of the supported projects would have been even more effective had the partners continuously engaged local and central media to cooperate. Information about the realization of projects in the mass media allows for raising awareness and forming trust of the local communities, bodies of power and business in the activity of NGOs.

An analysis of implemented projects and present-day needs of the region showed that further cooperation of civil society would be most effective in the following areas: security and stable development of the region, including the project of regulating the situation in Transnistria and prevention potential conflicts; European integration; good governance and inter-sectoral partnership; environmental issues; human rights and the rights of minorities. These issues will be reflected in the priorities of the activity of the East-East Program in 2011.

Important Initiatives and Projects Supported in 2010

Over the course of 2010 the Program supported 20 international projects that were implemented in Ukraine and ensured the participation of 130 Ukrainian civil society activists and experts in measures organized by their partnering organizations abroad.

Among the most successful projects the following should be noted:

Studying the experience of the participation of civil society in the Balkan countries in the process of eliminating visas for Serbia, Macedonia, Montenegro, Bosnia and Herzegovina. The Ukrainian civil society initiative "Europe without Borders" created a bridge for cooperation with experts in countries of the Western Balkans, which boast successful experience in executing the “road maps” to a visa-free regime in the EU. Such cooperation at the civil society level will become an important link in the exchange of experience supplemented by the support of the needed reforms in the spheres of security of personal information, documents and migration by experts and civil society. These reforms are an integral part of executing Ukraine's Action Plan with the aim of harmonizing liberalization of the visa regime. The partners analyzed the state of affairs and drafted a number of specific practical recommendations as to the algorithm of further steps Ukraine must take to receive a symmetric visa-free regime with the EU. The work of an international group of experts will be published in the information-analytical publication “How to Achieve a Visa-free Regime with the European Union? Experience of the Western Balkans for Ukraine” (the success of and obstacles to executing the Road Maps of Serbia, Bosnia and Herzegovina and Albania, as well as the issue of security of documents and migration policy in the context of liberalization of the visa regime with the EU) which was presented to Ukrainian government officials and civil society and can be viewed on the website <http://novisa.com.ua>.

Monitoring of Access of Civilians to Public Information. The international group of experts from Ukraine, Azerbaijan, Georgia and Kyrgyzstan made a comparative analysis of the transparency of the activity and accountability of the government in using the funds of the national budget in different sectors.

Ukraine was recommended to develop a website of bodies of central government in order to adequately present public information for civilians and optimize the online presence of local government bodies. Detailed information and conclusions and recommendations are published in a joint Regional Report compiled within the framework of the website project “Access to Information” at: <http://ua-energy.org/>.

Systemic improvement of access of Roma in Ukraine to medical services. 16 Roma mediators initiated their activity last year in the regions of compact residency of Roma people who went through training sessions that included the exchange of the best practices of intermediation between Roma and local communities in Romania and Macedonia. The role of the mediators, who are well-educated Roma women, is to help Roma gain access to the services of medical institutions. The Roma mediators also help achieve understanding between Roma and local governments, communities, learning and healthcare institutions, etc. This new initiative for Ukraine together with Romanian and Macedonian experience will give the opportunity to strengthen the integration of Roma into society, improve their living conditions, the sanitary state of their homes and the main thing is changing the conservative attitude of Roma to issues of health care. The corresponding program has been approved at the national level and funds have allocated to finance the activity of Roma mediators.

International experience in guaranteeing the rights of people with special needs. In the cities of Poltava, Ukraine and Ostrava, Czech Republic international conferences were held on the issue of people with special needs and their integration into a normal life in society. The Poltava conference, which focused on the problem of barriers to people with special needs, convinced the city's government of the need to introduce 10 additional trolleybuses with lowered entry stairs into the city's public transport system, which will help people in wheelchairs to safely travel long distances and overcome inconvenient roads. An obstacle-free environment is only a necessary condition, but not enough for a person in a wheelchair to leave their apartment.

During the meeting in the Czech Republic its participants learned about the best European practices of training and recruitment of social workers to work with people with special needs, engaging the disabled in sporting and cultural events, inclusive and special education, job placement and integration into society, which is a norm of executing the Convention on the Rights of the Disabled. This way the introduction of requirements of the Convention (which Ukraine ratified in 2009, meaning the document has legal force pursuant to the Law of Ukraine) gives the disabled equal rights in education, culture, sports and participation in social life.

Expansion of Ukrainian experience in training social workers to Tajikistan. Based on the results of the Ukrainian-Tajikistan project, the Ministry of Labor and Social Protection of Tajikistan initiated the introduction of a system of social work using the best practices of Ukraine that are the most suitable to conditions in Tajikistan. The rector of the Tajikistan National University informed that in the foreseeable future the specialization “social worker” will be included in the registry of professions in the country and the corresponding academic program developed jointly by Ukrainian and Tajik academicians is being introduced into the university’s curriculum. At the same time representatives of civil society in Tajikistan are interested in adapting Ukraine’s experience in implementation of social projects, an integrated approach to rendering social services, a single window for appeals, the development of volunteering, etc.

Obstacles the Program faced during implementation of its strategy in 2010

A positive trend today is the revival of civil society in Ukraine and the majority of other post-communist countries, which a new generation of civil society activists is joining. But this process creates objective difficulties associated with the development of traditions civil activity and the institutional memory of NGOs. In particular, the issue of educating young civil society leaders, transfer of experience of civil activity, self-organization, management of NGOs, etc. arises. Also, often the problem arises that NGOs do not communicate with one another frequently enough and do not possess full information about their activities and achievements, but need to learn about better practices, implementing innovations and spreading institutional experience among young activists that is imperative for the effective formation of a mature civil society. Such realities must be factored in during the planning of the Program’s activities.

Partnership and cooperation in 2010

Those initiatives that are implemented jointly with other IRF programs have traditionally been successful. This applies in particular to electronic governance, non-government monitoring in the energy sector, access to public information, engaging civil society in the process of European integration, integration of Roma, palliative care and so on. There are plans to hold a competition in conjunction with the European Program aimed at strengthening the civilian component in the regions – the Eastern Partnership initiative. In 2011 the program will focus on exchanging experience in reforms that are successfully being implemented in countries of the Western Balkans, Southern Caucasus, the Baltics and neighboring Poland, Romania, Bulgaria and Moldova.

Certain projects supported by the East-East Program were co-financed by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Czech Republic, the EU Cross-Border Cooperation Program, the OSI Public Health Program, the OSI-Tajikistan Foundation, the Global Partnership for the Prevention of Armed Conflict (GPPAC) program and others.

PROGRAM

EDUCATION PROGRAM

---

Number of Projects:	50
Grant Amount:	UAH 4,975,289
Share of the Total Grant Amount:	6.79%

Program Goal: to contribute to systemic changes in Ukraine's educational sphere, with these changes to be directed on bringing it closer to the best European practices, raising the quality of education and its transformation into a means for shaping of civil society.

Program Priorities in 2010

- Promote dialogue between the public and government on designing a strategy for education development in Ukraine.
- Provide expert support for changes to educational legislation and reform; supporting the training of experts on educational legislation, preventing corruption in the educational sphere.
- Make changes in the system of education management and financing (decentralizing the system and introducing institutional autonomy of the subjects of educational activity)
- Develop the system for education quality monitoring and assessment, ensure that consumers of educational services influence the quality of education, ensure that the public as well as experts influence the development of the system for controlling and improving education quality;
- Support the development of various forms of inclusive education as a means of humanization of society and ensuring equal access to quality education;
- Provide qualitative changes to the content of humanities aimed at overcoming ethnic and cultural exclusivity, xenophobia, intolerance to the "Other" and in introducing the concepts of multiculturalism, ethnic, gender and cultural tolerance in post-communist Ukraine.

The Program activities are carried out through negotiated grants, competitions and operational projects.

Competitions in 2010:

- "Developing Courses on Education Law" (9 proposals submitted, 3 projects supported)
- Tender "Monitoring the Right to Education in Ukraine" (3 proposals submitted, 1 project supported)
- "Developing a Methodology and Conducting a Survey of the Content of Textbooks on Ukrainian and World History" (8 proposals submitted, 2 projects supported)
- "Publishing Contemporary Polish Scholarly, Methodological Literature and Essays in Ukrainian on Teaching History and Socio-Humanitarian Subjects in Multicultural Societies, Tolerance and Civic Education in the Context of History and Memory Policy" (10 proposals submitted, 4 projects supported)

- “School of Tolerance: Teaching History and Civic Education in a Multicultural Society” (13 proposals submitted, 3 projects supported)
- Tender “Promoting Reform of the System for Financing Education” (3 proposals submitted, 2 projects supported)

In 2010, 39 of the 32 non-competitive projects submitted to the Program were supported.

IMPORTANT INITIATIVES IN 2010

Creating an Independent System of Monitoring the Quality of Education

The aim of activities within this component was to support reform of the system of independent external testing (IET) on the legislative level, strengthening public trust in IET, promoting the development of the system of external testing.

Information campaign “For Fair Admissions 2010”. As a result of changes in the leadership of the Ministry of Education in early 2010 and debates regarding the future of independent external testing in Ukraine, a coalition of NGOs (OPORA, the Committee of Voters of Ukraine and the Democratic Initiatives Foundation) conducted an information campaign in support of the independent external testing system entitled “For Fair Admissions 2010”. The NGOs worked with parent committees in schools in all oblasts of Ukraine to raise awareness of the benefit of external testing as a tool that gives all high school graduates equal opportunity for admission to higher education. As part of the campaign, regional and national news events and expert roundtables were held, and informational materials were distributed explaining the benefit of external testing and ways of protecting educational rights. According to the results of public opinion polls conducted in March-April 2010, there has been an increase in the percentage of people that believe external testing is a fairer way of assessing students' knowledge (40.8% in 2010 compared to 32.4% in 2008, based on the results of surveys conducted by the Democratic Initiatives Foundation in 2008 and 2010). Meanwhile, 82.7% of freshmen claim that their parents did not have to resort to illegal means for them to gain admission to an institution of higher education (based on a survey of students by the Institute of Social and Political Psychology of the Academy of Pedagogical Sciences of Ukraine http://www.ispp.org.ua/bibl\_6.htm).

Public campaign to monitor the objectivity and impartiality of procedures for admission to institutions of higher learning in 2010. With IRF support, OPORA and the Committee of Voters of Ukraine monitored the admission of students to Universities in all oblasts of Ukraine (55 of the most prestigious higher education institutions in Ukraine). A broad information campaign for students and their parents was organized during the admissions process that included 18 press conferences. Close to 370 print and online publications wrote about the activities of the independent observers. A hotline operated to provide legal advice to students whose rights had been violated during the submission of documents and enrollment process. Approximately 2,000 consultations were given during the admissions process. The NGOs were able to draw public attention to fake olympiad winner certificates, violations committed by admissions committees, violations of application deadlines and enrollment procedures, etc. Recommendations for improving the admissions process were directed to the Ministry of Science and Education of Ukraine.

As part of this component, public monitoring of education policy was launched in 2010 (<http://centromonitor.com.ua/>) and work continued on the initiative introduced in 2009 to monitor the quality of the admissions process to institutions of higher education in Ukraine on the basis of external testing (based on the results of 2010 admissions).

Law and Education. The main goal of this component in 2010 was to lobby changes to education legislation in Ukraine, create conditions to train specialists in the field of education legislation, promote legal awareness among educators and support initiatives aimed at combating corruption in higher education.

A competition was held to develop pilot courses on education law (3 projects were supported to develop courses in institutions in Kyiv, Kharkiv and Luhansk). Another competition was announced to develop a methodology for monitoring education rights in Ukraine and to conduct monitoring in 2010 (1 project was supported).

The first free online legal advice service for educators was launched (<http://www.osvitaua.com/shkilniy-svit/konsultaciya-dlya-osvityan/>). New initiatives were supported to provide legal advice and litigation support to individuals whose rights were violated during the higher education admissions process, and trainings on legal aid for independent observers of the 2010 admissions process.

Inclusive Education. Access to quality education for children with special needs remains a serious problem in Ukraine. With support from the IRF Education Program, a draft basic concept of inclusive education in Ukraine was developed along with a package of proposals on necessary changes to legislation. The Ministry of Science and Education of Ukraine announced a Concept to be debated publicly and the Cabinet of Ministers issued an order “On approving a plan for introducing inclusive and integrated education in secondary schools for the period through 2012”. In 2010, in cooperation with the Step by Step Foundation, work began on adapting for Ukraine the “Index for Inclusion” – an instrument for reviewing and developing educational inclusion with active participation of everyone involved in the education process, parents and the entire community. Together with NGOs, work began on developing a methodology for adapting external testing procedures for people with special needs, as well as a comprehensive study of the preparedness of graduates of specialized schools (children with profound visual impairment) to take tests. These activities will continue in 2011.

School of Tolerance: history and civic education. During the first half of the 1990s, a national program was developed in Ukraine for the study of national history that corresponded with the spirit of the times. The rhetoric and teaching methods were determined by the logic of building a nation state. The humanities (particularly Ukrainian history) are still being taught using ideology and methodologies from the early 1990s. As a result, generations of students are being indoctrinated with ideas, ideologies and stereotypes with blatant or hidden xenophobia, inferiority complex, backwardness, pessimism and esthetic primitivism. The Education Program initiated a number of events aimed at revising national programs and secondary schools textbooks on Ukrainian and world history.

In 2010, together with the Polish Embassy in Ukraine and the Polish Institute of National Remembrance, a conference and workshop was held for Ukrainian and Polish history teachers in Zamosc, Poland (June 27-30) to develop a methodology for teaching complicated issues in Ukrainian-Polish relations. Together with the Institute of History of Ukraine and Ministry of Science and Education of Ukraine, a roundtable was held entitled “School of Tolerance. History Education in a Multicultural Society: Challenges and Prospects for Ukraine” during which the teaching of history in Ukraine was discussed in terms of problems and perspectives of the teaching of cultural, ethnic and gender tolerance and keeping school history programs up-to-date.

Competitions were held to develop a methodology for surveying attitudes among reference groups (teachers, parents, students) to the content of history textbooks (2 projects were supported) and to develop training and educational courses for higher and postgraduate pedagogical institutions that train teachers to teach history and cultural tolerance (3 projects were supported). Pilot training and educational courses will be introduced in 2011.

A competition was conducted together with the Polish Institute in Kyiv to publish in the Ukrainian language contemporary Polish literature on teaching history and humanities subjects in multicultural societies, tolerance and civic education in the context of history and policy of memory. As a result of this competition, the following books will be published in 2011: Je. Topolski 'How History is Being Written and Understood', B. Szacki 'The Past, The Memory, The Myth', A. Menzwek 'Anthropological Imagination', and the reader 'We Are Not Ukrainophiles. Polish Political Thought About Ukraine and Ukrainians'

Management and Finance in Education

In 2010, state financing for education in Ukraine increased to 6.6% of GDP; however, the sector constantly lacks funds. According to experts that researched the system of financing education in the Kyiv, Lviv and Donetsk oblasts, this is due to inefficient use of budget funds, a fragmented system of administration, excessive centralization and branching of the school system at a time of decreasing student numbers (for example, in the Donetsk oblast schools are only at 40% capacity). The experts' suggestions on ways to use resources more effectively include: creating sociocultural centers at ungraded schools by merging the school, local community center, library and sports complex; setting up kindergartens and primary schools at secondary schools. According to experts, changes need to be made to the budget law and the formula used to allocate financial resources for education.

Workshops on school budget management were held in Kyiv, the Kyiv, Lviv, Donetsk, Vinnytsia, Poltava, Odesa oblasts, and Crimea. The second edition of the manual for school principals entitled "School Budget" was prepared.

Difficulties encountered by the Program in 2010:

Among the problems the Program faced in 2010, the following should be noted:

- The change in government and leadership at the Ministry of Science and Education contributed to the increase in political debate regarding education and the previous government's education initiatives. Independent external testing came under threat in 2010. Changes were made to the procedure for admission to high education meaning that planned activities under the direction "Creating an independent system of monitoring education quality" had to be reformatted.
- There was an increased risk that the study of school financing in Kyiv and the regions would not be successful. Despite the change in government, the further implementation of the projects was successful thanks to a good selection of implementors in the regions.
- Lobbying of public initiatives aimed at amending legislation on education and related areas (the budget, labor, economic and land codes) essentially came to a halt, and proposed changes to the Law of Ukraine "On higher education" were ignored.
- The Program's operational activities in certain areas depend on the attitude of local and central authorities. For instance, due to the delay in the publishing and distribution of history textbooks for the 2010-2011 school year, the activities of the working group analyzing school history textbooks for ethnic, cultural and gender tolerance were suspended.

Partnership and Cooperation in 2010

The Program's activities in 2010 were carried out in cooperation with NGOs (Kyiv Association of School Directors, Kyiv Association of Private Educational Institutions, Center for Education Monitoring, All-Ukrainian Union of Teachers of Social Sciences and Civic Education, Center for Education Policy, and others), international organizations (Polish Institute in Kyiv, the USETI Program), OSI network programs (ESP, LGI), universities (consortium of universities), and oblast Institutes for Teachers In-Service Training.

Project Goal in 2010: publishing in Ukrainian leading classic and contemporary works by foreign authors responsible for the development of the humanities and social sciences, disseminating information about the values of democratic society, expanding dictionaries used by citizens of new democracies; establishing a strong, diverse and independent publishing industry as a vital institution of civil society; developing academic translation; transforming academic and public discourse in Ukraine.

Program Priorities in 2010

The Program consists of the following initiatives:

- Translation Project: support for the translation of foreign literature into Ukrainian
- Development of the Scholar Translation Laboratory
- Promotion of Open Access to research literature: development of open access policies and practices (open access journals and repositories/archives)
- Support and development of new media

Noteworthy Initiatives in 2010

- Support for the project “Establishing Ukrainian Humanities and Philosophy Terminology and a Professional Communications Network by Translating and Adapting the “European Dictionary of Philosophy” implemented by the Dukh i Litera publishing house and the youth NGO Youth Humanities Center;
- Conducting joint initiatives with the IRF European Program (competitions “Translating into Ukrainian Foreign Literature on European Integration and Post-Communist Transformations” – 4 projects supported, “Publishing Ukrainian Literature on European and Euro-Atlantic Integration” – 4 projects supported) and the IRF Education Program and Polish Institute in Kyiv (competition “Publishing Contemporary Polish Scholarly, Methodological Literature and Essays in Ukrainian on Teaching History and Socio-Humanitarian Subjects in Multicultural Societies, Tolerance and Civic Education in the Context of History and Memory Policy” – 4 projects supported);
- Organizing a series of working meetings at IRF on urgent publishing and translation issues with representatives of the publishing and translation industry (in particular, participation in the development of the IRF Anti-Crisis Program’s publishing project) and a roundtable at Ye Bookstore entitled “Do we have quality translation” (23 May 2010) <http://sumno.com/reportage/chy-matymemo-dobri-pereklady>;
- Important events on the development of new media supported by the Program: 27 February – conference “2.0 SocialMediaCamp” in Zaporizhzhia, 3 February – the Kyiv Studio of Public Podcasting “Youth Radio” conducted a training on “Podcasting Opportunities for NGOs”, 22 January – first ever training in Zaporizhzhia for NGOs on “Using Web 2.0 Technologies”.

- Report presented “Beginnings and Achievements of Publishing Initiatives by the International Renaissance Foundation”
- Advocacy activities: consulting publishers and translators.

Challenges Faced by the Program:

Although the Program suspended its grant activities in 2010, work focused on finding potential donors to take over the legacy of the ten-year Translations Project. The SCAP Program publicly (on its website, through social networks and the press) appealed to philanthropists and publishing foundations to support publishing in Ukraine by financing the IRF program or establishing a similar structure, using the experience and achievements of the Program. The SCAP Program was ready to act as an advisory or executive body to support publishing. However, there were no responses or proposals.

As a result, it was determined that despite the Program’s work in Ukraine, the social capital of researchers remains low, translations need improvement and mastery, and books need a wide network of distribution and promotion.

Nevertheless, the Program was a partner in a joint application together with the Next Page Foundation (Sofia, Bulgaria) to the European Commission for a project that would include strengthening the publishing industry by creating an association of translators, institutional development and gaining of international experience by publishers, constant monitoring of the publishing sector, developing state policy on support for publications (and translations), studying the state of translations, developing literary and informational websites.

IMPORTANT INITIATIVES SUPPORTED IN 2010

Law and Health

The Program continued to support human rights projects and strategic litigations to protect the health rights of vulnerable populations. A new direction of activities, timely for Ukraine, focused on teaching representatives of vulnerable populations of their health rights and resolving disputes related to socio-medical examination. Supported projects included provision of free legal advice to patients and their families, awareness raising activities on human rights in public health for health professionals, rights advocates and civil servants

The Program continued to provide coverage of advocacy in health care and support was given to the Kharkiv Human Rights Group to publish a collection of articles entitled “The Right to Health Care in Ukraine – 2009”. The web portal www.healthrights.in underwent significant changes and became an important resource and platform for journalists, lawyers, doctors and activists working in the field of human rights in health care to exchange information.

The first participant in the health law fellowship program completed his fellowship. During the fellowship, work was completed on the Practical Guide for lawyers on human rights in public health and conducting medical cases, a series of awareness raising events were held, and work was done involving appeals from citizens. These annual fellowships will help train a new generation of lawyers with the knowledge and skills necessary to protect human rights in public health.

Practical Guide for lawyers on human rights in health care and conducting medical cases presented. This Guide is to be published in three languages: Ukrainian, English and Russian. A series of trainings are also scheduled to be held on the OSI Health and Human Rights Resource Guide, which contains practical tools for advocates/human rights practitioners who work, or are interested in working, in the field of human rights and public health.

Palliative Care

The Program provided support for palliative care training for doctors and professors at the P.L. Shupyk National Medical Academy for Postgraduate Education (NMAPE) through a month-long advanced training course for 35 doctors from different regions of Ukraine. Practical and theoretical lessons were taught by a team from the Institute for Palliative Medicine at San Diego Hospice (US) led by Dr. Frank Ferris and lecturers from the State Geriatric Training Center and Department for Palliative and Hospice Medicine at NMAPE. Nearly two weeks of workshops were held at four clinical sites in Kyiv, where the participants gained skills in providing palliative care.

Four public initiatives were supported under the open competition “Support and Development of Non-Governmental Organizations Working in Palliative Care in Ukraine”, of which three were pilot projects to set up visiting multidisciplinary palliative care teams at health facilities in the Zakarpattia, Mykolayiv and Cherkasy oblasts and involve medical school students. The training center at the oblast hospice in Ivano-Frankivsk will accept its first students in June 2011. Lecturers and assistants will include practicing doctors and nurses that completed palliative care training courses in Kyiv and abroad in 2009 and 2010.

Representatives of state health institutions claim that no complaints have been received from patients regarding lack of analgesics, so the problem doesn't exist. In order to collect information about the real situation in Ukraine with provision of pain medication for palliative patients, at part of the joint initiative of the Law and Health and Palliative Care initiatives, violation of palliative patients' rights were documented. Three organizations in Kyiv, Kharkiv and Rivne documented stories of 30 terminally ill patients with cancer, HIV/AIDS and tuberculosis, of various ages and social status, who were in a hospice or at home and did not receive proper medical care or pain treatment. These accounts revealed the true state of palliative care and the right to proper medical care in Ukraine. The materials will be published in spring 2011.

As part of World Hospice and Palliative Care Day, support was given to nine NGO initiatives. Informational, cultural and charity events were held in October in Ukrainian cities in order to draw public attention to the problems and needs of the terminally ill under the slogan “Sharing the Care”. The first celebration of this Day gained wide publicity and attracted a number of NGOs from different regions of Ukraine.

Harm Reduction

The Program supported a number of initiatives to overcome human rights violations and access to lifesaving treatment (substitution maintenance therapy – SMT) during the detention, arrest and imprisonment of injection drug users (IDUs). Interruptions in treatment and resulting withdrawal syndrome provide the opportunity for abuse of those detained by law enforcement, which international organizations define as torture.

With organizational, expert and financial support from the Program, an interdepartmental group of experts was formed under the Committee on HIV/AIDS and other Dangerous Diseases of the Ministry of Health of Ukraine. The group drafted the interdepartmental order “On approval of the procedure for cooperation between health facilities, internal affairs agencies and penal institutions to provide uninterrupted substitution maintenance therapy to patients” (working title). The document is currently being approved by respective ministries and departments.

The Program continued to support organizations of people directly affected by drug use and HIV/AIDS. Support was given for the development of the national association of SMT patients (All-Ukrainian NGO “Association of Participants of Substitution Maintenance Therapy of Ukraine”) and their parents (Charitable Organization “Kyiv Oblast Charity Fund Trust and Hope”). By providing education (advocacy school, trainings) and technical assistance, these networks built their capacity to defend their own interests and protect human rights on the local and national level.

Access to Essential Medicines

Support was given for the creation and functioning of an interdepartmental working group on access to essential medicines and intellectual property rights. The group researched a list of patented medicines in order to identify opportunities to apply flexible provisions of international free trade agreements and, in turn, reduce prices for certain medicines and increase access to treatment for the most vulnerable populations.

Ten projects were supported on the regional and national level to increase awareness about viral hepatitis. The goal of these projects was for organizations to join efforts and defend the right of patients to proper and timely diagnosis and treatment of hepatitis C and included a series of events, including training sessions and outreach, for representatives of groups at risk of viral hepatitis infection. In certain regions, the issue of viral hepatitis diagnosis is being considered by oblast coordinating councils on HIV/AIDS and other dangerous diseases. A dialogue has been launched on the development of local and national programs to fight viral hepatitis.

Challenges faced by the Program in 2010

Challenges that the Program faced while implementing its priorities and projects were related to the ongoing unstable political and economic situation. Lack of real actions by the government aimed at reforming the public health system, slowdown of adoption of regulatory legal acts, lobbying of adoption of regulations by stakeholders, and lack of coordination and cooperation between the state authorities – all this complicated the work of the Program. Political instability and frequent changes of key persons in the public health system, internal affairs and other respective state institutions, lack of consistency in decision-making and implementation of agreements significantly impact and limit the effectiveness of advocacy initiatives, related to reforms and changes in the regulatory and legal framework. The absence of a national health insurance system and inconsistencies in the legal framework created the grounds for systemic and non-punishable human rights violations in the health care field.

Unfortunately, the resources operated by society and the health care system are also quite limited: there is a lack of qualified lawyers/human rights advocates with experience in human rights advocacy in health care; NGOs have low capacity for budget monitoring and advocacy work; and health care facilities use their limited resources inefficiently, which is a significant barrier to implementing the planned actions.

The main obstacle to the development of palliative care in Ukraine remains the absence of approved state regulatory and legal documents on palliative care, and lack of standards for caring for the terminally ill that reflect international recommendations for the use of opioid analgesics. One of main typical problems of modern medicine in Ukraine is the lack of consistency or continuity between different services in the health care system. A striking example is the drastic restriction in access to pain treatment and, often, other types of symptomatic treatments for patients at home.

Administrative reforms carried out in late 2010 also affected plans for approval of regulatory and legal documents that were in the development or approval stage. Disagreement between different branches of government and executive agencies on state policy on substitution maintenance therapy led to uncoordinated actions and resulted in a number of human rights violations in Ukraine.

Among the problems hampering the Program's activities, we should also note the lack of communication and sometimes unreasonable competition between potential Organizations. In certain cases this becomes a serious barrier to exchange of information and best practices that could be useful for a wide range of organizations and the general public. Last but not least is the problem of passivity, unwillingness or fear of patients and representatives of vulnerable populations to engage in confrontation with doctors or representatives of government institutions, which leads to problems being ignored and lack of prospect for change.

Partnership and Cooperation in 2010

The Program's key partners include representatives of the non-governmental and public sector, health care professionals and health care managers, human rights advocates and lawyers, patients' associations, medical and law schools, in-service training institutions for health care professionals and experts in medical law. Our Open Society Institute partners are the Public Health Network Program and Human Rights Program in Budapest.

The Public Health Program works in close cooperation with the Ministry of Health of Ukraine, P.L. Shupyk National Medical Academy for Postgraduate Education, Ministry of Internal Affairs of Ukraine, Ministry of Education and Science of Ukraine, Ministry of Justice of Ukraine, Ministry of Labor and Social Policy of Ukraine, State Penitentiary Department of Ukraine, Institute for Palliative and Hospice Care at the Ministry of Health of Ukraine, O.O. Bohomolets National Medical University, representatives of the Verkhovna Rada Commissioner for Human Rights, Advisory Board at the Committee on Public Health at the Parliament of Ukraine, Civil Society Council at the Ministry of Health, and Coordination Council for palliative and hospice medicine at the Ministry of Health of Ukraine.

The Public Health Program also continues building partner relations with other donors and international organizations working in the public health sector, including: the International HIV/AIDS Alliance in Ukraine, All-Ukrainian Network of PLWH, All-Ukrainian Coalition of HIV-Service NGOs, a number of UN programs in Ukraine, in particular, the Joint United Nations Program on HIV/AIDS (UNAIDS) and United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), World Health Organization (WHO), World Bank, and other international donor organizations and their missions: the United States Agency for International Development (USAID), German Technical Cooperation (GTZ), office of HealthRight International, Foundation for Development of Ukraine, Bill Clinton Foundation, and others.

Share of the Total Grant Amount:	3.36%

The goal of the Roma of Ukraine Program in 2010 was to promote initiatives aimed at promotion of Roma rights protection efforts, improvement of access to health care services, raising the level of education of Roma youth.

Program Priorities for 2010:

- Supporting initiatives aimed at coordinating the activities of Roma human rights groups in order to improve the effectiveness of justice for Roma communities;
- Improving access to health care services for the Roma population, in particular by creating a network of Roma health mediators;
- Supporting initiatives aimed at preparing Roma children for school.

Program Competitions in 2010:

“Improved Access of the Roma Population to Health Care Services”. 17 proposals were submitted for the competition and 7 were supported. Preference was given to projects that envisaged close cooperation with local government institutions.

“Preparing Roma Children for School”. 19 organizations submitted proposals for this competition and 13 projects were supported to organize preparatory courses for children scheduled to start school in the current academic year. More than 200 children benefited from this competition.

The competition “Identification Documents for Roma Communities in Ukraine” was held together with the Human Rights and Governance Program (OSI Budapest) to conduct monitoring and advocacy of birth registration and Ukrainian passports for members of Roma communities in Ukraine. 20 proposals were submitted and 10 projects were supported.

In addition, 13 non-competitive projects were supported. The IRF Board supported 6 small projects for Christmas and New Year’s celebrations for Roma children.

Important Initiatives and Projects Supported in 2010

Improving the health of Roma by introducing a health mediators program

Many local and international organizations have brought attention to the prevalence of health problems among Roma in Ukraine. Experts stress that the main reason for the high incidence of disease among the Roma population is directly related to the lack of medical examinations and treatment, scarce resources, traditional distrust of non-Roma doctors and low awareness of the importance of preventive care. On the other hand, doctors and local clinics do not want to accept Roma because they do not have money and good clothes and do not always live in sanitary conditions. In some very traditional communities, women aren’t allowed to go the gynecologist or leave the camp unaccompanied by a man. As a result, women often are unable to get medical advice from a doctor for them or their children. Language is another important barrier for some Roma: there are no materials on health issues in the Roma language. Other problems include lack of access to child development programs (ages 0-5) and absence of Roma health mediators, whose work has been quite successful in other European countries.

In late 2009 and throughout 2010 the Roma in Ukraine Program implemented a joint project with the Roma Health Project (OSI Budapest) entitled “Improving Roma Health by Creating a Network of Roma Health Mediators in Ukraine”. This systematic project seeks to address many social issues facing Roma communities. The main administrator is the International Roma Women's Fund Chirikli. During the course of the project, a working group was formed that included representatives of state government (Ministry of Health of Ukraine, Ministry of Youth, Family and Sports of Ukraine, Legislation Institute of the Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine and Odesa City Council), representatives of international organizations and Roma NGOs. The group worked on developing this program, exploring the possibility of introducing mediators into the existing system of professions and financing the program from the state budget.

The projects employed 15 Roma mediators working in 5 pilot regions of Ukraine: Zakarpattia, Lviv, Kyiv, Donetsk and Odesa oblasts. Before starting their work, the Roma mediators (facilitators) attended a week-long training-internship course in Romania, where a similar program has existed for more than 10 years.

During the course of the project, the mediators compiled a database of nearly 14,000 Roma and their problems. One of the main problems identified by the mediators is the lack of identification documents (nearly 40% of Roma living in Berehovo, Uzhhorod (Pyrohovo and Radvanka) and Kontsovo don't have passports, birth certificates or registration certificates). This is the key obstacle in obtaining social services and exercising basic human rights.

Another major problem is access to health care services and public health. Factors contributing to the poor health of Roma include harsh living conditions and extreme poverty. The mediators reported cases of doctors refusing to admit seriously ill Roma to hospitals and denial of treatment. According to the report by the health mediator in the village of Siurte (Uzhhorod raion, Zakarpattia oblast), nearly 60% of people require urgent medical care and suffer from chronic diseases such as bronchitis, asthma and gastric ulcers, or advanced stages of tuberculosis, thyroid cancer, gynecological diseases, diabetes, etc. The mediators identified the problem of vaccinations in all pilot regions.

In 2011, the Roma of Ukraine Program will continue the Roma health mediators program and will focus on gaining approval on the national level, as well as in the Zakarpattia and Odesa oblasts – regions with the largest Roma populations in Ukraine.

Preparing Roma children for school

The goal of this direction is to help Roma children gain life skills such as basic reading, writing and arithmetic that will allow them to attend school and be on the same level as the rest of the children. As a result of the competition, support was given to 13 organizations to organize preparatory courses for more than 250 Roma children starting school in 2010.

A serious problem was that children were not attending the preparatory courses and then school. The two main reasons were that parents didn't understand the importance of going to school and the Roma children were often undernourished. Another problem was the short-term nature of the projects (the average project lasted 3-5 months). Therefore, in 2011 a more systematic approach will be taken. Three child development centers will be created in Roma communities. They will operate year-round and offer programs for children as well as their parents, such as “I'm ready for school” and “Responsible parenting”. This initiative is implemented together with the Early Childhood Program of the Open Society Foundation – London.

Scholarships for higher learning

Within the framework of its education focus area, the Roma of Ukraine Program is actively cooperating with the Roma Education Fund (REF). The Roma of Ukraine Program coordinates and administers the program and REF provides funding for scholarships for Roma students studying at higher learning institutions. In 2010, the Program conducted an informational campaign in the regions, thanks to which the number of applicants increased from 52 in 2009 to 140 in 2010. In addition to scholarships, the Program also sponsored foreign languages courses, mostly English, for 21 students.

Identification documents for Roma communities

A serious problem in the Roma community in Ukraine is the absence of identity documents: Ukrainian passports and registration certificates. According to NGOs, in many areas of the Zakarpattia oblast with large Roma populations, from 30 to 50% do not have documents. Lack of documentation means lack of citizenship and is a human rights issue. Identification is a basic human right without which other rights can not be exercised effectively.

Together with the Human Rights and Governance Program (OSI Budapest) the Program announced the competition "Passportization for Roma Communities" in order to conduct monitoring and advocacy on the importance of birth certificates and Ukrainian passports in Roma communities. 10 NGOs that work in this direction were supported. Their main objective was to analyze the situation in their communities and identify the common causes for the lack of documents, and help Roma obtain documents, when possible.

As a result of these projects, the Roma of Ukraine Program plans to hold a roundtable with representative of central government agencies (Ministry of Internal Affairs, Ministry of Justice and others) in order to improve the situation with documents among the Roma population and consider ways to simplify the process of issuing documents for this group.

National Roma newspaper "Romani Yag"

In 2010, the Program continued its support for the Roma national newspaper "Romani Yag". 15 issues of the newspaper were published with a circulation of 450 copies. An electronic version of the newspaper was also posted on the Romani Yag website (<http://www.romaniyag.org/>).

Obstacles the Program ran into during the implementation of its strategy, supported projects and initiatives in 2010

The biggest obstacle to implementing the program and its components was the lack of commitment by the government to improve the socio-economic status and social inclusion of Roma. There is still no separate program to promote the integration of the Roma minority in Ukraine. The government of Ukraine, despite efforts by Roma NGOs and the international community, has not joined the Decade of Roma Inclusion 2005-2015 – a multinational initiative committed to protecting the rights of Roma and promoting social inclusion.

Partnership and Cooperation in 2010

Partners of the Roma of Ukraine Program in 2010 included the Roma Health Program and the Human Rights and Governance Grants Program (OSI Budapest), and the Roma Education Fund – Budapest.

Report of the Independent Auditors on the Summary Financial Statements

To the Board of Directors

International Renaissance Foundation

The accompanying summary financial statements, which comprise the summary statement of financial position as at 31 December 2010, the summary statements of comprehensive income, changes in fund balance (equity) and cash flows for the year then ended, and related notes, are derived from the audited financial statements of International Renaissance Foundation (the "Foundation") as at and for the year ended 31 December 2010. We expressed an unmodified audit opinion on those financial statements in our report dated 16 May 2011.

The summary financial statements do not contain all the disclosures required by International Financial Reporting Standards. Reading the summary financial statements, therefore, is not a substitute for reading the audited financial statements of the Foundation.

Management's Responsibility for the Summary Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation of this summary of the audited financial statements on the basis described in note 1 to the summary financial statements.

Auditors' Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the summary financial statements based on our procedures, which were conducted in accordance with International Standard on Auditing (ISA) 810 Engagements to Report on Summary Financial Statements.

Opinion

In our opinion, the summary financial statements derived from the audited financial statements of the Foundation as at and for the year ended 31 December 2010 are consistent, in all material respects, with those financial statements, on the basis described in note 1 to the summary financial statements.

SUMMARY FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AS AT AND FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31 DECEMBER 2010

1. BASIS OF PREPARATION

These summary financial statements are derived from the audited financial statements of International Renaissance Foundation as at and for the year ended 31 December 2010 prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards, and comprise the summary statement of financial position as at 31 December 2010, the summary statements of comprehensive income, changes in fund balance (equity) and cash flows for the year then ended, and related notes.

The Foundation maintains its underlying accounting records in Ukrainian hryvnias ("UAH"). Before the year 2010 management identified the US dollar ("USD") as the functional and presentation currency of the Foundation under International Financial Reporting Standard IAS 21 "The Effects of Changes in Foreign Exchange Rates" as the grants were received in US dollars and the financing of grantees was linked to US dollars. From the year 2010 management identified the Ukrainian hryvnia ("UAH") as the functional currency due to the change in the circumstances including financing of grantees in UAH. Accordingly, all currencies other than UAH are treated as foreign currencies. However, the US dollar remains the presentation currency of International Renaissance Foundation.
