New Ukraine and the International Renaissance Foundation in 2015

Annual Report–2015

The International Renaissance Foundation is one of the largest charitable foundations in Ukraine. The Foundation was established by George Soros, a prominent financier and philanthropist, in 1990. Its mission is to promote open society in Ukraine on the basis of democratic values. 2015 was a landmark for IRF. The Foundation celebrated its 25th anniversary. It was a good time for a certain summing up of what the Foundation had achieved. This report is an opportunity to present some thoughts of the Foundation's leaders about the mission, objectives and the role of the Foundation, alongside the traditional public reporting about the work done by the Foundation in 2015 in the context of civic activism in the present day Ukraine.

From the speech at the 25th anniversary of the International Renaissance Foundation, Kyiv, 14 November 2015

The new Ukraine is determined to undertake radical and painful political and economic reforms that will correct actual defects.

The new Ukraine grew out of many years of civic activism that the foundation did support, and it was finally brought into existence by the heroic defenders of the Maidan who were willing to sacrifice their lives for a better future for their country. Contrary to what the Russian propaganda machine says, the foundation did not finance Maidan, although it did provide legal and medical assistance to the people who were fighting there and then sought to keep the spirit of Maidan alive by converting a revolution into a constructive, nation building activity—and that is the source of my pride and joy.

I have been intimately involved in Ukraine ever since it became independent. Indeed, I established the foundation even earlier, when it was still part of the Soviet Union in 1990.

In 2014 I proposed what I called a “winning strategy” for Ukraine late last year and kept updating it.

It involves the Macro-Financial Assistance program, which has already been used by the European Commission to finance its contribution to the IMF program. That would open the way to the crucial step: a wholehearted commitment by the European Union to help Ukraine not to just survive but to flourish and become an attractive investment destination.

The key point of my strategy is that the sanctions against Russia have to be matched by a wholehearted commitment to Ukraine. Sanctions are a necessary evil: necessary because Russia cannot be allowed to replace the rule of law with the rule of force; evil because sanctions hurt everyone—both those on whom it’s imposed and, indirectly, also those who impose them.

Neither the foundation nor I personally feel any hostility towards the Russian people; we are opposed to the Putin regime which is exploiting the Russian people in the same way as the Yanukovich regime was exploiting the people of Ukraine.

The only way to prove Putin wrong is by establishing a better balance between sanctions against Russia and large-scale support for Ukraine.

I am in a strong position to remind the European public and leadership of the importance of the new Ukraine and today is a good occasion to do so. Europe is badly in need of a success and Ukraine can provide one. The mere fact that the new Ukraine has survived against overwhelming odds counts as an accomplishment.

The IRF has been so preoccupied with the future of Ukraine that it has not given much thought to its own future. I think the IRF has had the right priority. By putting the future of the country first, it has fulfilled my highest expectations.

Oleksandr Sushko, Chairman of the Board, International Renaissance Foundation

The civic energy born by the Maidan two years ago has not perished. It still has a chance to mark a turning point in the history of Ukraine. The energy is pulsating in our country today is the energy we we never experienced before, that is a growing desire and capacity to protect our key values and interests on a daily basis.

We know that first and foremost we have to build a functioning democracy that is working not from elections to elections, but every day, based on a culture of democratic participation. Active networks of citizens with a developed sense of a civic duty play an increasingly important role in the planning and advocacy of vital reforms in the public administration, judiciary, decentralization, public procurement, combatting corruption and other areas of crucial importance to the society.

If we want to be a part of the European Union, we must adhere to its ideals. But we must also become its added value, so that other European nations could see the relevance in our integration and would not perceive us as consumers and candidates for a position of “poor relatives”.

In Ukraine, in spite of all difficulties, the space for freedom is expanding, attracting new groups of socially active people to policy making and public oversight. Ukraine demonstrates high standards of transparency, and best international practices become an effective value-based benchmark in many policy areas.

Europe has offered one of the most efficient governance models in history, especially valuable for addressing the legacy of hostility, building sustainable peace and creation of a productive economy, along with a functioning social security system. However, this model is being seriously tested by the growing populism and nationalism that are partly fueled by the fear of terrorism and resentment of the influx of immigrants. We are the antidote. Europe needs our dynamism immediately.

Yevhen Bystrytsky, Executive Director, International Renaissance Foundation

The Revolution of Dignity is a revolution in which Ukraine's civil society of Ukraine has been and remains the key driver of change.

All branches of power - both the parliamentary political power as well as the executive power—have been profoundly de-legitimized. Confidence in all branches of power has fallen. In this atmosphere we observe the increasingly strong voice of civil society and the growing pressure on the government that continue the public legacy of the revolutionary Maidan. The civil society and the public voice directly and strongly influence the change.

Without such a pressure we would end up again where we found ourselves after the Orange revolution—in a divided society of the high and the mighty ones that imitate and corrupt reforms, on the one hand, and the citizens passively and patiently observing the lack of democratic change, on the other hand.

Change would be impossible without engaging experts from independent think tanks and NGOs, without their interaction with the executive branch, and, most importantly, without the atmosphere of inevitability of pro-European reforms, which is created by the society. The pressure of the civil society is prominently visible in social networks, the media and civic initiatives. It is visible in anti-corruption movements, revealing publications, forums and debates. The disclosure of shadow connections between the “oligarchs” and representatives of the ruling elite is a sign of maturity of the civil society.

Today there are two extreme positions in Ukraine. One is when a political or a statesman is engaged in populism, appealing to people's basic needs and promising them to satisfy them as promptly as possible. This brings us back to the past political regimes. The other is when a civil society representative demands to immediately replace “everything bad” that there exists in the society with “everything good”, and feels like a hero, speaking on behalf of “all”. This may appear attractive from a moral perspective but it may lead to the opposite: losing the sense and understanding of the complexity of the way our political reality is built.

The background of the page is a solid dark green. On the right side, there is a series of white, thin, overlapping geometric lines that form a complex, abstract pattern. These lines are mostly horizontal and slightly angled, creating a sense of movement and depth. The lines vary in length and orientation, some crossing each other to form small, irregular shapes. The overall effect is a modern, minimalist graphic element that contrasts with the dark green background.

In the recent two years, the developments in Ukraine have created new challenges and opportunities that demanded both the civil society and the Foundation to show extra rapid response, the search for new methods and instruments, the building of new communication platforms, and an increasingly broad circle of partners. The Foundation has responded by strengthening support for the civil society's participation in designing, implementing and monitoring of the key reforms, ensuring respect for human rights, countering discrimination, and strengthening the international support for the changes that make the New Ukraine.

STRATEGIC ADVISORY GROUPS (SAG)

Strategic Advisory Groups (SAG)

After the Revolution of Dignity, the new Ukraine needed reforms in all key public areas. Along with the renewal of the Ukrainian government, Ukrainians demanded changes in governance, economy, education, healthcare and other sectors. Responding to the society's demands, the International Renaissance Foundation was among the first to support the reform process in Ukraine by launching the project of Strategic Advisory Groups (SAGs). Leading Ukrainian and international experts were involved in the SAGs' work to facilitate the administrative, economic, law enforcement, healthcare, education, energy and agro-industrial sector reforms, the introduction of e-governance, decentralization, deregulation and other key areas. Strategic Advisory Groups involved more than 100 experts and consultants as well as representatives of Ukraine's seven ministries: the Ministry of Education and Science, the Ministry of Health, the Ministry of Regional Development, Construction and Housing, the Ministry of Economic Development and Trade, the Ministry of Interior, the Ministry of Agriculture and Food Industry, and the Ministry of Energy and Coal Industry. As a result of these efforts, the SAGs developed over 80 draft bills, out of which 35 were adopted by the Verkhovna Rada (Parliament) of Ukraine.

SAGs' contribution to reforms

Decentralization

(led by the Civil Society Institute)

- The concept of reform of the local government and the territorial organization of power in Ukraine was adopted by the Cabinet of Ministers in 2014. It established the principles and algorithm of the new system of local governance, decentralization and administrative/ territorial reform.
- Budget decentralization model and the Law “On State Budget of Ukraine 2015”. This reform led to the increase of the total amount of revenues of the local / municipal budgets by 40% on average.
- Law “On Voluntary Association of Communities”, including the creation of 159 new united territorial communities, which constitute 7% of all local communities in Ukraine.
- Draft Law on Amendments to the Constitution of Ukraine (on decentralization) adopted in the first reading in August 2015, pending final approval by the Parliament.
- A package of regulations that allow for implementation of the legislation, as well as empower local communities.

SAGs are gradually shifting the focus on the development of regulations and their practical implementation, holding a great number of public events, consulting officials of the central and local government bodies in the issues of reforms, raising awareness for better use of new opportunities and mechanisms.

Conference «Reforms: Tiding Over the «Old» Ukraine (13 November 2015, Kyiv, Ukraine). Oleksandr Sushko, Vyacheslav Negoda, Anatoliy Tkachuk, Berend De Groot

Public administration reform (led by the Center for Political and Legal Reforms) is aimed at reforming the civil service, reform of the Cabinet of Ministers and other central executive power bodies as well as the reform of administrative services.

- Law “On Civil Service” was adopted in December 2015, following long debates, despite the resistance of bureaucrats and some interest groups. It provides for de-politicization of civil service, separation between political and administrative positions, setting clear rules, criteria and conditions for compulsory competition for jobs in civil service. The Law comes into force on 1 May 2016. Relevant regulations shall be developed for the implementation of this law.

- A package of laws providing for the administrative and civil service reforms was finally approved in December 2015. It provides the local government with the right to register the place of residence of individuals, real estate property rights, land ownership rights, etc., whereas in the past this function was performed by the central government bodies and their representatives locally.

Deregulation reform (led by “Easy Business” NGO)

- The SAG developed two packages of laws to improve the regulatory framework and to significantly improve the position of Ukraine in the World Bank’s Doing Business ratings.
- The first package of deregulation documents provides for liquidation of centers for issuing permits as separate entities. All permits (for entrepreneurial activities) shall be issued by one integrated network of centers for administrative services. Besides, additional responsibilities were introduced for officials, in particular, penalty for improper performance of administrative functions.
- The second package of deregulation documents provides, inter alia, for transformation of 30 types of permits and five licenses.
- A law was developed that eliminates labor books (a Soviet legacy of the labor laws and practices), pending approval.

Education reform (led by Institute for Education Policy)

- The SAG played a major role in drafting and promoting the implementation of the Law “On Higher Education” adopted in 2015.
- Developed and discussed with stakeholders the Roadmap for educational reforms 2015-2025.
- Prepared and submitted to the Parliament a new comprehensive draft law on education.
- SAG actively supports a reform law “On Science and Scientific/Technical Studies in Ukraine” approved on November 26, 2015, and begins to control its further implementation.

Energy reform (led by DIXI GoUp)

The Energy SAG was formed to facilitate the creation of a national regulatory authority for the energy and utilities sector in the environment of growing energy tariffs and the implementation of the new law “On the Natural Gas Market” as a truly independent, transparent and accountable institution.

- The Energy SAG was formed to facilitate the creation of a national regulatory authority for the energy and utilities sector in the environment of growing energy tariffs and the implementation of the new law “On the Natural Gas Market” as a truly independent, transparent and accountable institution.

Agricultural Sector Reform

The SAG’s efforts were focused on deregulation in the agro-industrial sector, the reform of the state enterprises subordinate to the Ministry of Agrarian Policy and Food of Ukraine, and facilitating the creation of the land market in Ukraine.

- The SAG facilitated the development of the United Comprehensive Strategy for the agriculture and rural areas development 2015-2020.
- Draft laws: on simplifying the business activity (deregulation) in the agrarian sector, which includes the deregulation of 30 policies in 9 areas of agriculture; on veterinary care; on sugar production and sale; amendments to the Subsoil Code; amendments relating to the registration of agricultural machinery; amendments on deregulation in the fishing industry, etc.

Decentralization through self-organization

An important component of the decentralization of powers and the local self-government reform is to ensure appropriate conditions for direct participation of community members in solving local issues. Such activity is extremely important, especially as the law on voluntary amalgamation and cooperation between local communities directly provides for taking into account, to the extent possible, the opinions of local community members in carrying out the reforms and the direct participation of citizens in implementing changes. Therefore, the International Renaissance Foundation continued its support for the work of civil society institutions aimed at developing direct democracy and participatory democracy on the local level.

In March 2015, the Parliament of Ukraine registered draft bills “On the Bodies of Self-organization of the Population” and “On the General Assemblies (Conferences) of Territorial Community Members at the Place of Their Residence”, drafted by experts of the Association for Assisting Self-Organization of the Population. The public advocacy campaign involved sending over 220 letters to the Parliament from NGOs, local self-governance and self-organization bodies in support of those bills. The Parliamentary Committee endorsed the bills to be formally submitted for the Parliament’s review.

In 2015 the Foundation continued to support a nationwide network of resource centers for the local democracy development. Currently, these centers operate in Kyiv, Volyn region, Dnipropetrovsk, Lviv, Mykolayiv, Rivne, Kherson region and in some areas of the Donetsk and Luhansk regions controlled by Ukraine. The resource centers provide training for the community activists, organize discussions with participation of the community representatives and local authorities, protect interests of the community in the local government bodies and the courts, improve the regulatory framework for the development of the public participation, and stimulate local activism.

New quality of the Ukrainian parliament: the Maidan momentum

In 2015 the International Renaissance Foundation continued to support the educational and communication platform for interaction between the “new generation” of Members of Parliament of Ukraine and the expert communities in order to improve the quality of political awareness and skills necessary for making sound political and governance decisions in the Parliament. The project involved monthly thematic expert workshops and discussions on issues of parliamentary ethics and procedures, the budget process, local self-government and decentralization, as well as designing and implementing the key reforms.

In February 2015 young Members of Parliament who participated in the educational program supported by the Foundation created the “EuroOptimists” inter-faction caucus to coordinate their parliamentary activity in order to pursue the reforms necessary for the implementation of the EU-Ukraine Association Agreement.

Police reform

One of the priorities of the International Renaissance Foundation is the support of the reform of the law enforcement bodies.

Thus, in 2015 the Foundation supported the development and publication of the training materials and engaged trainers to train the new patrol police in Kyiv.

Also, with the support of the Foundation, the Kharkiv Human Rights Group, in cooperation with the Central Department of the Ministry of Interior Ukraine in Lviv region, implemented a pilot project aimed at re-organization of the police district units. The model, developed within the pilot project, was further scaled up by the Interior Ministry of Interior to cover other regions of Ukraine.

Ukrainian Reforms Media Center

The Ukrainian Crisis Media Center (UCMC) was established in March 2014 by leading Ukrainian experts in international relations, communications and public relations. The UCMC's goal is to provide objective information about Ukraine and the developments around it; challenges to its national security, including those in the field of the military, political, economic affairs, energy and the humanities. It also seeks to convey this information to the internal audience, citizens of Ukraine, as well as to the international community. The UCMC's task is to unite the data streams about Ukraine, to raise awareness of the situation and events taking place in Ukraine and abroad and to help create an international image of Ukraine. The UCMC offers virtually the around-the-clock support to the media covering the developments in Ukraine.

The Foundation supported the UCMC from the very start of its operation. In 2015, IRF supported the creation of a communication platform, the Ukrainian Reforms Media Center, designed to build awareness of the government's reform agenda in the society and to establish a meaningful dialogue between the government and the society on the reforms by highlighting, explaining and public discussion of the reforms efforts pursued by government agencies, NGOs, and experts.

The project involved over 100 events and cooperated with press offices of eight ministries and government agencies. The Center built partnerships with 4 expert organizations: the Center for Political and Legal Reforms, the Ukrainian Legal Aid Foundation, the "New Ukraine", and the VOX Ukraine. The Ukrainian Reforms Media Center organized regular briefings and roundtables on the reforms, helped prepare TV releases of the "Reform Club" (broadcast by TV Channel 5), and prepared weekly digests and reviews, the Reforms Watch, in the KyivPost.

Number of speakers at press events—190+
Number of media that received mails—3100+
Number of readers in social networks—4200+
Number of journalists attending the events—500+
Number of media outputs—2000+

In 2015, the Ukrainian Media Reforms Center project went through significant transformations. As the quality of the government's information policy has been gradually improving, primarily through the involvement of highly qualified communications advisers to strengthen press offices, the challenges of communicating reforms with the society have also changed.

Combating corruption

Combating corruption in Ukraine is a necessary component of reforms. In 2015 the International Renaissance Foundation continued to support civic anti-corruption initiatives as one of its key priorities.

The Foundation supported the operation of the electronic public procurement system, ProZorro, by engaging civil society experts to work with the Body of Appeal designed to investigate complaints from customers and bidders pertaining to violations of the public procurement legislation.

Civil society experts, in cooperation with the government representatives, developed regulations to ensure the efficient operation of the E-Data, a unified web portal on the use of the public funds. It was largely due to the opening of the data on the use of budget funds and the public procurement that Ukraine has climbed up by 10 points in the Global Open Data Index.

The Foundation supported the work of the interdepartmental open data group under the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine. Its activities included an audit of three ministries: the Ministry of Finance, the Ministry of the Economic Development and Trade, and the Ministry of Infrastructure. Based on the audit results, the Cabinet of Ministers passed a resolution “On the Sets of Data Subject to Disclosure in the Form of Open Data”. The SocialBoost NGO conducted trainings for government officials to work with big data sets and developed a manual on the use of open data.

The Foundation also supported a public awareness and advocacy campaign for amending the Ukrainian legislation on preventing and combating political corruption, including the provisions for the state funding of political parties. The law was passed by the Parliament of Ukraine in October 2015.

The Foundation supported the timely launch of the National Anti-Corruption Bureau of Ukraine (NABU). In particular, it supported the operation of the NABU in the transition period by helping the recruitment of the administrative personnel, informing and consulting the public on available job vacancies, as well as about the employment requirements and the necessary documents to be submitted by applicants. The Foundation’s support also enabled the creation and improvement of the website and facilitated the logistics for organizing and conducting qualification tests for the detectives.

The Foundation was a co-organizer of the International Anti-Corruption Conference, the participants of which included the President and the Prime Minister of Ukraine.

The Foundation organized a study visit of civil society activists to Romania and provided the opportunity to learn from the experience of Romanian corruption prevention and anti-corruption bodies as well as to establish collaboration with non-governmental organizations of the neighboring state.

In cooperation with the Parliamentary Committee on Prevention and Countering Corruption, the Foundation supported the organization of the selection, training and the ongoing operation of the Expert Council composed primarily of young lawyers. The Council works to ensure ongoing anti-corruption screening and analysis of draft laws formally registered in the Parliament of Ukraine. Most opinions of civil society experts (about 75%) were taken into account by the Parliamentary Committee members in the preparation of the Committee's opinions on the bills submitted for its review.

«Для корупціонерів важливо, щоб їх не могли обвинуватити у злочинань. Саме тому вони весь час намагаються створити або знайти в законах та інших нормативно-правових актах «корупційні лазівки» і продовжують зловживати за їх рахунок. Саме ці «лазівки» допомагають їм вирішувати справи в адміністративних органах і судах»

НАЙПОШИРЕНІШІ КОРУПЦІЙНІ «ЛАЗІВКИ»:

Combating corruption in the Health Ministry's public procurement

Taking the function of procurement of medicines from the Ministry of Health and transferring it to independent international organizations is an innovative solution, which, in Ukraine's reality, would allow overcoming corruption schemes elaborated over years and providing thousands of patients with necessary high quality medicines. The exposure of corruption in the public procurement in the Ministry of Health, a large scale advocacy campaign and expert work on the development and the approval of relevant legal instruments all led to essential changes in the system of public procurement of essential medicines.

The Foundation supported the Anti-Corruption Action Center to analyze public budget expenditures allocated for the procurement of medicines. Civic activists and experts monitored 90 tenders. They collected and analyzed information on manufacturing and distribution companies that have won public procurement tenders year after year, and provided a detailed analysis of the key corruption schemes used in the procurement of medicines. The study revealed a trend of major international pharmaceutical companies cooperating with Ukrainian distribution companies in a way that violates principles of fair competition on the market. The report produced by the Anti-Corruption Action Center became one of the key arguments and sources of evidence pointing out to the need to transfer the procurement of medicines function to international organizations.

With the support of the Foundation, the “Patients of Ukraine” Charitable Foundation partnered with legal professionals to draft the necessary bills to provide the legal environment enabling the transfer of the function of public procurement of medicines to independent international operators. Owing to direct actions by civil society organizations and a massive information campaign, relevant laws were passed in the spring of 2015. The laws came into force later in 2015. Hence international actors, including the UNDP, UNICEF, and the Crown Agents purchase medicines for Ukrainian patients with the public funds within 12 programs aiming at the treatment of HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis, hepatitis, cancer, children's hemophilia, cardio-vascular diseases. The total cost of public procurement of medicines is over UAH 2.197 billion.

In 2015, the Foundation aimed at the implementation of key components of the health care system reform, including creating models of new practices in selected regions, countering corruption in the health care public procurement sector, promoting and implementing the accountability approaches in the use of health care budgets, ensuring patients' rights to uninterrupted and adequate treatment, including that in detention and other closed institutions, as well as an access to treatment with controlled medications.

The Foundation focused on providing expertise and coordination in the development of the key areas of the healthcare reform in the county, performing the evaluation and identifying priority areas for the support; creating formats for exchange and sharing experience on accountable health financing; analysis, policy development and advocacy on issues of access to treatment with controlled medications.

Investigative journalism

In recent years investigative anti-corruption journalism has become one of the key factors of combatting corruption in Ukraine. Journalists' investigations have disclosed and publicized officials' corruption schemes. That is why in 2015 the International Renaissance Foundation continued to support and develop investigative journalism.

Thus, the Foundation supported “Our Money” project, whose resonant investigative reports helped bring to an end a number of decade-long corruption schemes, including the cancellation of the “invoices-certificates” issued by the traffic police, where the “margin of corruption” used to total about UAH 1 billion per year.

The Foundation also supported the “Garna Hata” (“Nice Home”) project, an online database of owners of the most expensive real estate in Ukraine. The database helps identify discrepancies between the value of property owned by public officials and their official incomes, as well as contains data on investigation of the major discrepancies.

The “Ukrainian Pravda” investigation on the business of Mykola Martnenko, MP, together with the overall media pressure, forced this Member of Parliament to resign.

IRF has funded a number of specialized training workshops on personal safety of journalists working in the field of anti-corruption, as well as in the armed conflict zone. Furthermore, two winners of the Best Special Feature Award (reporting from the zone of armed conflict) were able to attend a similar training in one of the best training centers for journalists in the UK.

International communication on reforms in Ukraine

International support is of major importance in the process of reforms. Therefore in 2015 the International Renaissance Foundation continued to promote the dialogue between the Ukrainian, European and American experts and the official EU institutions on the status and priorities of reforms in Ukraine as well as the instruments of facilitating the EU's support for reforms. To this end an in-depth review of the situation in Ukraine was performed within a series of international expert delegations' visits, including the European Council on Foreign Relations (ECFR), the Carnegie Europe Centre, the Center for Transatlantic Relations at John Hopkins University and the German Society for Foreign Policy (DGAP), that enabled the above expert opinion leaders in both the EU and the USA to argue for the need to increase their governments' attention to Ukraine as one of their countries' foreign policy priorities.

In 2015 the Foundation also supported 15 visits and events organized by 36 Ukrainian experts France, Germany, Spain, Greece, Czech Republic, Slovakia, Hungary, Latvia and the United States. In cooperation with the Open Society European Policy Institute, IRF prepared a series of expert reports on the EU-Ukraine Association Agreement implementation by Ukraine in 2014-2015 and presented them in the European Parliament. The reports focused on the justice reform, non-discrimination and combatting corruption.

The Foundation continued to support the Ukrainian Think Tank Liaison Office in Brussels, which is consistently working to deliver the Ukrainian expert opinions to the European politicians, officials, experts and journalists.

Promoting transparency in the energy sector

The International Renaissance Foundation has been working on promoting transparency in the extractive industries since 2008. The year of 2015 became crucial for Ukraine as it joined the international Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI). This independent standard of ensuring transparency is voluntarily endorsed internationally and requires an audit of payments made by companies, and revenues received by national governments from the development of national natural resources.

In December 2015 Ukraine prepared the first report (for 2013) within the framework of the EITI. This report revealed significant problems in the extractive industry and witnessed an actual inability to obtain fully accurate information about the state of oil and gas extraction in the country. The publication of this report was to a large extent assisted by a successful public advocacy campaign organized by a coalition of non-governmental organizations led by the DiXi Group NGO. The efforts resulted in the Parliament's adoption of a law that requires extractive companies to disclose relevant information.

The Foundation also supported the participation of leading civil society experts that work on the introduction of the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) and the Open Government Partnership Initiative in Ukraine, in a series of the international conferences, forums and seminars in Turkey, Mexico, Albania and other countries.

Development of independent think tanks

In 2014, the International Renaissance Foundation, in cooperation with the Think Tank Fund (TTF) of the Open Society Foundations, with the financial support of the Swedish International Development Agency (SIDA), launched the Think Tank Development Initiative in Ukraine. The aim of the Initiative, planned for four years, is to improve the quality and practice of decision making by the government bodies by enhancing the role, capacity, transparency of think tanks as well as the level of trust to them.

The main accomplishments of the Initiative in 2015 are as follows: strengthening governance, financial management and diversification of funding sources of partner think tanks; expansion of international cooperation with the European think tanks and broadening the thematic areas of work; deepening cooperation with the Ukrainian stakeholders.

The Initiative involved the development of three online courses: “Women and Men: Gender for All”, “Urban Studies: a Modern City”, “Sociology and Social Studies: What, How, Why”.

In 2015, following direct requests from the government agencies, the partner think tanks prepared three policy papers and launched three more analytical studies. Collaborative policy studies help establish dialogue and cooperation between the government bodies and think tanks. For example, the policy research performed by the Institute of World Policy for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Ukraine had an objective to study and analyze the world’s best practices of conflict resolution and provide recommendations for Ukraine on the security and political aspects of conflict resolution in the East.

The Initiative also involved a Think Tank Internship Program for University Students. The program was aimed at attracting university graduates to work with think tanks, promoting think tanks’ and analytical research practices, as well as popularizing the practice of student internships in NGOs and think tanks.

“Smart city”

With support of the Foundation, the civic council of the Kyiv City State Administration, which united activists, business people and local authorities, developed a Smart City Kyiv 2020 concept strategy. Implementation of the “smart city” strategy involves the introduction of a modern efficient model of city management, based on the use of newest ICT technologies. The Smart City system was also designed to employ technology for preventing and countering corruption, improving transparency and accountability of civil servants at all levels, and building collaborations with the society. An example is the Open Budget Tool operating with the Foundation’s support throughout 2015. The tool allows oversight over the city authorities by monitoring the local budget spending in every detail: by school, kindergarten, or any individual building in Kyiv.

Undeclared war and its consequences

Support for IDPs

The annexation of Crimea by the Russian Federation and the undeclared war in the Donbas in 2014-2015 led to massive violations of human rights in the annexed and occupied territories and significant involuntary displacement of citizens from those regions of Ukraine. Existing administrative and social institutions have been faced with the need to promptly address new challenges. Among the most pressing problems are employment, housing and integration of people in their new places of residence.

In 2015 the International Renaissance Foundation launched the Initiative to assist IDPs in Ukraine with the priority tasks, inter alia, to facilitate the access of IDPs to employment and the integration of IDPs in their new communities, and creating opportunities for IDPs to build and develop their own business startups.

Thus, within the framework of the New Countdown project, the Foundation supported the development of business initiatives of IDPs in Kyiv, Kharkiv, Odesa and Lviv. The “Crimean Diaspora” (Kyiv), Association of Private Employers, Charitable Organization “Station Kharkiv Charitable Fund”, Charitable Organization “Impact Hub Odesa International Charitable Fund”, and the Lviv regional “Business People’s Club” became partners of the Foundation. The project received 924 applications for the business training course; 483 persons were able to receive the business training, of which 243 submitted applications to get financial support for their newly-created business plans. 81 business plans presented by the trainees received grant funding enabling the IDPs to start their new businesses. The New Countdown project has become a successful business incubator model through a combination of efforts of IDPs, local business communities, and engaged volunteers.

Promoting Ukraine's interests abroad

In 2015 the International Renaissance Foundation continued its support to informing the international audience on the real state of affairs with the Ukrainian—Russian armed conflict and the need for continued international pressure on the aggressor.

In December 2015, the Foundation coordinated the publication of a comprehensive Report of Ukrainian independent experts on the implementation of the Minsk agreements. The report, addressed primarily to the international audiences, presented evidence of systematic violations and manipulations from the side of Russia and Russia-backed separatists; it provided statistics proving that the truce was systematically violated and the low-intensity armed conflict in the Donbas continued, jeopardizing the pursuit of a political solution to the conflict. The document became the first public report on the status of implementation of each provision of the Minsk agreements approved at the “Normandy Four” summit in February 2015. The report was published on the eve of the EU summit, which adopted a decision to extend economic sanctions against the Russian Federation for its aggression against Ukraine. The publication was a pilot report in the “Peace for Ukraine” publication series, which the Foundation will continue in 2016.

The Foundation also supported the Euromaidan Press Initiative, born during the Euromaidan as an independent public media outlet seeking to provide opportunities for all to write and translate materials in English and German language about the events, stories and trends in Ukraine and in the neighboring countries. The web resource also runs awareness campaigns in the social media, in particular, aimed at drawing the international attention to the Ukrainian political prisoners in Russia. It provides analysis and explanation of the key narratives of the Russian propaganda, facilitates the information networking and reports about actions of pro-Ukrainian activists in Europe and worldwide.

To facilitate better understanding of the internal debate in the EU countries on the developments in Ukraine, particularly in the context of the armed conflict organized by the Russian Federation on the Ukrainian territory, the Foundation supported the preparation and publication of 28 analytical articles “The Abduction of Europe” in Ukraine’s leading newspaper, “Mirror Weekly”. The articles analyzed Russia’s impact on politics and economies of the 28 EU member states, the impact of sanctions and the Russian “food embargo” on the EU member states’ economies, and the presence and activity of pro-Russian lobbies.

Support for the wounded and the ATO veterans

The International Renaissance Foundation supported an information campaign project aimed at raising funds needed to establish a palliative care department in the Central Military Clinical Hospital.

In August 2015 the Center for the Wounded and the Central Military Clinical Hospital have opened the palliative care department for the wounded ATO soldiers suffering from in coma or stupor or requiring the palliative care. The department, built entirely with charitable donations, is the first one of this kind opened in a medical institution administered by the Ministry of Defense of Ukraine and it a prototype of a military-medical hospice.

When transforming the hospital's old premises for their new function, the medical personnel of the Center for the Wounded consulted with experienced palliative care professionals on methodologies of provision of the palliative care for that group of patients. The cooperation with the Foundation enabled the new department's medical personnel to receive specialized training in the treatment and palliative care for the special patients. The result of this work was beyond the creation of hospital wards with monitors and artificial lungs ventilation machines: its primary focus was on ensuring proper conditions for patients and their relatives.

Monitoring and documenting human rights violations

In 2015 the International Renaissance Foundation continued its support for human rights organizations' initiatives aimed at collecting, documenting and publicizing the information on international crimes and massive human rights violations during the armed conflict in the East of Ukraine. The Foundation focused on facilitating cooperation of NGOs and civic initiatives with the International Criminal Court (ICC) on the investigation into crimes against humanity committed during the EuroMaidan.

The Foundation supported a group of human rights organizations to produce a public report “The Price of Freedom”, providing the documentation of crimes against humanity committed during the EuroMaidan. The report was presented to commemorate the anniversary of the shooting of public activists on 20 February 2015. The report became a public part of the database, the data for which were collected, systematized and transferred by the coalition of human rights organizations to the ICC to convince the ICC Prosecutor Office to open a full investigation into crimes against humanity committed in Ukraine. The report was also presented at the OSCE annual meeting in Warsaw.

The Foundation facilitated the communication between the Ukrainian government bodies and non-governmental organizations to ensure the public oversight of a national investigation of crimes against humanity. The Foundation supported the launch of the Lawyers' Advisory Group, an association of attorneys that represent interests of the 2013-2014 EuroMaidan victims. Attorneys of the Lawyers' Advisory Group conduct a parallel independent investigation into the crimes and cooperate with the Office of Special Investigations of the Office of Prosecutor General of Ukraine to investigate those crimes to help bring to justice those responsible for massive human rights violations during the EuroMaidan.

In spite of the lack of political will to ratify the Rome Statute, due to advocacy efforts of human rights organizations, the Ukrainian Parliament adopted the Second Declaration on recognition of the temporary jurisdiction of the ICC over international crimes committed during the armed conflict in the East of Ukraine. In response to the Declaration, in September 2015 the ICC Prosecutor expanded the scope of the preliminary investigations of international crimes beyond the EuroMaidan events to also cover further development in the East of Ukraine.

With support of the Foundation, the Justice for Peace in the Donbas, a coalition that currently unites 17 non-governmental organizations, continues to gather evidence and build a unified database of the massive human rights abuse that has taken and continues to take place in the East of Ukraine. The collected pieces of evidence can serve as the primary source of information about the committed crimes for future national and international investigations.

Journalism in the time of conflict

Through collaboration with the Program on Independent Journalism (PIJ) of the Open Society Foundations the International Renaissance Foundation supported the operation of the Joint Center for Safety of Journalists, organized in cooperation with the National Union of Journalists of Ukraine and Kyiv Independent Media Trade Union. Safety trainings conducted with participation of members of the International Federation of Journalists and attended by journalists from Kyiv and the regions of Ukraine, helped increase journalists' awareness of working in the zones of armed conflict.

The program “I Keep My Job” was designed to support the continued careers and strengthen professional qualifications of journalists who had been forced to leave the annexed Crimea or the conflict-stricken Donbas. Within the framework of this program the Foundation collaborated with the Internews Ukraine NGO to organize an open call for applications and awarded scholarships to displaced journalists from the Crimea and the occupied territories of the Donetsk and Luhansk regions to cover the cost of their employment in media outlets in other regions of Ukraine. The scholarship program directly benefitted 33 displaced journalists of the TV, radio, print and Internet media who had suffered from harassment, intimidation and obstruction of their professional activities in the temporarily annexed and occupied territories of Ukraine.

The Foundation also supported the StopFake journalism initiative. Established in early March 2014 at the Kyiv Mohyla School of Journalism with the aim to counter the Russian propaganda, StopFake has grown into a leading internationally recognized resource for fact-checking, known for its exposure of false information. StopFake campaigns for enhancing media literacy of the audience and for clear a division between facts-based journalism and propaganda.

Donetsk National University in Vinnytsia

Following the initiative of IRF's founder George Soros, the International Renaissance Foundation provided USD 350,000 as the institutional support to the Donetsk National University moved from the armed conflict zone to the city of Vinnytsia. The project looks beyond resuming the University's operations and aims at facilitating the implementation a strategic program of the innovative development of the Donetsk University.

The project provides for restoring the University's research infrastructure by launching a research laboratory for the science departments; creating a series of mobile computer classes with the use of the cloud technologies; the hardware and software for distance learning; support for the development of distance learning courses; creation of a language laboratory, a media laboratory and an electronic library. A significant focus is on the student self-government, international cooperation and fostering academic mobility of teachers and students.

Legal aid practice

In 2015, with the support of the International Renaissance Foundation and the Canadian project “Affordable and High Quality Legal Assistance in Ukraine”, the Ministry of Justice initiated the expansion of the network of free legal aid centers (LAC). Thus, in addition to 25 oblast-based regional centers, 100 local centers were opened to provide free legal aid at the district level, which is an important step in the development of access to justice in Ukraine. The Foundation provided technical support and expertise during the selection and training of the new centers’ personnel to ensure people’s access to high quality legal aid services. The work will continue in 2016, when IKRF plans to collaborate with the Ukrainian government and international partners to introduce 400 public “access points” as free legal aid instruments at the community level.

Besides increasing the outreach to the local level, the free legal aid system has seen substantial changes: a position of an “integrator”, funded through the state budget, was introduced in those centers. Integrators, who began their work in 2015, provide connections between the government bodies and NGOs, promote values of the free legal aid within local self-governance bodies, and assist the development of civil society at the district level.

In addition to assistance in criminal cases, the government has also undertaken to provide free legal aid in civil and administrative cases for individuals, who are unable to afford a lawyer, as provided by the Law of Ukraine “On Free Legal Aid”.

The image displays four posters arranged in a 2x2 grid, all in Ukrainian. Each poster features the logo of the Ministry of Justice of Ukraine (Міністерство юстиції України) in the top left corner. The posters contain the following text:

- Top-left poster: БЕЗОПЛАТНА ПРАВОВА ДОПОМОГА (Free legal aid). It features a large graphic of two brackets facing each other.
- Top-right poster: НЕ МАЄШ ВЛАСНОГО АДВОКАТА? ВИМАГАЙ АДВОКАТА ЗА РАХУНОК ДЕРЖАВИ (Don't have your own lawyer? Demand a lawyer from the state). It includes the phone number 0 800 21 31 03 and the website www.legalaid.gov.ua.
- Bottom-right poster: НІЧОГО НЕ ПІДПИСУЙ БЕЗ АДВОКАТА (Do not sign anything without a lawyer). It includes the phone number 0 800 21 31 03 and the website www.legalaid.gov.ua.

Access to legal information and consultations

Civil society organizations are among the principle providers of legal aid and access to legal information at the community level. Since 2010, the International Renaissance Foundation has supported over 30 such organizations in 20 regions of Ukraine. NGOs administer centers of legal information and consultation, in which individuals can seek assistance in resolving their land, labor, family and other issues and disputes.

In 2015, centers of legal information and consultation decided to unite in a civic association with a shared vision and mission to ensure a more efficient development of the free legal aid system and promote the development of local programs expected to provide a stable foundation and financing of access to justice for the poor and vulnerable groups of population. The association plans to address the issues of standardization and quality of the primary legal aid, the development of best practices, and advocacy in local councils.

The centers of legal information and consultation also provide free legal aid to participants of the Anti-terrorist Operation and their families, help IDPs, gather information, document violations, collect evidence of ruination on the liberated territories of the Donbas, develop practices of mediation and alternative dispute resolution, and disseminate legal information materials.

In 2015 local programs of provision of free legal aid were adopted in ten communities. The Legal Space Information Resource Center provided legal assistance online to visitors from any region of Ukraine.

The International Renaissance Foundation supported individual centers of legal information and consultation, as well as the civic association that has united such centers.

Monitoring human rights in places of non-freedom

The National Preventive Mechanism (NPM) is an independent national body established and operating under the Optional Protocol to the UN Convention against Tortures (OPCAT). The NPM aims at providing regular monitoring of all places of non-freedom in order to prevent ill-treatment and abuse of persons held therein. The NPM has been in operation in Ukraine since 2012.

The NPM's mandate covers about 6,000 places of non-freedom countrywide. All those places are subject to regular monitoring visits by representatives of the Office of the Ukrainian Parliament's Commissioner for Human Rights (Ombudsman) and the community of civil society monitors of the NPM. IRF's focus in 2015 was on supporting the development of the community of civic monitors.

The Foundation launched a comprehensive specialized training of the NPM monitors based on the analysis of their needs and requests. IRF supported the development and launch of eight specialized trainings on topics and methodologies including the conduct of monitoring interviews and specificities of monitoring visits to psychiatric institutions and children's institutions. A database of the information gathered in the course of the monitoring visits has been designed and launched. The database contains detailed reports on each visit, based on common indicators, and enables obtaining analytical data summarizing the entire information gathered within the three years of the NPM activity in Ukraine.

The community of NPM monitors has received opportunities to communicate the human rights problems of the places of non-freedom to external audiences, and to build up the monitor's communications and media outreach skills. As a result, the level of media coverage of challenges and abuse faced by people in detention has significantly improved.

New forms of the NPM monitors' work in the regions were introduced, including the regional and local cluster meetings and the combination of the visits with trainings and engagement with the local mass media. This resulted in more active involvement of monitors in the visits, improved cooperation between civic monitors and the NPM staff, improved monitoring skills, and a growing attention of the local government bodies and local mass media to the situation in places of detention and other closed settings.

Being a reliable partner to the Ukrainian Parliament's Commissioner for Human Rights in the implementation of the NPM, and covering the great number of places of non-freedom that exist in Ukraine requires a strong and capable community of NPM monitors. This objective will be pursued through the ongoing search for new forms of engagement, particularly at the regional and community levels, based on the process launched in 2015.

Combating discrimination in employment

As a part of Ukraine's commitments to the EU, in particular, regarding the implementation of the procedure of prohibiting discrimination in the workplace, the national charitable organization "Fulcrum" initiated the Ukrainian Corporate Equality Index created in 2015 in partnership with the Women's Consortium of Ukraine, the National Assembly of People Living with Disabilities and the Anti-Discrimination Coalition with the support of the International Renaissance Foundation.

The Ukrainian Corporate Equality Index is the first national survey of corporate policies, rules and practices of the Ukrainian business regarding the prohibition of discrimination in the workplace and ensuring equality and diversity. The authors of the study focused on finding the best examples from among the Ukrainian business companies to identify to what extent the companies are willing to protect their employees from discrimination based on such features as sex, disability, sexual orientation and gender identity.

In 2015, a number of Ukrainian companies with international capital, including Auchan Ukraine, the British Council in Ukraine, GFK Ukraine, LIGA: Law of Ukraine, the Fortune Club, the SoftCom Group, the World Staff, and the AmericanMedicalCenters demonstrated high ratings in compliance with the European standards of human rights at work and were ranked among "The Best Places of Work".

The screenshot shows the website for the Ukrainian Corporate Equality Index. The header includes the logo 'INDEX' and the tagline 'Попередження та протидія дискримінації в трудовій сфері'. Access to pain management and substitution therapy Ensuring adequate access to treatment with controlled medicines and reducing the criminalization of people who use drugs have been among the priorities of the International Renaissance Foundation for many years. In 2015 the Foundation continued this line of work by bringing in people of arts in order to build awareness of the issues of palliative care and access to pain management.

Oscar and the Pink Lady is a charity theater project based on the world-famous text by Eric-Emmanuel Schmitt. The performance, featuring a famous Ukrainian actress Irma Vitovska, was directed by Rostyslav Derzhypilsky, with the music of the Ocean Elzy, artist Andrey Yermolenko, choreographer Olga Semoshkina and actors of the Ivano-Frankivsk regional academic Ivan Franko Ukrainian Music and Drama Theater named after Ivan Franko. The aim of the performance is to raise charitable donations for creating outreach palliative care units in Ivano-Frankivsk, Kharkiv and Lutsk.

The performance, premiered at the Kyiv National Academic Operetta Theater on October 11, 2015, was a great success in different regions of Ukraine (Kharkiv, Odessa, and Lviv) and became an occasion to start a creative and a broader public debate on the need to create an adequate system of palliative care for seriously ill children in Ukraine.

Every year the Foundation supports awareness-raising and artistic events dedicated to the World Palliative Care Day. One of the most interesting projects in 2015 was the initiative of the Cherkassy Regional Fine Arts Museum and the Three Dots Creative Union. The initiative's art classes engaged little artists, patients undergoing cancer treatment at the regional oncology and hematology department in the Cherkasy Regional Oncology Center, in creating the Wonder Animals coloring books.

All wonder animals were presented at the Cherkasy Regional Fine Arts Museum during the Land of Children's Dreams, an arts exhibition and at a round table with representatives of the city authorities and the regional state administrations on issues of providing palliative care in the region.

The Wonder Animals color book includes a short story that invites little painters to participate in transforming the black-and-white animals into bright fairy tale heroes.

Equal opportunities for Roma communities

In democratic societies, respect for minority rights is an important theme of the public and political discourse. Tolerance, non-discrimination, equal rights and opportunities are inalienable values, on which the open society is based. The situation of the Roma and the society's attitude to this minority is an indicator of the level of liberal-democratic values' prominence in a state.

In 2015, with the support of the International Renaissance Foundation, a number of human rights organizations conducted a survey within the Monitoring of implementation of the Strategy for Social Protection and Integration of the Roma national minority into the Ukrainian society. The survey results show that the Roma, whose numbers in Ukraine are estimated to be up to 400 000 persons, is a socially vulnerable national minority suffering from multiple discriminations. Seen as ethnically distinct, they face employment challenges for the reasons of low level education (24% never attended school); live in isolation (in compact settlements in a number of regions of Ukraine); do not have identification documents (23% do not have passports), thus, they are denied an access to basic opportunities.

Special attention should be given to the issue of the Roma's limited access to education, which is the greatest barrier to their social integration. In particular, the situation is critical in compact settlements where the so-called "segregated" or "Roma" schools still exist. In such areas Responsible Parenthood Centers were created by the "Step by Step" Charitable Foundation with support of the Open Society Foundations and the IRF. There, community members teach parents how to raise children, provide early development program, and explain procedures of enrolment and preparing children for school. Those centers operate in Uzhgorod, Odessa, Lutsk, and Zolotonosha (Cherkasy region).

Furthermore, attention is given to higher education. Thus, in 2015, 120 young Roma received scholarships to enroll in Ukraine's higher educational institutions. The Law and Humanities Scholarship Program is funded by the Roma Education Fund (Hungary) and managed by IRF.

The Foundation provides support to Legal Aid Centers in Roma compact settlements in the Transcarpathian, Odesa, Cherkasy, Chernihiv, and Kharkiv regions. Most of the Centers' lawyers are Roma who received education; now they help other Roma receive passports and settle their land ownership issues. They provide explanations regarding social protection and support local Roma in their efforts to create their local community-based self-organization bodies. For example, in Mukachevo and Svalyava of the Transcarpathian region local Roma communities joined efforts in order to address improvement of their territories with the help of legal instruments.

In 2015 the Foundation also supported improving Roma's access to healthcare services by supporting the work of 15 social and health mediators in six regions of Ukraine, coordinated by the Charitable Women Fund Chirikli.

Seeing the support for responsible leadership as a precondition for positive change, the Foundation focused on developing Roma youth leadership. In 2015, 47 young Roma activists were trained in human rights and countering discrimination, advocacy and public awareness campaigns. 18 of them later joined as interns at local government bodies in six regions of Ukraine, five members of the training course took part in international exchanges and events addressing the human rights and social integration of Roma in Poland and Hungary.

Achieving systemic change for the Roma is possible only with the engagement of the state. To create conditions for such systemic changes and ensure the participation of both the Roma community and the government, the Roma Expert Coalition, with the support of the Foundation, the Office of the Ukrainian Parliamentary Commissioner for Human Rights, and the European Center for Roma Rights (Hungary), conducted the monitoring of the Roma strategy implementation and presented the results to the national and international institutions. The Coalition's efforts resulted in the establishment of a special advisory body (working group) under the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, which will be specifically responsible for matters of the public policy on Roma.

European Integration of Ukraine

European Neighborhood Policy

In 2015 the support of the International Renaissance Foundation contributed to strengthening the voice of the Ukrainian civil society in the EU debates on the revision of the EU policy towards the neighbor countries. The delegation of the Ukrainian National Platform of the Civil Society Forum submitted a symbolic Ukraine's application for the EU membership at the civil society conference dedicated to the Eastern Partnership Summit in Riga in May 2015. In summer 2015, the Foundation, in cooperation with the Ukrainian civil society experts, presented their proposals for the revision of the European Neighborhood Policy.

Visa-free regime

Throughout 2015, prospects of a visa-free regime with the EU for Ukraine were widely discussed in the public space. The EU had provided the relevant list of criteria for visa-free regime, outlined in the Visa Liberalization Action Plan (VLAP) back in 2010, and since then the public monitoring and advocacy for the VLAP implementation has been ongoing. The IRF supported the monitoring of implementation of the visa liberalization provisions performed by the Europe without Barriers.

Efforts of many engaged civic activists, politicians, civil servants and journalists enabled a significant level of attention to the visa-free regime issues by the society, as well as by the President, the Government and the Parliament, which ensured the adoption of necessary decisions and laws. As a result, in December 2015 the European Commission recommended the EU member states to grant the visa-free regime to Ukraine in 2016.

Support to the implementation of the Association Agreement

Proper implementation of Ukraine's commitments under the Association Agreement is a great challenge for public institutions; at the same time it belongs to the priority interests of the society that has made its European choice. In 2015 the Foundation collaborated with key public institutions in order to strengthen their capacity to ensure an adequate quality of organization and operations required for the implementation of the Association Agreement at all levels of the executive and legislative power.

The Foundation provided expert assistance to the Government Office for European Integration in organizing the process of implementation of the Association Agreement. In particular, this assistance aimed at ensuring professional presentation of the publicly available information on the state of implementation of the Association Agreement at the government's web portal and in the media. IRF also supported the preparation and English translation of regular public reports on the state of the Agreement implementation and the Association Agenda priorities. The Foundation's support enabled improving the inter-agency reporting methodology, facilitating updates to the Agreement implementation plans, and conducting a series of thematic consultations with civil society experts and analysis of issues of coordination of the international financial and technical assistance.

With the support of the Foundation, experts of the Laboratory for Legislative Initiatives, in cooperation with the USAID-funded program "RADA: Responsible Accountable Democratic Assembly", implemented a project to support institutional and procedural transformations in the Parliament. As a result of the surveys, consultations and discussions with MPs, their assistants, officials of the Secretariats, independent experts, the analytical report was published in The Parliament journal, addressing a number of problem areas in the operations and procedures of the Parliament of Ukraine, as well as the proposals on possible approaches to improving the Parliament's operation. Those recommendations were provided to the Parliamentary Staff, Members of Parliament and the expert mission of the European Parliament to contribute to the development of a road map of reforms of the Ukrainian Parliament based on the European parliamentary practices and experience.

Civil society platforms for European integration

In 2015 the International Renaissance Foundation continued to support the Ukrainian part of the EU-Ukraine civil society platform (UP CSP), a bilateral authority created under the Association Agreement. The Foundation's support was aimed at ensuring the operation of the permanent secretariat of the UP CSP and the conduct of the Second Assembly of the UP CSP in December 2015. The Assembly was attended by about 200 representatives of NGOs, trade unions and employers' organizations.

Furthermore, within the framework of cooperation with the Ukrainian national platform of the Eastern Partnership Civil Society Forum, the Seventh Annual meeting of the Eastern Partnership Civil Society Forum was held in Kyiv in November 2015. The Civil Society Forum was held in Ukraine for the first time in the history of the Eastern partnership. About 300 delegates from six countries of the Eastern Partnership region (Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, Moldova and Ukraine) as well as the EU Member States took part in this Forum.

Ukraine-EU:
preparations to
Free Trade Area

Explaining the EU–Ukraine Association Agreement to Ukrainians

Signing the EU-Ukraine Association Agreement has opened new opportunities for Ukraine and its citizens, such as the access to the EU markets for the Ukrainian producers and strengthening the rights of citizens in relations with the government and the business sector. The Association Agreement has also brought new challenges relating to the implementation of the governance and management models and of new requirements and standards for producers. To facilitate a better awareness of the Association Agreement, the International Renaissance Foundation continued to support outreach projects related to the operation in the conditions of the implementation of the Association Agreement.

The Foundation supported the Internews Ukraine to hold 10 seminars in different cities of Ukraine for small and medium-sized businesses with the European integration experts and business consultants to discuss practical hands-on experience of Ukrainian entrepreneurs working on the EU market. Based on discussions, the experts prepared a manual “How to enter the EU market under conditions of the free trade?” the manual covers a variety of practical aspects of entering the European market for Ukrainian producers and provides answers to the questions most frequently asked by Ukrainian entrepreneurs.

With the support of the Foundation, the Siversky Institute of Regional Studies developed and presented the “Association Agreement: Tips for Rural Households”, a user-friendly set of recommendations and visuals for Ukrainian farmers. The publication was presented and discussed in district centers of Kirovograd, Chernihiv and Poltava regions. It demonstrated potential benefits of the Association Agreement for small Ukrainian farmers due to the opening of the European markets and provided recommendations to the local authorities on the development of rural areas and assistance to small farmers.

The demand of our time for all Ukrainian mass media is to improve the level of knowledge of journalists on European integration, since after signing the Association Agreement the European integration has become an important component of Ukraine’s domestic policy. Thus, in 2015 the Foundation sought to contribute to boosting the media potential and civic journalism for professional, objective and interesting coverage of European integration. The IRF-supported projects enabled over 200 journalists in different regions of Ukraine to take part in trainings, seminars and media schools on European integration.

The Foundation also supported the European Pravda, a leading online media specializing in highlighting the issues of the European integration and international politics. The European Pravda became a source of news and analytical information used by politicians and civil servants, employees of the EU institutions, journalists of many Ukrainian electronic and print media and all interested readers (total number of site visits exceeds 100 thousand per day).

The environmental section of the European integration reforms in the Association Agreement is considered to be one of the most expensive and complex for implementation. To improve understanding of those tasks, IRF provided support to experts of the MAMA-86 NGO to produce a manual “How Will the Implementation of the EU—Ukraine Association Agreement Impact the Environment?” The manual provides a detailed outline of Ukraine’s commitments, the implementation time frames, the obligations of the Ukrainian authorities and the industrial sector, and the role of the Agreement in protection of the people’s environmental rights. It facilitates a better understanding of potential positive effects of the changes on Ukrainians’ health and life expectancy.

INTERNATIONAL RENAISSANCE FOUNDATION

1. BASIS OF PREPARATION

These summary financial statements are derived from the audited financial statements of International Renaissance Foundation as at and for the year ended 31 December 2015 prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards, and comprise the summary statement of financial position as at 31 December 2015, the summary statements of profit or loss and other comprehensive income, changes in fund balance (equity) and cash flows for the year then ended, and related notes.

The Foundation maintains its underlying accounting records in Ukrainian hryvnias ("UAH"). Management identified the Ukrainian hryvnia ("UAH") as the functional currency. Accordingly, all currencies other than UAH are treated as foreign currencies. However, the US dollar remains the presentation currency of International Renaissance Foundation for the benefit of its users.
